A WORD FOR BUSINESS

The editorial columns of the nation's papers perhaps pay too little homage to the business man. We refer to the average man engaged in an average county like Boone, who helps the community and his neighbors, tries to weather each economic storm that hits, hopes to hold his own and balance the ledger to everybody's satisfaction. The days of the head or boss having the easy time is past. It is the headache of business men to meet present day regulations imposed by state and nation, of union demands, of changing markets, of budgets and balance sheets, of innumerable taxes, of wage and hour laws.

The business man is called upon to support local projects, is asked to subscribe and sponsor to many civic programs. He enters into it with a good public spirit although the duties and responsibilities of his business have increased to where they become quite a burden. Man has made business more complex but that is to be expected since there is so much more of it, covering increased territory and concerning more individuals. The troubles of our business men have been heard and his plea for consideration been registered. He may be under-paid and over-taxed, but he will not be unappreciated by this column. A tribute to the honest business man who backs the nation with his economic bit and who helps to make this a country of individuals.

ALMOST HERE

It will soon begin in our neighborhood, the commencement of hay fever for those unfortunate ones who suffer from this demon. Too bad there is only temporary relief offered for the complaint although each year finds new aids to combat the fever. The chief plant that is commonly held as the cause of the most discomfort, is ragweed. Any of us who might hold land that grows ragweed are surely humanitarian enough to cut it down. The pollen of this weed becomes most troublesome during August and it is well to begin work on those that are flourishing and remove some of the cause right now. A botanist who makes a study of pollen conditions warns us that this year will find hay fever the worst it has been in history. The middle west will suffer especially. We have had such an excessive amount of wet weather this spring and this stimulates the growth. Due to the drought of last summer which killed vast areas of grass, the ragweed has had more room in which to grow. So grab a sickle and do your bit in the name of hay fever. We in Boone County will be well repaid for our efforts when we consider the relief we are giving the sufferers.

MORE LIKE IT

A friend who recently returned from a lengthy auto tour of miles covering a goodly part of the country, states that there is a great improvement in the eating accommodations that greet you while motoring today. The way-side restaurant of greasy-spoon type is out, and to take its place we find clean, wholesome looking restaurants that offer good cooking both in short orders and regular dinners, at reasonable prices and with pleasant service. In order to be in the swim the modern eating place has to keep up in decoration as well. With circulars printing data of towns, hotels and restaurants for the tourist, it is good business to cater to this means of advertising. All those who travel will welcome improvements in accommodations they encounter on their way.

BIRTH CERTIFICATES

The war has brought something else to our shores. We have come birth certificate conscious where of old we didn't give much thought to the matter. It does not concern only those foreign born or of foreign parentage, but it reaches out to Americans who can trace their ancestors back to the wampum days. Workmen, engaged in the production of war materials, are required to show birth certificates. Then too, tourists leaving this country, going to Canada, especially must show a certificate of birth upon entry to this country. Many others are asking for information regarding certificates and others who are becoming more interested. The man who sat behind the desk in the 'birth certificate department' is having more work to do.

EATING OUT

It seems to us that folks are doing more cooking in the out-of-doors. They build grates and fireplaces in back yards these days, and where there isn't room for this a portable stove or charcoal burner comes in handy. Rare indeed to find a man who doesn't enjoy officiating at a picnic where he can broil the steaks over a hot bed of coals while the coffee boils, the potatoes baking in the embers, making ready to burst their jackets. Perhaps the corn is tied inside its husk and lies on the coals as it cooks to a king's taste. More families are having their suppers in the yard where they put up a card table, carry out trays and take advantage of the weather for an out-of-doors feast.

Rest is not idleness, and to lie sometimes on the grass under the trees on a summer's day, listening to the murmur of water, or watching the clouds float across the sky, is by no means waste of time.

—J. Lubbock.

IMPROVED
UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Dean of the Moody Bible Institute

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for July 28

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts are selected and copyrighted by International Council of the Sunday School Union.

WEIGHING CONSEQUENCES
A Principle of Temperate Living

LESSON TEXT—Proverbs 1:7-10; Isaiah 5:11-12; Galatians 6:7-8.
GOLDEN TEXT—Godliness is profitable unto all things, because it has the promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come.—1 Timothy 4:8.

An intelligent approach to life calls for an understanding of principles governing thought and action. Our lesson for today recognizes that every act and thought of man brings consequences, either good or bad. Man himself must make the decisions of life, and what he sows he must also reap.

Matters of crucial importance to modern young people are involved in our lesson. They are asking for, but they are not getting, the voice, or is that just old-fashioned nonsense? What about obeying parents? Should I drink intoxicants? "Everybody" does why should I be different? Of course I don't want to be a drunkard or ruin my future life, but I'd like to have "my fling"—can't I have it and still avoid disastrous consequences?

The answers to these questions are in our lesson. May God help young people to find the right answers, and enable every teacher to present the truth clearly and effectively.

I. Safe Counsel (Prov. 1:7-10).

No sane person wants to make a fool of himself. He is looking for the right way and will lend his ear to good counsel. Here it is—"The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge" (R. V., "wisdom"). Fear of God is not a cringing terror, but a sincere appreciation of His wisdom and a desire to do His will. The best counselors a boy or girl has are father and mother. Only a fatherless boy or girl has the opportunity of profiting by their experiences and avoiding their mistakes, and will miss the opportunity of carrying forward their high hopes.

Those who fear God and honor their parents will not be misled by the enticement of sinners (v. 10). They will not "consent," and that settles it.

II. Steps to Ruin (Isa. 5:11, 12, 13-23).

Isaiah lived and ministered in a time of prosperity, which led to drunkenness and immorality. This led to the decay and destruction of the nation. We face similar moral conditions today. Let us not shut our eyes to the lesson so clearly repeated in history and false security go on to national ruin.

We need outspoken and determined opposition in civic, social and religious matters to the law of the land and to all the vices that follow inevitably in its train. The portion of our lesson from Isaiah vividly portrays the downward path of the drunkard and the immoral. Ponder it well, young man and young woman.

III. Seedtime and Harvest (Gal. 6:7-9).

Everywhere about him man sees the inexcusable operation of the law of cause and effect, of sowing and reaping, and yet he listens to the lies of Satan and of his own lustful heart and tries to convince himself that the law may be suspended in the realm of the moral and spiritual.

Sowing to the flesh always brings corruption. No matter how well educated, no matter what his position in life, or his family connection, the man who takes his first drink has started on the road to a drunkard's grave. Statistics reveal that the victims of drink come from every strata of society and every circumstance of life. Young people, the sure way to avoid the consequences is to not take the first drink of the devil.

Sowing to the Spirit brings "life everlasting." That, too, is always true. There is also another precious truth; namely, that by turning to Christ the one who has begun on the downward path may stay the ruinous hand of sin upon his life. Taking Christ as his Saviour, he finds regeneration and renewal of life.

The Works of the Lord
Praise ye the Lord. I will praise the Lord with my whole heart, in the assembly of the upright, and in the congregation. The works of the Lord are great, sought out of all them that have pleasure therein.—Psalm 111:1, 2.

As Lambs Among Wolves
Go your ways: behold, I send you forth as lambs among wolves. Carry neither purse, nor scrip, nor shoes; and salute no man by the way. And into whatsoever house ye enter, first say, Peace be unto this house.—Luke 10:3-5.

One Point of View
If we can not hope that life will be all happiness we may, at least, secure a heavy balance on the right side.

The God Within
"God worketh in you." This implies the actual presence of God at the center of our being.

Come what may, there is little that could take away the appetite of Boone Countians for good old corn and beans.

Too many promises made by politicians are not pre-shrunk.

ATTACHMENTS

Housewives often buy extras for vacuum sweepers which they will never need. Others will own attachments that would be most useful but are never taken from the box. This holds true in the case of attachments for the sewing machine. There are booklets that come with the attachments to show how they work. These are often savers of money, energy and time.

200 COMMUNITIES WILL DEDICATE THE SOUTH'S NEW PLAYGROUND

The seven states of the Tennessee Valley will unite on Labor Day week-end to dedicate the chain of lakes that are being impounded above the TVA power dams. The completed series will embrace ten lakes on the main channel of the river. These stretch for 550 miles from Paducah east to Knoxville. Navigation of the full length of the series is made possible by locks and a constant 8-foot channel which connects this inland waterway with the Mississippi and the sea. Dedicated as the "Great Lakes of the South" this sheltered waterway will form a new national park and playground that will bring increasing thousands of vacationists to the area. The ceremonies will be held on Chickamauga lake, at Chattanooga. The three-day program will include a water carnival with a naval float parade, championship speed boat races, an air show with land and sea planes in war maneuvers and with night flights through a sweeping web of antiaircraft beams and a ground barrage of fireworks. There will be a horse show, two spectacular ball and, perhaps, America's first preparedness parade - impressive columns of totally mechanized army units that will dramatize America's answer to the need for an armored fighting force. The program opens with the all-south "Cotton Ball" on August 30, followed by three full days of spectacular events.

MAKE THE MOST OF IT

Pasture is nature's milk-making gift to every cow owner. But grass needs to be balanced with a mixed grain ration to keep cows in good condition and at top production.

What farmer, feeding in the winter, would feed his dairy cows hay alone? Few indeed! But it is just as logical to feed hay alone during the winter as it is to turn the cows out on pasture and give them no grain ration.

For sections where the farmer raises his own grain, the Purina Experimental Farm has worked out a special mixed grain ration for cows on pasture. It makes use of home grains and consists of 300 pounds of corn and cob meal, 200 pounds of cracked oats, and 200 pounds of 34% Cow Chow. On lush pasture, this is fed at the rate of one pound to every six pounds of milk given by Jerseys and Guernseys and one pound to every eight pounds of milk given by Holsteins and Ayrshires. As the season advances and grass loses more and more of its stimulation, the amount of mixed grain ration to be fed is increased enough to hold up production.

Heavier Feeding
When pastures become burned and dried up, something extra must be fed in addition to the mixed grain ration to hold up production. For this job it is recommended that each cow be given one gallon of Purina Bulky 1 morning and night. This feed is very palatable, laxative, and supplies some of the nutrients that dried-up pastures lack. Hardly enough can be said about the milk-producing qualities of Bulky 1 on dried-up pastures. Fed with the regular mixed grain ration the cows are getting, it does a splendid job.

OUR CAMPAIGNS
With the stirring effect of the national conventions out of our native systems, we relax and rest up to be in political shape for the fall election to come. This nation has chosen its leaders to represent the major parties.

We do not want the party system to disappear for then indeed would we be a lost nation. It is this opposition in politics that gives a democratic government its life. It is the universal hope that each party try to outdo each other in offering the public wiser heads to forms. If such competition for a higher rating develops more character and better government than offer the public wiser heads to lead it, then is such guidance blessed by a two-party system where voters have a choice in the naming of their president. There was an especial seriousness and purposefulness in the campaigns which try for building strength and unity, which hope for prosperity and freedom.

In opposition there is a challenge and in a challenge there is the wish to offer the voter something so much superior to the other fellow's product that there can be no doubt in the fall. We mark time in Boone County until the election. We study, discuss, praise, condemn—but guide us to be fair.

FARM INCOMES UP IN TWO COUNTIES

Good crop yields, favorable prices, increases in beef cattle production and large government payments gave farmers in Union and Henderson counties, Kentucky, better incomes last year than in 1938. It is revealed in a report of the State College of Agriculture. Incomes, however, were under those of 1937.

The average net earnings of 85 farmers in the two counties was $1,904 last year. Fourteen farmers who had kept records for four years made an average of nearly $300 more last year than in 1938. However, their 1939 earnings were almost $500 less than the $2,240 they earned in 1937.

The records included farms of all sizes varying from 55 to 622 acres of tillable land. The net earnings of 32 farms averaging 124 tillable acres was $886 per farm, including $326 for products used by the family. Twenty-six farms averaging 224 tillable acres made $984 per farm, including $457 per farm of products used by the family. Twenty-seven farms averaging 395 tillable acres made $1,405 per farm, including $495 per farm in products used by the family.

Beef cattle production has increased steadily in Union and Henderson counties for several years, and income from cattle now is second only to income from hogs. More money from beef cattle and better income from crops last year offset the decrease in hog receipts caused by lower hog prices.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

Perry county's 4-Hers who received hybrid corn to plant report prospects for a bumper crop. Twenty more Grayson county farmers have started laying off terraces.

Two hundred and thirty tons of superphosphate have been spread in Carroll county since Jan. 1. Remodeling of tobacco barns, and adding ventilators, have been conducted extensively in Calhoun county.

More than 200 Scott county farm men and women are growing live-at-home gardens. Lamb grading demonstrations in five Meade county communities recently attracted many farmers.

Rupert Rees, Bracken county Utopia club member, will grow the county's first hybrid corn. Casey county's potato production will be doubled, as a result of the live-at-home campaign.

Tom E. Baldwin, Madison county, sold a pen of purebred lambs on the Richmond market at 60 cents above the top pen of the day. In Breckinridge county, it is estimated 10,000 square yards of tobacco plant beds were treated with lime and bluestone.

Caldwell county farmers have ordered large numbers of purebred rams through a cooperative agency. A survey shows that in Wayne county, ewes purchased last summer have returned good profits in most cases.

Not many folks put off going home to dinner when fresh vegetables abound in local gardens. The secret of a man's success, is one secret that we would all like to pass along.

PARITY PAYMENTS

ADD $709,574 TO KENTUCKY INCOME
Kentucky farmers growing wheat, corn or cotton are receiving a total of $709,574 in parity payments under the 1939 price adjustment program, the State office of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration announces.

These parity payments, which supplement conservation payments of $9,847,597 to farmers of the State, are made to producers of one or more of the three commodities in 91 Kentucky counties. The total amount includes county association expenses connected with administration of the price adjustment program.

Parity payments are being made to Kentucky producers of the same three commodities in the 1940 program. To date 7,171 applications for 1940 wheat parity payments have been audited in the State Agricultural Adjustment Administration office and forwarded to Washington, and many of these wheat payments have been made.

Rates of the parity payments under the 1940 price adjustment program are: Wheat, 10 cents a bushel; corn, 5 cents a bushel; and cotton, 1.55 cents a pound. All payments are based on the normal yield of each farmer's allotment under the 1940 Agricultural Conservation program.

THE FARM AND HOME

Dullness and lack of thrift are among the first symptoms of stomach-worm infestation in sheep. The skin loses its pink color and becomes pale, and the mouth and eyelids present a pale appearance due to an impoverished condition of the blood.

An important part of the canning equipment is the rubber ring which seals the jar. It is considered poor economy to buy cheap, inferior jar rubbers or use old ones, because they may not make a perfect seal and the products canned may spoil.

Salt is the principal mineral needed by livestock. Most good stock raisers keep salt before cattle, sheep, hogs and work stock in boxes protected from the rain. Many farmers favor granulated salt over rock salt. To make at home a fly paper to catch flies, heat two pounds of rosin and a pint of castor oil. While hot, spread this combination with a brush on ordinary paper. Such paper also may be purchased at most stores.

In making jellies, some housewives prefer to use a fourth to a half slightly under-ripe fruit, so as to be sure the juice will jell, and a half to three-fourths well-ripened fruits to furnish flavor and color. All fruit should be sound and firm.

KENTUCKY LAMBS HOLD TOP PLACE

Kentucky spring lamb producers have little to fear from California competition, R. F. Miller, Pacific Coast sheep expert, told a state meeting of sheep raisers at the Agriculture Experiment Station at Lexington. Kentucky lambs are better bred and better fed. They usually sell a cent or two a pound higher than California lambs. Most California lambs are born in December, and are sold a month or more ahead of the Kentucky crop.

The Lexington meeting was held to encourage Kentucky farmers to use a good type of western ewe, in order to produce a large crop of prime lambs, and also to secure good fleeces. Several farmers related their experiences with sheep, and buyers discussed selling prices of various types of lambs.

Meetings of sheep raisers also were held at Springfield, Bowling Green, Elizabethtown and other points over the state.

At the annual Central Kentucky 4-H club and Future Farmers lambs show and sale in Lexington, club members showed 616 lambs from 17 counties. They weighed an average of 79 pounds and brought an average of $11.35 a hundred.

Julian Jennette of Jessamine county had the champion 4-H club lamb, and Mary F. Greene, Clark county, the reserve champion. They sold for $30 and $31 a hundred, respectively. Jessamine county furnished the best pen of 15 lambs with Montgomery county second.

ARE WE ANY WISER?

There is plenty of criticism of the European democracies for what some consider their astonishing failure to recognize in time the fast-growing military power of the dictator nations, and to prepare to meet it.

Informed commentators are now asking if we are any wiser. We have the same chance to prepare that England and France had a few years ago. Will we do it, with maximum efficiency and minimum waste—or will we permit red tape and politics to make our defense program ineffective?

MOST STRAWBERRIES PROPERLY LABELLED

A large percentage of strawberries grown commercially in Kentucky this season were graded and labelled as required by the new State Marking and Labelling Act, according to a report of Director Thomas H. Hays of the Agriculture Experiment Station.

The State Legislature provided no funds for administering the new law, and it was made effective only through contributions and other assistance on the part of growers interested in methods of selling that would mean higher prices for berries. Funds were supplied by growers in Jefferson, McCracken and Warren counties for the employment of four inspectors. These inspectors, assisted by interested growers, did a large amount of educational work among truckers and producers, to acquaint them with the provisions and purposes of the law, and to correct mis-conceptions that had got abroad. Practically all opposition disappeared when growers understood that proper grading and marking would mean better prices and more money from the crop.

It is estimated that 90 percent of all strawberries shipped from the Purchase counties of Western Kentucky were properly graded, stamped and labelled, so buyers would know exactly what they were getting. Also most of the berries produced commercially in Jefferson, Warren and other counties were handled in accordance with the new law.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS

TO HAVE 14 CAMPS
Twelve camps for 4-H club members and two camps for older farm boys and girls belonging to Utopia clubs, are announced by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Approximately 100 Utopia club members from 20 Western Kentucky counties are expected at a camp at Lexington, July 11-14. With the general theme of conservation, soil, health, financial resources and wild life will be studied at this camp. Speakers will include Dr. L. E. Smith, executive secretary of the Kentucky Tuberculosis Association; Prof. Ray B. Ford, superintendent of schools at Versailles, and Carl W. Jones and other members of the faculty of the College of Agriculture. Another Utopia club camp will be held at Camp Daniel Boone on the Kentucky river in Jessamine county August 14-27. This camp will accommodate older farm boys and girls in Central and Eastern Kentucky.

Camps for 4-H club members are scheduled to be held at Morehead and Brodhead July 15-19; Paintsville, the Western Kentucky Experiment Substation at Princeton in Madison county and at Columbus, July 22-26; at the Robinson Experiment Substation at Quickland, Crestwood, Bardonia, Hartford and Western Kentucky Experiment Substation, July 29-August 3, and at London, August 5-9. About 3,000 boys and girls will attend these 12 camps.

TIMING FOR HIGH EGG PRICES

It pays to start your chicks early enough for them to be well developed and ready to lay big eggs during the months of best egg prices—October, November and December. Then, if, according to averages for the past 10 years, that eggs bring 18 to 20 cents per dozen then other months of the year.

September, October, November and December are the months when eggs command the highest prices," he says. "The average price paid to farmers for eggs for these months during the ten-year period from 1929 to 1938 was 27.3 cents per dozen. During the remaining seven months, only 18.7 cents per dozen was paid. A difference of 8.6 cents per dozen. These are the figures of the United States Department of Agriculture Crops and Market Reports."

Then when is the time to start baby chicks? There is only one answer, according to Johnson. "Early enough to make sure of big, well-developed pullets, laying big eggs during October, November and December. That's the whole story in a nutshell."

NEGLECT OF PULLETS CHECKS GROWTH AND LOWERS EGG PROFITS

Growing Birds Should Have Good Care and Feed for Fast Development.

Human beings, aren't we all? A new baby is born to Mr. and Mrs. Jim Smith and it becomes front page news. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Smith receive the congratulations of the whole community. They are the mother and dad of a new piece of humanity! After a while, "teen age" comes for that new arrival and he is promptly forgotten. He is only another boy among hundreds of other boys and girls—isn't that also the way with the chicken business?

A baby chick is a fluffy little thing and so pretty, is the subject of almost adoration. The best starting

These two pullets are from a pen of birds that laid 250 eggs worth of eggs during October, November and December when egg prices are usually at their best.

Members of the Ten Mile Baptist Church of Gallatin County visited their pastor Rev. Wm. Smith, and family last Saturday. The members brought well filled baskets and at the noon hour a bountiful dinner was served. In the afternoon games and music were enjoyed by all.

BANKHEAD-JONES ACT TO CONTINUE

IN FORCE, ACCORDING TO AN ANNOUNCEMENT OF EARL MAYHEW, STATE DIRECTOR OF SECURITY ADMINISTRATION.

The Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Purchase Program will be continued through the 1940-41 fiscal year, to June 30, 1942, in the fifty-one Kentucky counties in which it was in operation last year, it was announced today by Earl Mayhew, state director of Farm Security Administration.

In addition, Mr. Mayhew announced the program would be extended to twenty-five new counties. The new counties were designated by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace on a basis of the prevalence of tenancy.

The number of loans to be made in each county during the coming twelve months has not been determined, Mr. Mayhew said, but that the number in each county would be limited by the funds available and the widespread demand throughout the United States for relief of tenancy.

The new loans, as were the old, will be available to qualified tenant farmers and farm laborers who wish to purchase farms of their own, but who cannot secure the necessary credit from private sources, or from any government agency other than the Farm Security Administration.

The new Kentucky counties which have been designated for inclusion in the Tenant Purchase program are: Fayette, Bourbon, Woodford, Montgomery, Oldham, Jefferson, Scott, Boyle, Mercer, Spencer, Fulton, Kenton, Boone, Simpson, Christian, Garrard, Campbell, Marion, Carroll, Hickman, Trimble, Robertson, Larnie, Anderson and Bullitt.

A total of 226 farms have been purchased in Kentucky under this program in the past three years in which the Bankhead-Jones Act has been in effect.

Tenant purchase loans are made to specially qualified tenant farmers or farm workers, who must be residents of the county and show a high standard of farming ability. Preference is given family men under middle age who have had extensive farming experience and who possess sufficient livestock and equipment wholly or nearly free of debt, with which to operate a family-sized farm. The term of the loan is six years, with interest at three per cent.

Committees of farmers in the counties must pass on the qualifications of applicants, and may be consulted by prospective borrowers in the selection of farms. Each borrower is expected to recommend the farm he prefers to buy. The farms must be purchased within the county.

"In approving farms for purchase," said Mr. Mayhew, "the committees and FSA County Supervisors must be sure to see that the price is strictly in line with the true value and earning capacity of the land. This means that the farm operating under a farm and home plan supervised by FSA, will produce enough income to pay all costs and give the farm family a reasonable standard of living."

RECREATION PLANS MADE IN HOPKINS

In Hopkins county, Kentucky, a recreation committee has been formed of representatives of each community to study and plan recreation needs. A community house and grounds are being equipped in one section of the county, and in another section community arrangements have been made for croquet, volley ball and other outdoor games. The county-wide recreation program is under the supervision of the land use project and in cooperation with the schools, Works Progress Administration, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

How Foot Troubles
Affect The Whole Body

N. TULCH

Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT
9th and Madison Covington

Unless one is, or has been a sufferer from foot troubles, it is rather hard for him to understand the far reaching effects which such conditions produce. In our schooldays, we received at least a superficial education in physiology which included the nervous system.

It may be compared to an intricate comprehensive electric system. Messages are instantly transmitted from one part of the system to every other part. So it is with the human nervous net work that reaches every part of the body.

It is a demonstrated fact that the pains produced by foot troubles can and do travel to, and seriously affect other parts of the body far removed from the feet. Some time ago a Chicago school had occasion to serve a man who had both arch and eye trouble. While no one suspected that there way any connection between the two, it developed that when his foot troubles were relieved his eyes showed a marked improvement.

Headaches are almost invariably traced to stomach, eye, liver or some other part of the body. The feet can and do produce the same condition. No one suffering from intense foot pains can conceal it in his facial expression.

If you have been suffering from rheumatism, arthritis, neuritis or similar diseases, have a foot comfort specialist make a free scientific analysis—you'll feel years younger.

CHEVROLET MOTOR COMPANY OFFERS PRIZE

Detroit—The one-millionth 1940 Chevrolet car built in the United States has left the line at that division's Flint assembly plant, exactly one month after No. 900,000 was produced, and only three and two-thirds months after No. 600,000.

Coinciding with its completion, M. E. Coyle, general manager, announced that the car marking this intro production milestone is being set aside to be awarded to the winner of a nationwide contest conducted between now and August 31. The object of the contest is to locate the Millionth Chevrolet Six produced after the introduction of the valve-in-head Chevrolet Six, in 1929.

Production records show that the Millionth Chevrolet Six—as distinguished from the Millionth 1940 model, just built—left the assembly line in 1929. Whether or not it is in use today is, of course, unknown. If the contest fails to reveal the actual Millionth Six, the owner of the first Chevrolet passenger car which was built after production of that unit, and which is entered in the contest and conforms to the conditions thereof, will be adjudged the winner. Motor number, as obtained from the manufacturer's records will be the basis for decision.

Search for the Millionth Six will be conducted through Chevrolet dealers, all of whom are being furnished with official entry blanks. All cars entered must have been acquired by their present owners, and licensed for passenger car operation, prior to July 12, 1940, and entry blanks, to be mailed before midnight August 31, must bear the signature of a Chevrolet dealer in certification of the data set forth regarding the car. Employees of General Motors, Chevrolet, their dealers, and their advertising agencies, are not eligible to compete, nor are members of these agencies' families.

The official winner will drive his or her entry to the New York World's Fair, making the trip as the guest of Chevrolet, and exchanging the old car for the one-millionth 1940 model, which will

Gaiety Theater News

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY
Tortional high-wheeled wagons which hauled thousands of tons of borax out of Death Valley in the 1890's and which had been on exhibit outside the railroad depot at Barstow since track was laid to the present borax plant at Trona, went back into service for motion picture, "20 Mule Team," which will be shown at the Gaiety.

Originally driven by "Borax Bill" Parkinson, most celebrated muleskinner of his time, they were driven in the film by Wallace Beery, enacting the fictional character, Bill Bragg. In Parkinson's day the haul from Furnace Creek to Mojave, then the nearest railroad point, 162 miles away, was made with two teams and a steel water tank coupled together and pulled by the 20 mules.

Reputedly the strongest wagons ever made, and in almost as good condition now as when they went out of service nearly forty years ago, the vehicles weighing 10,000 pounds each, were taken back to Furnace Creek by Charles Hunt, production manager for the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture.

SATURDAY
A grand new location, one never before used for a Western film, was discovered by Harry Sherman and used for his filming of "Zane Grey's 'The Light of Western Stars,'" which will be shown at the Gaiety with Victor Jory, Jo Ann Sayers and Russell "Lucky" Hayden in featured roles.

The location is 35 miles off a main highway and close to Death Valley. It can be reached only by traveling over the roughest dirt roads. Sherman selected it because it so closely resembles the Texas-Mexican border as described in the picture. Many of the important scenes were shot there.

"The Light of Western Stars" tells how a lovely Eastern girl attempts to reform a hard-riding Westerner, who has become mixed up with outlaws.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY
For the first time in Hollywood history, a motion picture will have verbal credits. The picture is "Buck Benny Rides Again," starring Jack Benny, which Paramount will present at the Gaiety.

Don Wilson, Benny's radio announcer who fills the wide open spaces all by himself, will introduce the principal players in lieu of the customary printed list that appears on the screen.

The picture was announced in this unique fashion include of course Jack Benny himself, Ellen Drew, Eddie "Rochester" Anderson, Andy Devine, Phil Harris, Virginia Dale and Lillian Cornell.

The picture boasts further distinction of transferring almost an entire radio program to the screen. With the exception of Mary Livingston, whose voice is heard off-screen but who does not appear in the picture, virtually the entire Benny group will have important roles, including Carmichael, the polar bear. The famous 1923 Maxwell, too, which Rochester chauffeurs, will make its first public appearance.

The plot of "Buck Benny Rides Again" carries Jack's radio cut-ups into the wide open spaces, and forces them to ride hard, pursue bandits, and follow the chuckwagon, which they do in the best approved traditions of the old West.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY
A palatial Long Island mansion, an elaborate dressmaking establishment and a swanky suite of rooms in an exclusive hotel, are only a few of the luxurious settings which serve as a frame for love-lies Anna Neagle in "Trene," sparkling comedy musical.

Dozens of brilliantly designed gowns and negligees feature the luxurious dress shop sequences were a great deal of the RKO film is laid, for it is here that Miss Neagle, as a model, is seen to best advantage in her first glamorous role on the American screen. The noted British star recently was seen in the title role of "Nurse Edith Cavell."

CONTROL OF PRODUCTION

IS DISCUSSED BY W. J. CLARKE, PROMOTIONAL DIRECTOR OF COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATION OF BURLY PRODUCERS.

A number of different things enter into the determination of the price burley growers will receive for their tobacco. Among these things are: Quality of the crop; season weather conditions; condition of handling; management thru personal contacts; control of market thru cooperative effort, etc. But all these combined are ordinarily not as significant as the vital law of supply and demand in determining the price of burley tobacco.

An analysis of the records of production and consumption thru the past twenty years shows that the supply has been in excess of demand. Other conditions have their effect, but the law of supply and demand rules.

In 1921 we produced 175,700,000 lbs. and the disappearance for consumption was 229,200,000 lbs. In 1922 we produced 276,400,000 lbs. and the disappearance was 209,700,000 lbs. In 1923 we produced 338,700,000 lbs. and the disappearance was 333,300,000 lbs. In 1924 we produced 386,700,000 lbs. and the disappearance was 386,700,000 lbs. In 1925 we produced 400,000 lbs. and the disappearance was 400,000 lbs. In 1926 we produced 400,000 lbs. and the disappearance was 400,000 lbs. In 1927 we produced 400,000 lbs. and the disappearance was 400,000 lbs. In 1928 we produced 400,000 lbs. and the disappearance was 400,000 lbs. The story of the last ten years shown production 3,261,100,000 lbs. The disappearance for the same ten years was 3,261,100,000 lbs. This is an excess of production over consumption of 328,600,000 lbs. or nearly 33,000,000 lbs. per year. This explains why the growers received at the farm an average of 60¢ per pound of tobacco. If therefore we hope to get a reasonable price for burley tobacco and level the annual income from this source the matters of both production and consumption must be given much consideration, even to the point of control in both fields.

Here again is indicated the vital need of a Cooperative Association of Burley producers to handle the direct and vital matter.

Farmer Loses Three Ways When Pasturing Woodland, Says Darnell

A farmer loses in three ways when he pastures woodlands, according to Ward T. Darnell, CCC Camp Superintendent.

Trees are damaged and destroyed, soil is lost, and livestock suffer from a lack of nourishment. Experiments have proved that wood- and do not provide enough grazing to keep livestock in good condition.

Mr. Darnell points out that when livestock are allowed to graze in woodland they injure the trees, destroy the litter, and pack the soil tightly. With litter and humus gone and soil packed so tightly that rain cannot percolate into the ground, erosion sets in. Thus a farmer invites soil erosion when he permits the grazing of woodlands.

"Woodlands show more profit when used to produce trees instead of pasture," Mr. Darnell said. "Woods pastures are usually poor woods and poor pastures."

Farmers in the Walton CCC Camp work area are discovering that it pays to carry on separate and well-defined woodland management and pasture programs. They are producing trees on land now susceptible to erosion and pasture on land adapted to growing grass, Mr. Darnell said.

EXPERIMENT STATION MEETINGS EXPECTED TO ATTRACT CROWDS

Plans are being made to accommodate large numbers of farmers and other persons at the meeting at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington August 7, at the Western Kentucky Experiment Substation at Princeton August 9, and at the Robinson Experiment Substation at Quicksand August 16.

A large amount of experimental work is under way at these Experiment Stations, testing different kinds of hay and pasture crops, including clovers, alfalfa, bluegrass, orchard grass and soybeans. Extensive work also is being done with tobacco and hybrid corn. Then there are rotation experiments, and tests of limestone and phosphate and other ways of building up the soil and maintaining it. At Princeton, farmers will see how worn-out soils were made to produce good grass, and how such land can be made profitable pasture for cattle and other livestock. Much work has been done at this Substation to show how good grass can be grown in the western counties of the State. Notable results have been obtained all over the State in increasing hay fields and in improving pastures.

The possibilities in raising more hay and better livestock, as well as in improving farm income and also to build and preserve soil fertility, will be stressed at all meetings.

NATION'S BEST HARNESS HORSE WILL MAKE DEBUT AT STATE FAIR

Louisville, Ky.—As part of the state-fair Kentucky State fair program, the nation's best harness horse will make their debut at the fair this year in a 4-day meeting of Grand Circuit harness racing.

This is another of the many additions to the rejuvenated State fair program and pursues in excess of $15,000 will be given to the winning horsemen, Manager Robert B. Jewell disclosed.

Dates allotted the racers are September 10, 11, 12, and 13, but the fair will be open from September 10 to 13 with the preliminary scheduled for Saturday night the 7th, and an advance opening set for Sunday the 8th.

Three stakes worth $2,000 each and a number of overnight events are down for decision. The 214 Trot and 214 Hackney Cup, scheduled for Thursday, Governor's Day at the fair. A 3-year-old trot, worth $2,000 and the 2:14 pace for the Commissioner of Agriculture stake for a like amount will be decided on Tuesday and Wednesday, respectively. A free-for-all trot is scheduled for Thursday and a free-for-all pace will be run Friday, in addition to the many other events carried on the four-day program of big-time harness racing.

Many of the horses entered in the 3-year-old trot, set for Tuesday, are ranking favorites to win the rich Hambletonian and fast steps like Gentlemen Jim, Milestone, Leading Lady, High Voltage and others.

Another innovation will be the use of the McNamara starting device. This will give more pep and zing to the program by preventing much delay through scoring.

New boxes will be erected at the grandstands and a lounge will be available for bookholders, Manager Jewell said.

COLLEGE GIRLS TRY COTTON STOCKINGS
Cotton stockings lasted twice as long as silk in a series of tests made over a period of two months by members of Phi Upsilon Omicron, home economics organization at the Kentucky College of Agriculture. The 20 young women wore silk and cotton on alternate days. In that time only one pair of silk and one pair of cotton stockings were out.

The university's Phi Upsilon Omicron chapter was cooperating with the United States Department of Agriculture's home economics bureau in tests made over the nation to determine the usability of stockings made from Southern cotton.

The silk hosiery used in the test was 3-thread, costing from 99 cents to $1. The cotton hosiery ranged in price from $1 to $1.15. Various styles of both types were used—from the worn or net style to formal design.

At the conclusion of the practical study, all stockings were turned into the department for study as to where breaks came first, need for reinforcements in manufacturing, styling, etc.

The home economics students also are cooperating in a food price survey.

Instead of a stream-lined table decoration, many a man would relish a return of the holder filled with tooth picks.

PREPARE FOR COCA-COLA DAY AT CONEY ISLAND

A new record attendance is anticipated for the "Coca-Cola Day" at Coney Island, Cincinnati amusement park on August 7th, when visitors from many Ohio Valley communities will join in this merry-making. A crowd approximating 35,000 is anticipated. There will be 45,000 free ride tickets distributed during the day. All rides will be five cents and many special features are being provided for this huge outing.

Tickets for the outing will be available beginning July 29 at any store or outlet for the bottled drink. Visitors coming by motor car will find ample parking facilities.

To facilitate movement of the crowd, a special trip of the Coney steamer "Island Queen" will be made leaving Cincinnati. The first boat will leave the Coney wharf at 8:30 a. m. The next boat leaves at 11 a. m. and on the regular schedule throughout the day and night.

CANNING LEFT-OVERS

A subscriber suggests saving the pickle syrup left over from canning. She seals it and uses it later for flavoring roasts and fowl. After canning fruits she adds maple flavoring to the sweet syrup left over and bottles it. This comes in as a delicious syrup for pancakes and waffles.

WHEN BAKING

Loaf and layer cakes and muffins will have greater volume if you don't grease sides of pans. This gives batter something to cling to when rising. . . . If you find you have added too much flour to cake batter, beat an egg and add slowly to mixture. Milk will make the cake texture tough. . . . When baking cakes or cooking where you have used honey keep the oven at moderate heat for a hot oven will burn such cakes quickly. . . . Don't remove cakes from pans while hot and those cakes containing fat should stand about 15 minutes, right side up. Angel food and sponge cakes should stand on cake racks to cool.

Since we can't do any better, we might as well be satisfied with human nature and make the most of it.

FLORENCE LADY INJURED MONDAY

WHEN STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE NEAR FLORENCE—CONDITION REPORTED AS FAIR TUESDAY NIGHT.

Mrs. Carrie Rice, 71 years old, Florence, received fractures of the right arm and left leg Monday night when she was struck by an automobile as she crossed the Dixie Highway at Sanders Drive.

She was removed to St. Elizabeth hospital by Philip Talarro, accompanied by her daughter, Ruth Sullivan, who is a nurse at St. Elizabeth.

According to three witnesses, Mrs. Rice was waiting for a bus to Florence at Sanders Drive and was standing on the opposite side of the highway until the bus arrived. When she saw the bus approaching, she stepped onto the highway and endeavored to cross. Chas. Rosenstiel, 30 years old, was driving toward Cincinnati when he saw Mrs. Rice in the road. He checked the speed of his car and practically stopped. By this time Mrs. Rice had turned back, apparently for the purpose of allowing the car to pass. When the car started, Mrs. Rice stepped directly into its path and was thrown to the center of the highway. It was believed by all witnesses that she had failed to see the car entirely and had stepped back to the curb for another purpose.

Deputy Sheriff, Harold Conner was summoned and after hearing testimony of the three witnesses, stated that the accident was unavoidable and that no charges would be placed against Chas. Rosenstiel.

Late Tuesday night it was learned that Mrs. Rice was conscious all day Tuesday and had talked to friends and relatives. Although the doctor has been unable to determine definitely the extent of her injuries, her condition is believed to be very serious.

Burial was in St. Mary cemetery.

DOUBLE-HEADER SCHEDULED SAT.

AT BURLINGTON PARK—SAND RUN TO FURNISH OPPOSITION PETERSBURG STILL HOLDS FIRST PLACE.

Local baseball fans will be treated to a double-bill attraction at the local park Saturday when the Burlington team clashes with the fast-improving Sand Run nine. The games will be of much interest to local supporters as Burlington will have an opportunity to go into a tie for second place. Should the locals win from Sand Run and the fast-stepping Petersburg team defeat Belview, second place would be a tie between the Grant boys and Burlington.

In games last Saturday, Burlington defeated Belview at the local park by a 6 to 3 score. Ivan Guley pitching six-hit ball, the home team had little trouble. Kittie was on the mound for Belview.

Big Bone defeated Sand Run 8 to 3 at Sand Run. Ayler pitched for the winners with Bud Goodridge on the losing end.

Petersburg defeated Hebron in the other league contest by a score of 8 to 2.

$41,390 SHORT OF ACP QUOTA

BY BOONE COUNTY FARMERS—AUGUST 31ST CLOSING DATE FOR SOIL BUILDING PRACTICE CREDITS.

Boone County farmers have $41,390 in 1940 Agricultural Conservation Program soil building allowance to earn before August 31st or this amount will be lost, according to H. E. Forkner, County Agent. These figures are based on percentage figures collected on farms checked by the field supervisors first week's work. The county has a total soil building allowance of approximately $57,000. To date only 27.3 percent of $15,610.00 has been accounted to field supervisors' reports. There is an additional $4,496.00 worth of phosphate that has been delivered but not applied to soil conserving crops.

Farmers are urged to keep in mind that August 31st or just 31 more days, is the last date for carrying out soil building practices. $41,390.00 or 27.54 of practice at $1.50 per unit must be carried out by this time or the amount unearned will be lost.

There are a number of good soil building practices that may still profitably be carried out during August. These practices include seedings of sweet clover, vetch, rye grass, crimson clover, timothy and red top in corn fields, the seeding of alfalfa, use of phosphate (orders still being filled through the County office), use of limestone, turning under soybeans as green manure crop and others.

The liming and phosphating of the soil and seeding inoculated alfalfa seed has proven one of the most profitable practices a farmer can carry out. The seeding of vetch as a winter cover and green manure crop has given the largest increased crop yields of all winter cover crops used. (Vetch seed should be inoculated). August is an ideal time to seed both crops. Farmers who expect to use limestone should contact their crusher operator or dealer as there is always a last minute rush on this important soil fertilizer.

Change Planned For Hebron Exchange

It was announced this week by the Consolidated Telephone Company that a change in telephone service for all persons now served by the automatic switchboard is being planned and definite arrangements will be made known as soon as completed.

If it is possible to obtain a local operator in Hebron, an exchange will be installed there. If this cannot satisfactorily be accomplished, the next plan will be for all this section to be handled directly through the Burlington exchange, thus eliminating the present automatic switchboard which has not proven successful.

The telephone company has already started on this project and when completed will mean better service for all Hebron subscribers.

LIGHT VOTE EXPECTED SAT.

IN PRIMARY ELECTION—LITTLE INTEREST SHOWN BY BOONE COUNTY CITIZENS—VOTERS URGED TO GO TO POLLS.

With the primary election only two days away, little interest has been shown by Boone County voters, and in all probability a very light vote will be cast Saturday, August 3rd.

There are two very important offices to be voted on in this election, that of United States Senator and Representative in Congress. Leaders of the democratic party in this county urge all voters to turn out Saturday and vote for the candidate of their choice.

Democratic candidate for United States Senator are as follows: Albert B. Chandler, Charles P. Farnley, John J. Thobe, Joseph Thornbury, M. E. Gilbert and Jack Howard.

Republican candidates for United States Senator are: Silas A. Sullivan, C. B. Candler, Roscoe Conkling Douglas, Frank H. (Yank) Scott, and Walter B. Smith.

Voters are urged to remember that Saturday, August 3, 1940 is regular primary election. It is your duty to go to the polls and vote for the candidate of your choice.

COLT SHOW TO BE FEATURE OF FAIR

BREEDERS SPONSORING EVENT—WILL BE FIRST SHOW OF ITS KIND HELD IN KENTUCKY.

Boone County draft horse breeders are sponsoring the first 4-H colt show to be held in Kentucky, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The show will be held in connection with the Annual 4-H and Utopia Club Free Fair to be held at Harvest Home Fair grounds Saturday, August 24th.

The 1940 exhibit will be for 4-H club members only who are enrolled in the 4-H draft colt project and will be for 1940 foals. Fourteen members are enrolled in the new project which, if successful will probably be enlarged next year. Prizes will be awarded for the best colt, best filly, championship and showmanship.

Local breeders sponsoring the show are Charles M. Riley, Big Bone; Ambros Easton, Florence; Elmer Elliston, Verona; Watson and Spaulding, Florence; Hubert Conner & Son, Hebron; M. Holladay, Idlewild; S. B. Scott & son, Grant, and J. E. Gross, Walton.

Boone County imports each year more draft horses than are foaled in the county. It is hoped that the colt show will increase interest in producing better horse stock in the county.

Church Picnic To Be Held Sunday

The Constance Christian Church will hold their annual picnic at Riddell's Woods, Sunday, August 4th. Games and contests for everyone. A basket dinner will be served and four big gate prizes will be given.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend and help make it an enjoyable day and visit with old friends.

DR. O. M. HUEY HONORED SUN.

AT BIG BONE BAPTIST CHURCH FOR FIFTY YEARS OF SERVICE—A FAREWELL ORDAINED IN SAME CHURCH IN 1890.

Dr. O. M. Huey, well known Boone County minister of the Gospel was honored last Sunday, July 21, at the Big Bone Baptist Church in appreciation of his fifty years of faithful service, having been ordained at this same church July 27, 1890 by Dr. J. A. Kirtley.

Pastor R. A. Johnson was in charge of the services. He has now been at Big Bone for fourteen years and is deeply entrenched in the confidence and affection of his people. A program of addresses was followed in the morning and afternoon, these being interspersed with music and other elements of worship and edification. By invitation the morning addresses were made by W. A. Frost and Dr. Mason. After the lunch hour others followed by Walton R. Cole, W. M. Wood, and Lois B. Snider.

These addresses were most kindly received. Their substance, as was appropriate, reflected appreciation of the life and ministry and personal qualities of Dr. Huey. Impressive indeed was the love and appreciation shown by the people of his own boyhood associations and of others who throughout the years of his ministry have at some point found their lives touching that of Dr. Huey.

Perhaps nothing was more beautifully significant than the presence of so many of his fellow ministers. Our guest made the number fifteen, though we failed to secure a complete list of the names of all of them. We now remember as in the groups Revs. R. D. Martin, T. C. Slette, W. R. Cole, M. M. McFarland, E. C. Steyer, Dr. W. Wood, and Dr. M. S. Snider.

To mention all of the things said about Dr. Huey would require pages. We shall mention only one thing, to which one speaker after another referred. It was an expression of Dr. Huey's heart of the understanding heart that he has, for breaking through the veneer of shyness by which most people contrive to hide most of themselves from each other, and thus getting next to people young or old who are in need of his help. This gift of heart and mind has enabled Dr. Huey, thru his long ministry, to open up many a needy heart to Christ and the Gospel that otherwise would have remained closed to the minister and to the laity.

Dr. Huey's health is considerably improved from what it was, and the churches are glad that they are fortunate when they can hear him. We should think, a church desiring service about once monthly would find itself on the way to spiritual strength and "enjoying its religion" if it could secure his ministry.

Sunday was a day at Big Bone which those present who may be living fifty years from now will not fail to recall. They will speak of a day of spiritual insight, a time of wide-wide distress, anxiety and disobedience to God.

A beautiful engraved loving cup was presented by the church to Dr. and Mrs. Huey, a fit tangible token during coming years of their abiding love.

At the noon hour, the ladies of the Big Bone Church spread the lunch on the far-extended tables in the shady grove in the rear of the church. Unless you have attended a gathering of this type at Big Bone, you cannot appreciate the fellowship that is enjoyed by all who attend.

CLOSING DATE AUGUST 15TH

FOR ORDER SUPERPHOSPHATE THROUGH AGRICULTURAL CONSERVATION PROGRAM IN SOIL BUILDING PRACTICES.

August 15th has been temporarily set as the closing date for ordering 20 percent superphosphate through the Agricultural Conservation Program for carrying out soil building practices, according to the County A. C. P. office.

Twenty-four cars of phosphate have been ordered and delivered today. There is a possibility that two more car loads can be ordered before the closing date if farmers act immediately.

Phosphate has proven to be one of the best soil improvement fertilizers that the farmer can use on grass and legume crops. Outstanding results have been secured where phosphate is used with limestone and a light covering of manure. Those who have not ordered phosphate and expect to do so are urged to act now. There are many cars of phosphate and the only cash outlay is hauling to the farm. The cost and credit for use is given through the A. C. Program. Orders will be taken at the County Office in Burlington or by field supervisors or committeemen.

Constance Defeats Petersburg Nine

Constance defeated Petersburg Sunday at Petersburg 11 to 6. Constance collected 13 hits off the combined pitching efforts of Carver, Deck, Kittie, and Mahan and crossed the pay-off dish 11 times. Petersburg did not score until two were out in the fifth frame when Ayler walked two and hit a batsman, but the Petersburg fireworks turned loose. Two consecutive hits brought Ayler, who up to the time had only allowed one hit, from the mound. Dolwick who took up the pitching from this point allowed two consecutive singles before retiring the third man of the round and in all, six runs were in for Petersburg. Dolwick was invincible from then on. Petersburg collected five hits, and committed three errors. Constance made one error.

The weather was suffocating, and the pitchers were laboring under adverse circumstances. It could have been anybody's game under such condition.

Constance meets Erlanger at Constance Sunday.

2-CENT INCREASE MADE PER CAPITA

IN STATE ALLOTMENT TO KENTUCKY SCHOOL DISTRICTS—$123.30 TO BE DISTRIBUTED FOR EACH CHILD.

Frankfort, Ky.—John W. Brooker, superintendent of public instruction, announced an increase of two cents in the state per capita allotment to school districts, thus fixing the sum of $123.30 to be distributed for each child listed in the census report.

The original figure of $123.30 was based on an incomplete census report, with some districts being carried at original figures. A recheck of these districts, however, reduced their totals and made available a larger sum for distribution.

"In my letter of June 29, to schools officials I declared the per capita for the school year 1940-41 at $123.31," said Mr. Brooker. "Since then there have been several changes in the census of certain districts. A corrected tabulation of the census reports for May 1, 1940, submitted to me, shows a census of 778,429," said Mr. Brooker.

"The General Assembly appropriated for the common school per capita fund for the school year $8,880,000. Dividing the amount of this appropriation by the census, a per capita distribution of $123.31 is established."

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Lamb, of Covington, called on friends here Thursday night.

A WELCOME HERE

"Suffer the little children to come" is an echo from a voice of long ago that is resounding through our very gracious and hospitable land. The United States and Canada are popular havens for British children whose parents seek a temporary home for them until England awaits the foe in daily dread. Groups authorized to place these children and register names of homes of shelter are kept busy with calls and letters from rich poor alike who signify willingness to become a sanctuary. Already children have been placed and other homes anxiously await the arrival of the refugee children. The immigration law limits the quota and the total of British children is 65,720 a year. Of this number only 10 percent may come in monthly. It would seem that at such a desperate time when the matter of days and weeks is so important, more than 10 percent should be moved monthly. However, the main reason for this delay in having more British children reach this country is because there is a lack of British ships to carry them here. Many of the English boats are carrying enemy aliens to Canada. So far the English have not taken full advantage of the monthly quota allowed them but if they do send their children over faster than our immigration law permits, Boone Counties hopes that a Congress will raise the limit so the voice saying "Suffer the little children to come" will reach in our kindly American homes.

ARE WE TO BLAME?

They ask if they are forsaken by a protecting Father, they pray that a guiding hand will see them through their difficulties, they speak in despair of a lost people and of a religion failing to help in extreme hopelessness, of charity and love failing to accomplish, the power of faith slipping, the loss of hope for a nation's salvation. What can be wrong with such words? What blame do we place the source of trouble in the homes where there is a lack of religious training and a Christian background. Perhaps trouble ahead does come to such homes as these. It is the opinion that the youth who is raised with no religion does not seek it later as a man. We all acknowledge that fear, hate and greed are the dominant forces back of present day difficulties. If these qualities could be conquered in the child during early years perhaps the man would overcome them. The background of delinquents is often found as an excuse. Those who will become our statesmen, who will lead our government and make our laws, should have a foundation of spiritual training with the belief of godliness and manliness the foundation of their early years. If later they lose their convictions that may we ask what we have left undone.

NO TIME FOR RHYME

The London Poetry Society has adjourned for the duration of the war. They state there is little poetry being written as this war seems to inspire the poets. Some famous verses that came out of the first World War that have lived to be repeated over again. However, the day of war as a daring adventure, as a crusade, is dead. The only fitting sort of poetry would be such a bitter angry and cynical nature that it would be mostly protest. The pens of the poets are not forever stilled but they cannot work up much romance and glamour over this war. Poetry in London is reported until there can be heard the sound of birds, the whispering of leaves, the murmurings of lovers. Those who appreciate poetry can understand the adjournment of the London society.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

A subscriber of the masculine sex comments upon the number of lady tourists who travel in slacks. He mentions that though local women wear them and the custom is rather new, in London it is still the picture of a lady stepping from an auto, clad in a wrinkled pair of slacks is not pleasing on the average masculine eye. He figures in such cases as these the husband shouldn't find it necessary to shovel folks who live around resorts become used to the sight of too-large women wearing too baggy a slack suit. The outfit may be more comfortable but there is one type of wearer who should consult a full length mirror before appearing in slacks in public. Remember, this is the other fellow's opinion!

TO THE LETTER

A recent happening shows how a seemingly sensible law can become a rather ridiculous one in some instances. According to postoffice regulations dogs are not permitted in these government buildings. We understand the action is to protect the individual from being bitten by a dog while on government property. It so happens that in a mid-western state the "seeing eye" companion of a blind operator of a newstand in the city postoffice, has been barred from the building due to this ruling. Dogs trained to lead the blind, now are accepted in trains, hotels and places. As we understand it, a "seeing eye" dog, if not accompanying his blind master, soon becomes inefficient. Surely there could be an amendment to this strict postoffice regulation to cover cases such as this.

THE TWO WAYS

LESSON TEXT—Psalm 1:1 Matthew 22:1-14

GOLDEN TEXT—For the Lord knoweth the way of the righteous, but the way of the ungodly shall perish.—Psalm 1:6

The most important thing in life is living. This is not an attempt to make a striking statement, but a sincere effort to present a fact which too often escapes our attention. We are so concerned upon making a living, or making money, or making a name for ourselves, that we often fail to make a life. God is more concerned about what we are than what we do.

There are only two ways—the right way and the wrong way. We build our life either on the true foundation of the false. There is no middle way, no half-good foundation. We must choose, and it is either one or the other.

I. Two Roads (Ps. 1).

Scripture is not at all concerned about mixing figures of speech, so long as the truth is graphic, expressed and fully understood. Here it speaks of a man walking in the way, a tree planted by a river, the chaff of the threshing floor, and then returns to the figure of walking in the way. All of these present the same truth, for essentially the idea is that of the two ways in which men walk.

Choosing the Way (vv. 1, 4, 6).

Even the choice of his way of life marks a man as either blessed or wicked. Some seem to think that they can choose or jury drift into the wrong way and still have hope that all will be well. Their choice, or their failure to choose, has put them in the one class or the other.

Making a choice is a vital and serious matter. Let us do it carefully. Walking in the counsel or philosophy of the wicked soon results in a man lingering in the way of sinners, and there he awaits of it he will find himself so at home that he will sit among them and scoff.

2. Continuing in the Way (vv. 2-4).

The man who will permit the law of God to govern his life will never go astray, but will prosper in everything he does. Observe that to prosper does not necessarily mean to have money, position or recognition in this world. It means to be a success in the thing which God has given one to do.

Much of this world calls prosperity is nothing but an empty show, while at the same time some lives which the world says have been wasted are prosperous in the sight of God because His will has been done.

3. At the End of the Way (vv. 5, 6).

Every road of life comes to an end. "It is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment" (Heb. 9:27). Ah yes—the judgment—what will it be in your life and in mine?

The wicked cannot stand in the presence of the divine Judge. All the bold front and boastful talk which went over so well before men, loses its flavor and the wicked man can only expect judgment. It is a dark and dreadful scene, but man need not go in the way which ends there, but may turn to God in faith and repentance.

II. Two Houses (Matt. 7:24-27).

Much of this world calls prosperity is nothing but an empty show, while at the same time some lives which the world says have been wasted are prosperous in the sight of God because His will has been done.

3. At the End of the Way (vv. 5, 6).

II. Two Houses (Matt. 7:24-27).

Much of this world calls prosperity is nothing but an empty show, while at the same time some lives which the world says have been wasted are prosperous in the sight of God because His will has been done.

3. At the End of the Way (vv. 5, 6).

Every road of life comes to an end. "It is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment" (Heb. 9:27). Ah yes—the judgment—what will it be in your life and in mine?

The wicked cannot stand in the presence of the divine Judge. All the bold front and boastful talk which went over so well before men, loses its flavor and the wicked man can only expect judgment. It is a dark and dreadful scene, but man need not go in the way which ends there, but may turn to God in faith and repentance.

FASHION HINTS

Turbans are the most popular headgear for summer and into fall. They are draped higher and come in cotton prints of exotic flowers and figures. They are to be worn with both light and dark clothes. Black comes best for the first outfit but later the winter wardrobe will go very colorful. Plaid large in size will be worn in skirts topped by plain colored blouses. Pale beige is very popular in Hollywood fashions this summer. New shoes have carved wooden heels.

ANT PESTS

Place lumps of gum camphor in the ants runways or nearby sweets that might attract them. Scrub shelves and drawers with strong carbolic soap. Put gasoline around where you are having ant trouble. To find the ant's nest place coarse sugar where the ants can find it. They will carry it to their nest and you can more easily locate them.

BANK ANALYSIS OF ACCOUNTS

MADE BY OFFICERS OF BOONE COUNTY INSTITUTIONS—LESS THAN $50.00 BALANCES CARRIED BY 75% OF DEPOSITORS.

In an analysis of checking accounts recently made by the banks of Boone County it was found that approximately 75 percent of the total number of checking accounts in all the banks carried balances of less than $50.00, averaging less than $10.00 per account. This discovery is giving the bank officials much concern at it is obvious that considerable loss is being sustained by the banks in trying to render checking account service where balances are not large enough to pay the actual expense of carrying the account.

It must be understood that banks can only make money by the lending of a certain per cent of customers' balances and when this balance is low per account the income from lending on a particular account does not cover the expense of the check books, ledger leaves, deposit tickets, file boxes, postage, pasting machines, adding machines, typewriters, stationery of various forms etc. to say nothing of the tax on deposits, Federal Deposit Insurance, Capital Stock Tax, Social Security Tax, Unemployment Insurance, Capital Stock Tax, Social Security Tax, Unemployment Insurance Tax, which runs into many thousands of dollars to the banks of Boone County annually which expenses the banks did not have a few years ago. It should also be understood that prior to 10 years ago country banks received 2 to 3 percent interest on their balances carried with their City correspondents and which assisted the country banks to absorb the expense of small checking accounts. Country banks do not now receive any interest on their large cash balances with their City bank correspondents which is another heavy loss to income of country banks, and yet the banks have continued to serve checking accounts the same as was done 30 years ago before all this extra expense was added to banks.

The banks of Louisville, Cincinnati, Aurora, Lawrenceburg, Covington, Shelbyville, Mayfield, Georgetown, Brooksville and many others have installed service charges on accounts some years ago and just recently Independence and Walton have placed service charges on accounts in proportion to the balances maintained and in accordance with the checking activity in accounts.

It has been found that balances averaging less than $10.00 shows 20 to 45 checks issued on the account monthly. Boone County banks as a whole have not taken any action as yet to stop this loss as all banks want to give the utmost in service to their customers but when it has been found that 75 percent of their business is being operated at a loss it is giving both the banks and the customers something to think about. No one would expect a store, garage, filling station or restaurant to sell 75 percent of their customers at a loss daily. A bank buys and sells credit and should be able to do this at a reasonable profit the same as any other line of business.

In one bank in Boone County, alone it was found that new taxes and assessments not in effect a few years ago and the loss on income from interest on daily balances from its City Correspondents amounts to more than $5,000 annually, which this bank has up to this time been absorbing in order to try to carry accounts without service charges or by charging back to accounts of customers certain assessments and taxes.

The most generally accepted and fair service charges among country banks and customers of this class appear to be a charge of 50 cents per month with balances under $50.00 with the customer being permitted to draw 10 checks for this charge in any one month. If more than 10 checks are drawn on balances of less than $50.00 a charge of 5 cents per check on such excess over 10 checks is made for any particular month. On accounts over $50.00 balances a customer is permitted to draw 10 checks for the first $50.00 balance without any charge whatever plus one additional check for each $10 balance over $50.00 with 5 cents per check on any excess checks according to the schedule.

Boone County bank officials welcome constructive suggestions from their customers as to how best to meet present conditions as above stated.

The rate of interest on time and savings deposits has been reduced outside of Boone County and of this class very kindly accepted the conditions making this reduction necessary and it may become necessary later on to make a still further reduction. Many banks outside of Boone County have reduced the rate on deposits to 1 percent and some have eliminated interest on deposits entirely, while the checking account customer is receiving the same service without cost as was furnished years ago when bank operation costs was nothing compared to present day expenses.

This is a most interesting study for bank customers as well as bank officials.

No meetings of bankers have as yet been held in Boone County to discuss these matters but all are making analysis of their accounts to see just what is the proper and fair thing to do.

Landscaping Plans

Made By Homemakers

Clipping of grass for the remainder of the summer may ruin bluegrass, according to advice given by N. R. Elliott at the training class held last week in Burlington. Mr. Elliott told that bluegrass is in its rest stage now. He stated that clipping of the crab grass causes it to spread and grow faster. This was the second in a series of training classes held for landscape demonstrations in 1940.

Late summer and early fall care of lawns, shrubs and flowers was discussed by Mr. Elliott. He urged that shrubs should be pruned now if they have not been pruned earlier in the season. The next training class will be held Friday, September 27th. Mr. Elliott will be in the County September 26th and 27th to start some new lawn demonstrations. Anyone interested in having their lawn used as a demonstration should contact Mary Hood Gillaspie, Home Demonstration Agent.

Fortieth Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Tanner Observed

Quite a large crowd of friends and relatives attended the fortieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tanner at their country home on U. S. 42.

Long tables were spread across the lawn under the shade trees filled with the delicious foods of all kinds, where everyone greatly enjoyed themselves.

Several pieces of music were played by the Horne family, grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tanner, accompanied by Jack Busby and later by Les Busby. The day was spent in laughing, talking and meeting friends who had been separated for many years.

As the sun began slowly sinking into the west, all guests departed to their many homes, wishing that Mr. and Mrs. Tanner will be able to walk hand-in-hand down the path of time for many, many years to come, and enjoy many more occasions like this one.

The following article was taken from our files forty years ago, and gives an account of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Tanner. Pollock, that wonderful writer who dipped his pen in the sunlight of inspiration, touched the golden hair of the first $50.00 balance "Course of Time" tells us how Adam wandered beneath orange trees in loneliness, and sat beside the babbling brooks in deep meditation, looking beyond the confines of Paradise for something he did not possess, a companion of life, and how time rolled on to bring him Eve with happiness supreme and joy forever.

Well, ever since that eventful day down to the present time, men have been getting lonesome and looking forward with joyful anticipation to the hour when some handsome young woman should agree to journey through life with them as a companion. Harry Tanner was no exception and he looked forward to the time when Miss Etta Busby should be his companion for life and on the 25th of July he realized the dreams of his earliest youth (for they were sweethearts even when school children) by taking her as his wife, in the presence of a number of friends at the home of Rev. Lentz.

The bride was charming in cream organdy and lace with bride's roses. The groom was handsome in conventional black. After the ceremony at high noon, the happy couple repaired to the home of the groom's parents, where a most bountiful feast had been prepared and where a large number of relatives and friends had assembled to extend congratulations. The guests were J. M. Utz and wife, E. H. Snyder and daughter, E. H. Blankenbaker, George Rouse and family, R. D. Rouse and wife, L. L. Tanner and family, M. M. Tanner, Mrs. H. L. Tanner, Mrs. Frances Tanner, Mr. Clutterbuck and family, Emma Welch, Rev. Lentz, and wife, W. N. Surface and wife, Willie Busby, Misses Mattie Snyder, E. Rouse, Jennie Snyder and B. A. Tanner, Libbie Ingram and Lewis Clegg and Dora Black and C. Blankenbaker were the attendants.

Plans were made for several county-wide activities to be undertaken by the fourteen clubs. The first activity planned is an entertainment to be given in October. Mrs. Blankenbaker appointed the following committee to make arrangements for the time and place: Mrs. William Markesberry, Florence; Mrs. Georgia Arnold, Walton; and Mrs. Thos. Kenyon, Constance.

TROJAN HORSES IN MANY TOWNS

Federal, State and local officials have found disloyal groups, organizations and agents of foreign Governments in localities that were believed to be as free from suspicion as Caesar's wife, on her own front porch. When Congressman Dies first began to tell the country about spies and enemies, cries of remonstrance arose against him, but he has convinced everyone that there are Nazis, Fascists and Communists moving around, where they might least be expected to be found. So it behooves every person with sound opinions about war conditions and the objects of other persons who may be disloyal to the Government of the United States.

SAYS KENTUCKY NEEDS MORE SMALL FRUITS

Some one is passing up a good opportunity to grow raspberries for local consumption, according to a statement of Prof. A. J. Oliver and W. W. Magill in a new Kentucky College of Agriculture circular called "Raspberry Culture in Kentucky." Not enough raspberries are grown to supply the local demand in most sections of the state, they declare. Another circular, written by Prof. C. S. Waltman, deals with cherry growing.

Tenants Have Chance To Purchase Farms

Farm tenants who failed to get loans from the Farm Security Administration to buy farms during the past fiscal year may be able to get loans this year according to W. O. Blackburn County FSA Supervisor at Independence, Ky.

Congress appropriates money for tenant-purchase loans by fiscal years and the new fiscal year started July 1. Applicants who could not be reached on account of limitations of funds may be considered along with the new applicants during the present year.

Farm Security Administration is now receiving applications from farm tenants who want to purchase farms this year.

Mr. Blackburn, County Supervisor for Boone, Campbell and Kenton counties, announced today that applications may be filed now in the FSA office in the court house at Independence. Applications will also be taken each Tuesday morning at the court house in Burlington and each Tuesday afternoon at the court house in Alexandria.

"It is true loans to buy farms must be approved by the County Committee," Mr. Blackburn said, "but because you are not qualified now does not mean that you cannot come time quality yourself for one of these loans. In approving loans to buy farms preference is given to tenants who own their own stock and equipment. By taking advantage of the rural rehabilitation program, many tenants are buying stock and equipment on convenient terms and in a few years may be able to meet qualifications and buy their own farms. Now is the time for farm families to begin making their plans for the next crop year, and in order that these plans may be started it is now time to make applications for these loans."

Casey county farmers buying western ewes last year got 7 to 9 pounds of wool—25 percent more than from native stock.

OLD FRIENDS MEET AFTER THIRTY YEARS

Among the outstanding memories of the summer for all those who were fortunate able to attend will be the reunion of old friends and relatives held at Pleasant Church July 21 in honor of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Riggs (nee Grace Russell) their daughter, Mrs. Frances Sletter and son David.

Approximately two hundred and fifty devoted friends came from far and near to this little village with them, with hampers of the most delicious food of the season, making a feast at the noon hour unrivaled by any of the past. The morning was spent meeting and greeting, handshaking, hugging and kissing, recalling old memories and occasional tears for the departed ones, for it had been thirty long years since last they met.

Bro. Robert Carter and wife, of Erlanger came at noon, receiving the most gracious welcome, for as you all know, Bro. Carter preached at Pt. Pleasant many years, in fact he, with Edgar DeWitt Jones, Harlan Runyon and several other ministers of not got their start at Point Pleasant.

Bro. Carter took charge of the devotional service of the afternoon, giving a splendid, inspiring talk of the past history of the church naming some of the old original families who had loved the old meeting house and had made the church possible at that time, and the good influence reflected in the lives of those present, as nearly all were branches or connections of those good old families—but duty has called these younger generations elsewhere. He also mentioned the fact that this event marked the one hundredth anniversary of the church and it was very fitting that this event take place.

Mrs. Frances Riggs Sletter, talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Riggs played two favorite selections on her violin, "The Holy City" and "Tramplers." The audience was spellbound, she played so beautifully.

Among those present from a distance were, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Cleveland and sons from Lexington; Dr. and Mrs. Frank Jackson (nee Margaret Bullock) of Camden, O.; and friends; Mr. and Mrs. Mae White, Mrs. Maggie Gordon and daughter from Price Hill; Mr. Joe Grimley, his son Harry and wife from Bellevue; Mr. and Mrs. Henley and family, of Rushville, Ind., and many other whose we are unable to list.

A most enjoyable day was spent by all doesn't half express it. "It was a perfect day."

Mr. and Mrs. Riggs called on Mr. and Mrs. Ed Walton in Petersburg Monday night. Tuesday morning they visited the Cincinnati Zoo and Wednesday morning they departed for Fresno, California.

NO POLITICS IN THIS

The National Labor Relations Board was created as an independent agency by Congress in July, 1935. Therefore it is five years old. The principal purpose of this board is to protect the rights of employees to organize and select their representatives for collective bargaining.

One of the purposes of the Board was stated in the Federal law as follows: "To decide whether the unit appropriate for the purposes of collective bargaining shall be the employer unit, craft unit, plant unit, or subdivision thereof." The Board also was given full authority to conduct hearings and to issue orders, and to prescribe rules and regulations to carry out its obligations to workers and employers in the public interests.

It is a matter of common knowledge that this Board was regarded as the first step in a system that would prevent open conflicts and settle disputes between employees and employers. The people were promised amendments to the law after it was tried out and when necessary changes were apparent. The sit-down strikes afforded the first real test. The CIO and John L. Lewis were responsible for those strikes. The American public was outraged by the brutal performances, and Mr. Lewis' organization made no attempts to perpetuate the sit-downs. Amendments to the law were plainly needed but Congress neglected to act.

For the past five years the war between the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations has continued, despite the Wagner Act. The appeals of the President and his Administration for peace and harmony among the two big labor organizations has fallen on deaf ears. Still there have been no amendments to the National Labor Relations Act.

In its present session the House Committee on Education has shown a disposition to play square with the American public in these matters. The House created the special Smith Investigating Committee and approved its report that suggested many amendments to the Labor Act, including a provision to do away with the present Board, and form a new one. The House also voted overwhelmingly to deport alien labor disturber Harry Bridges of San Francisco. Approval has been withheld by the Senate to the constructive House actions regarding these matters.

MONEY TALKS
by Frederick W. Stamm, Economist and Director of Adult Education University of Louisville
Increased industrial activity, coupled with the huge national defense program, has created an almost unbelievable demand for skilled workers of all types. And according to military and navy experts, few are to be found among the nation's unemployed.

During the depression thousands of skilled workers lost their jobs and also their old skills. Many industrial organizations had curried training programs, and consequently few young men were trained for positions needing skill and accuracy. As a result, the United States now finds herself without a reserve of skilled artisans.

Factories and machines may be quickly overhauled and put into production. But the training of skilled workers requires considerable time. A man cannot become an expert pattern or tool maker overnight; years of study and apprenticeship go forward.

One illustration of our inadequate training program may be of interest. In 1935, when millions of our men were walking the streets, a German tool maker came to this country and immediately found employment in one of our factories at a salary of $200 a month.

Craftsmen are wanted, men with the equivalent of a college education in their fields—men of skill, precision, and accuracy—tool, dye, and instrument workers of all types.

The government, through trade schools, the C. C. C., N. Y. A., and other agencies, is feverishly training men to become skilled workers. Industrial plants are reopening their training schools to thousands of young men. If our defense program is to go forward, we must have these trained workers.

Although we live in a machine age, men, and especially skilled artisans, play an all-important role.

LITTLE POTATOES POISON LIVESTOCK

Several cases of animals poisoned by potato vines or by the little green potatoes seen on top the ground at digging time, have come to the attention of the department of animal pathology at the Kentucky Experiment Station. Potato tops when wilted about digging time are known to be poisonous to stock. Turning livestock into the patch after digging sometimes results in the loss of hogs from eating the little green potatoes.

HIGHWAY TRANSPORTATION IS READY

Because of the highly developed network of highways and our thirty million motor vehicles America is the most mobile nation in the world. We have a motor vehicle for every 4.4 persons in this country. We have over four million trucks and truck-trailers capable of quickly transporting corresponding millions of tons of supplies to the very spot they are needed. We have over three million miles of highway making every town and hamlet accessible, and most of them are reached by hard surfaced roads.

Our military experts will doubtless agree with the statement of Harvey C. Fruhauf, president of the Fruhauf Trailer Company, regarding the importance and the value of this quick mobility inasmuch as the evacuation of citizens in war time is almost as important as the transportation of troops and supplies. The factories which have produced these peace-time transport units are capable of turning quickly to the manufacture of armored mechanized units so vital in present-day warfare.

Cars, trucks and trailers that are forced off the roads always overcome the difficulties of detours, and Mr. Fruhauf observes that although the efforts of the motor transport industry have been concentrated on the commerce of peace rather than war-time destruction, that here is one fundamental industry which contributes infinitely to our military effectiveness.

It is of interest to know, at this time, that the semi-trailer can be quickly and easily detached from the tractor-truck used to pull it, and that one tractor-truck can be used in connection with a number of trailers. While one trailer is being loaded or unloaded, its tractor-truck can be busy pulling another loaded trailer to its destination. Power units need not be idle. Besides trailers are ideal as mobile warehouses.

Week Feet Affect Body

N. TULCH

Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT
9th and Madison Covington

When feet are permitted to protrude inwardly, the bony structure of the foot goes down, shutting off the nerve and blood supply in the bottom of the foot. When you cramp or choke the blood stream and slow up circulation, there is a lack of bone repair; chemical deposits, or waste matter form at the joints. Next inflammation sets in at these joints causing pain. That inflammation is often mistaken for rheumatism, arthritis, and many other ailments. Altho when you cramp the blood supply you shut off the food supply to the nerves.

When nerves are impoverished muscle tone is impaired because sensory nerves indirectly control motor nerves which in turn control the muscles. When muscles in the feet have lost their tonicity due to impoverishment of the nerves, feet are no longer subconsciously held in normal position.

Surgical shoes give support to the vital arches in the feet releasing cramped nerves and blood vessels to promote better circulation. Gradually as circulation improves, muscles grow strong and regain their tonicity.

With foot health improved the person feels better all over. Research has shown that no less than eighty-seven diseases are indirectly caused by bad feet.

Don't take chances with your health, happiness and peace of mind. With foot comfort you'll live longer and feel better.—Adv.

SUGGESTS BEST WAYS TO HANDLE THE LATE LAMBS

What to do with late lambs that are not properly finished to sell well, is a problem that confronts many sheep raisers about this time of year. Richard C. Miller, of the State College of Agriculture says such lambs should be weaned, put on clean pasture, treated for stomach worms at least every three weeks, and grown up after the nights become cool in fall. Such lambs also should be sheared, as late lambs when sheared do better than lambs carried through in the wool.

Experience this year has demonstrated again the value of getting ewes lambing early enough to have the lambs on the market before July, Mr. Miller points out. While early lambs may cost a little more to produce, they usually bring a higher price, and it is easier to finish them before hot weather hits before they are affected by stomach worms.

Farmers who have not yet purchased ewes are advised by Mr. Miller to get them as soon as possible, so they will have time to overcome the ill effects of shipment from the north and to get in proper condition for breeding. Good types of northwestern ewes are still available at prices in line with last year, he said.

While rams are scarce, as usual Mr. Miller said there are many good individuals yet to be had. He believed it is a mistake to put off buying until about breeding time. It is better he said, to have rams on the farm several weeks before breeding begins.

Farmers are advised by Mr. Miller to avoid rams that are highly fitted, as such individuals often prove temporarily non-breeders and are not active as rams in just good field conditions. Some breeders are still reluctant to shear their rams close in the spring, with the result that they come to sale season carrying more than a seasonal growth of wool. Farmers buying such rams should shear them out immediately, Mr. Miller said.

KENTUCKY FARMERS OFFERED INSURANCE ON '41 WHEAT CROP

"All-risk" wheat crop insurance will be offered to Kentucky wheat growers on the 1941 crop by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, it is announced by the State office of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Applications for insurance under the 1941 program are to be completed and premiums paid before the crop is seeded or by August 31, whichever is earlier. In all other provisions the 1941 program is virtually the same as the program in 1940 when 979 Kentucky farmers insured 15,883 acres of wheat for a total production of 159,895 bushels.

The insurance program was in effect in some states on the wheat crop in 1939 but only began operation in Kentucky in 1940.

Insurance applications are to be made through county AAA offices and local administrators of the program are the county AAA committees.

These committees now are revising yields and premium rates to bring the base period of the insurance up to date by including actual yields or losses of each farm in 1939. This annual check-up on yields and rates keeps them in line with production trends, and each wheat grower in the state will be notified of his insurable yield and the premium rate which applies to his 1941 crop.

The farmer can apply for insurance on his crop and pay the premium in one visit to the county

AAA office. Premium payments may be made with cash, with warehouse receipts for wheat in storage, or by execution of an advance against payments earned under the Agricultural Conservation program.

The insurance contract is in force as soon as it has been accepted by the county AAA committee, and the coverage, 75 percent of the farmer's average yield, is effective as soon as the 1941 wheat crop has been seeded. The grower's full acreage allotment under the Agricultural Conservation program may be insured.

SOUTHERN TURKEY SHOW PLANNED FOR KENTUCKY

Plans for an "all-southern" turkey show at Lexington in December were announced at a recent meeting of the board of directors of the Kentucky Turkey Breeders' Association. Ralph Lusby of Owenton was named show manager. He will be assisted by John Lantz, Middletown; Mrs. Anna J. Button, Glasgow; Mrs. Leslie Brown, Paris, and W. T. McCauley and E. Y. Van Doren, of Cynthiana.

Mrs. Charles Irion of Frankfort, general secretary of the association, reported progress in plans for cooperative marketing of turkeys this year.

GRANT-OF-AID LIME FOR 5,000 FARMERS

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration announces that it is supplying 73,000 tons of limestone to approximately 5,000 Kentucky farmers. The orders came from 29 counties where limestone grants-of-aid are available this year-to farmers cooperating in the agricultural conservation program.

These orders represent only about 10 percent of the lime materials to be used in the farm program this year. Most of the lime materials are coming from commercial quarries or from sources in the farms. Last year Kentucky farmers in the program used 763,000 tons of lime materials, of which 30,125 tons used by farmers in 14 counties were grants-of-aid materials.

Supplied in place of cash payments, the limestone is delivered to farmers to aid them in meeting soil building goals in the agricultural conservation program.

URGES BETTER CARE OF KENTUCKY SOIL

Urging better care of Kentucky soil, Prof. George Roberts of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, in a new circular called "Save the Soil and Improve It," says "there will never be effective soil conservation until all those who use the land realize and fulfill their obligation to pass the land on to the next generation unimpaired." The circular deals with the prevention of erosion and leaching, the growing of legumes, conservation of manure and other farm by-products, and the supplying of deficient mineral nutrients to the soil.

Gayety Theater
(Double Feature)

Sidney Toler is seen once again as Earl Derr Biggers' famous sleuth, Charlie Chan, in the 20th Century-Fox mystery drama, at the Gayety, "Charlie Chan in Panama." The supporting cast includes Jean Rogers, Lionel Atwill, Mary Nash and others.

When the producers of "The Courageous Dr. Christian," were looking for a prominent artist to conduct the musical score for their film, they only needed one interview. The first conducted they talked to was the celebrated Constantin Bakaleinikoff, and after reviewing his background, they signed him immediately.

Preview critics have certainly not been sparing in their praise of the background music that Bakaleinikoff has supplied. It maintains the true mood of the picture using a theme melody for Jean Herscholt's "Dr. Christian" character throughout.

SATURDAY

caused Russell Hayden's handsome horse, Banjo, to lose his job temporarily during the making of Zane Grey's "Knights of the Range" starring Victory Jory, Jean Parker, J. Farrell MacDonald and Britt Wood.

He was treated for them by Buff Jones, who has charge of horses for Harry Sherman, producer of the picture, but the animal failed to respond. He kept on hicoughing and when he came time for Hayden to ride into a scene another horse was substituted. Jones, familiar with horses for years, declared that it was the first time in his experience that he ever saw a horse with the hicoughs.

"Knights of the Range," which was directed by Lesley Selander, tells how the love of a beautiful girl effects the regeneration of an outlaw.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY
Hollywood Stand-Ins, Inc., is finding a staunch supporter in Richard Greene.

The organization, whose purpose is to promote the welfare of the stars' stand-ins and to get them film roles was formed while Greene was acting opposite Zorina in "I Was An Adventurer," the 20th Century-Fox picture at the Gayety Sunday and Monday.

Greene immediately went to Director Gregory Ratoff and persuaded him to give his stand-in, Warren Kane, several scenes in the film. He plans to try to get Kane roles in all his future pictures.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY
What would you do if you, as a husband, learned that your wife had spent seven years alone on a tropical isle with a strange man?

This unique situation is faced by Cary Grant in "My Favorite Wife" co-starring Irene Dunne and Grant. The story revolves around the return of a long missing wife on the night of her husband's honeymoon with his second wife, after she has been marooned for years on a desert island as a result of a sea disaster with a handsome explorer, Randolph Scott and Gail Patrick head the supporting cast of "My Favorite Wife," an RKO Radio Picture.

BURLY GROWERS AND ACREAGE CONTROL

While many conditions have their effect on the price of burley tobacco, the law of supply and demand is the dominant influence. To control the supply of burley tobacco we must limit the acreage to be raised so that the production each year will approximate the disappearance for consumption.

In the past ten years 3,261,000,000 lbs. were produced and 2,932,500,000 lbs. disappeared, leaving a surplus for the ten years of 328,500,000 lbs. The largest part of this ten year surplus was accumulated in the first four years of the decade. If nothing had been done to offset this over production our supply in 1940 would be a staggering total of about 1,500,000,000 lbs. But during the last six years the supply has not increased much because in four of these years a control program has been operative. In 1934 and 1935 the AAA control cut the surplus 138,700,000 lbs. The poor growing season of 1936 plus the unusual disappearance of 329,500,000 lbs. that year cut it again 109,900,000 lbs. In 1937 following the high price of $35.70 for the 1936 crop with no control by either nature or by the vote of the growers 140,400 acres was added to the 1934 base of 303,500 acres. This acreage is the normal acreage represents new tobacco raisers, who since that time are reckoned in acreage allotments. In 1938 the control program cut the total acreage back 40,000 acres to 406,900 acres which is the normal acreage needed now for production to correspond with present disappearance. In 1939 without voted control again the acreage jumped about 50,000 acres. A large percentage of this new acreage also represents new tobacco raisers, who are also reckoned in the acreage allotments.

We need around 400,000 acres of burley tobacco annually to take care of our consumption needs. A large per cent of this new acreage more than the 1934 acreage. This 100,000 acres has mostly gone to new tobacco raisers, who came into the production field during the two years of no acreage control, 1937 and 1939.

If production control had been operative every year by the vote of the growers since the AAA introduced it in 1934, the spread of the field would have been negligible and every tobacco raiser of 1934 would be raising more acreage this year than he raised in 1934. Even if some favoritism could be shown in the administration of the production control program, such irregularity is not a drop in the bucket as compared to what the tobacco growers have done for themselves by failing to keep in operation this stabilizing safeguard every year since 1934.

When we realize that we have allowed the field to spread from 303,500 acres in 1934 to over 400,000 acres in 1940 while our own local acreage has shrunk 20 percent to 40 percent we can only say "What fools we growers be" and resolve that while we once kicked over our own bucket "we'll never do it again."

"For Over Fifty Years"

A GREAT PARADE

America has her own troop that is mustering arms to make a completed march on this nation. There is no destruction or ruin in the wake of this grand army. There is not a fatality numbered or a bugle blown as it marches along. Comes the advance that sweeps from south to western plain, to central and northern fields, this parade of the ripening corn.

Down south corn tassels before the mid-west gets her planting finished. Into other southerly states the ears reach the table before the Michigan corn is ripe. The farther north the greater the danger of an early frost sweeping the army into oblivion. The importance of a successful attack is great due to its part taken in the agricultural picture of this country's needs. The numerous reports reaching us of famine and disease that accompanies undernourishment which is awaiting Europe this winter, make the march of the ripening corn an important item in Boone County. The name of it is the same in any section, the variety of it differs in every section. It may become food for us, fodder for our pork market or even into drink. One area may develop a strong and sturdy crop where another crop proves a loss. But the needs of many will be satisfied as the corn marches on in an array from the Gulf to Canada. The stalk and fodder that waves in the breeze.

ANOTHER CHANGE

What changes are wrought in one's lifetime? Scarcely a reader in Boone County who can't recall those moments of joy upon gazing at a new life recently come into being and making inward plans for this bit from Heaven to grow up into a future president of his country. To raise your boy to be President became a household phrase that was backed up by prurient relatives. The ultimate aim of a parent seemed to be the President's chair. Whether the position has lost its glory or because of the trials and tribulations that accompany this high position, the newborn babe today is looked upon as a child prodigy and thought of in terms of screen beauty, screen personality and screen talent. The big idea is whether a child is a photographic type. There lies a future Gable or Mickey Rooney, while the feminine crib cradles a Lamarr or Shirley Temple.

The studios complain of the vast number of aspiring parents who bring children to the coast to seek fame as child stars. Few are chosen.

The salary angle is certainly more attractive for the President's salary is about half as large as the majority of stars while many others triple and quadruple his wage. The movies are cutting down their $3,000 a week folks, they tell us, but it still gives the screen the edge.

A-STIRRING

There is a bit of hustling around centers such as Boone County where rural women are making ready items that will grace many a county fair exhibit. Women today go in for more of a variety of things than in those fair days when the lack of modern devices made farm work such a chore that there was little time for developing outside artistic talent. Gone the days of too many trips to the well, too heavy baking, too tiring the back-breaking laundry job. These little life energy for the study and discussing of outside interests. The rural woman today has her study clubs and social groups, is aware of the trend in home and dress decoration and design. She travels by auto to keep in contact with other women whose interests become hers. The county fair finds worthy exhibits from women who get beyond the farmhouse door.

A SUMMER DAY

Do not pass over the glory of a summer day, the beauty of a summer sky, the gold of summer sun, the blue-green of near-by stream, the waving black-eyed Susans, the shady roads that lead to country-where glazing heat seems not so hot, and the sun not so scorching as it filters through the tree tops. The early morning hours of a summer day refreshes us after a night of unrest. The dew that covers the grass sparkles, the sound of mower and ring of a child beats a melody of summer. Before we start out on a day of labor to produce and provide, we must gaze about us and appreciate the loveliness of our natural environment that calls for a prayer for continued simple, peaceful days. For such riches we are grateful.

STILL TOPS

With the constant talk of additional airplanes and new types of planes, man must still look to his laurels to produce as an efficient machine in the air as the one manipulated by the master of the skies, the bird. The sight of the winged creatures as they dip and swing, their grace as the wings carry them high and low, is a sight that our modern planes cannot successfully equal. The only bird that man has over the feathered flier, is speed. Birds know more about the winds than does man and they carry all of the necessary equipment of the plane from wing slots and landing gear to flaps. They gave us the idea of changing the wing as while in flight but man cannot do it as easily. A bird knows just the proper time to migrate, to locate the right tail winds, to save the lengthy stretches for the favorable winds. Man cannot be too self-satisfied with his progress in plane manufacture.

There is strong evidence of equality between the sexes to be seen in any city where runs a bus or street car line.

The only way it can be said that the meek are inheriting this earth, is by having a hunk of it placed on them by a shovel.

TIMELY HINTS

Paste blotting paper on the bottom of rough vases that sit on polished furniture. They will not scratch. . . . During hot weather do not dampen clothes too far in advances of the ironing for they mildew quickly. If you do not finish your ironing at one time, shake your clothes out to dry and sprinkle them later on. . . . Stains that form around the water edge of vases may be removed by moistening tea leaves with vinegar and cleaning vase.

THE WORKS AND THE WORD OF GOD

LESSON TEXT—Psalm 19.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer.—Psalm 19:14.

Consistently beautiful and beautifully consistent is the revelation of God, whether it be in the glory of His works, in the perfection of His Word, or in His gracious dealings with man. The spiritually minded man sees God in all of His works, whereas the blind materialist sees only matter and natural laws which he may use to abuse. He makes of God's creation things for his own comfort or for the destruction of his fellow men, not recognizing "the Creator, who is blessed forever." This is a serious matter, for in so doing the unbeliever has "changed the truth of God into a lie" (read Rom. 1:25-26).

The psalmist here presents God as He is revealed in nature, in His Word, and in the heart of man.

I. God's Glory Revealed in Nature (vv. 1-6).

"The heavens declare the glory of God. The sun in all its glory and power and the stars of the night all 'utter forth a glorious voice,' as Joseph Addison expresses it."

"Forever shining as they shine." "The hand that made us is divine."

Nature speaks eloquently of God without saying a single word. The eye, the mind, and the heart of men may see in and know from nature alone the "eternal power and Godhead," so that they are without excuse (Rom. 1:20). No man living beneath the surface of things beyond the bounds of God's court preachers."

Those who do not hear or heed the voice of God in their ears "are stopped with the clay of earthly tastes and occupations, or stuffed with scientific wadding of the most modern kind" (MacLaren), are described by Paul as having their hearts darkened: "Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools" (Rom. 1:21, 22).

Nowhere is God's limited revelation of God showing His existence, power and wisdom; but to really know Him we must see:

II. God's Perfection Revealed in His Word (vv. 7-11).

Nowhere in the book of nature is it written that God is a Redeemer, a cleanser from sin, a restorer of the soul. That truth is found only in His Word—the Bible. What folly then for sinful men who need redemption to see God only in nature, but never look into His Word or go to church that they may hear His truth proclaimed.

The perfect revelation of God is in His Son, Jesus Christ, the Redeemer. The psalmist with the eye of faith saw the perfection of God revealed in His law. We are privileged to know the Son of God who came not "to destroy the law . . . but to fulfill."

Note the beautiful symmetry of verses 7-9:

Law . . . perfect . . . restoring (R.V.)
Testimony . . . making wise
Statutes . . . right . . . rejoicing
Commandment . . . pure . . . enlightening
Fear . . . clean . . . enduring
Judgments . . . true . . . altogether righteous

Little wonder that the psalmist says that the words of God are sweeter than honey, more precious than gold, and worthy to be heeded and kept. The great reward of thus knowing God's Word is that we may learn of:

III. God's Grace Revealed in the Heart of Man (vv. 12-14).

Man is a sinner; sometimes he sins unwittingly and ignorantly; sometimes deliberately and in presumption; and sometimes both. What shall he do with his sin? The psalmist says to bring it to God in repentance and prayer for cleansing. We may add to his invitation the admonition to come for cleansing in the blood of Christ.

"Come to this fountain, so rich and sweet; Cast thy poor soul at the Saviour's feet; Plunge in today, and be made complete; Glory to His name!"

God's grace not only cleanses—it keeps us. He is able and willing to make not only the words of our mouth, but the very meditation of our hearts acceptable in His sight. That means holy living. There is nothing more needed in our day than a revival of Christian living in the daily responsibilities of life. Personal purity of heart and motive, recognition of God's Word in thought and life—these things will make the believer "upright" (v. 13) and reflect honor and glory on the Lord who is our "strength" (R. V. "rock") "and redeemer" (v. 14).

Principle Holds Good
Except a man become like a little child, we are told, he cannot enter into the kingdom of heaven. This principle holds good in other kingdoms as well. Unless we become as humble as a child and are willing to be taught we cannot enter into the kingdom of music, or art, or knowledge, or scientific agriculture.

There are still some folks who believe their luck will last indefinitely. Free speech on the radio is fine for you always have the privilege of turning the dial.

FOR A PICNIC
A subscriber gives us this idea for a picnic table cloth. She made a large picnic table-cloth of easily laundered percale. In the center she made pockets in which a stone was placed to keep the cloth from blowing in the wind.

Are you bedeviled by a thousand demons tearing at your back?
Do you hate to get up in the morning?

Do you experience foot pain when walking?
Can you imagine your feet all day without fatigue?

Any or all of these conditions may indicate that one or more of the four arches of your feet are on the verge of collapse. There is really no end to the trouble that such a condition could cause. Around the bones and muscles of your feet are numerous nerves, all of which are directly connected with the nerve center. Severe pains in your feet are transmitted to every part of your body.

What can you do about it?
For years men and women have withstood the aches and misery due to some foot condition and have always decided "There is nothing you can do about it."

Now Comes a Sure Way to Relief for many aches and pains due to faulty foot condition. You will be eager to rise each morning and meet the conditions of the new day. You will have the springy active step of a youngster of eighteen. You will not be old at forty! There is no secret to it. You don't have to take a long rest, nor a change of climate. You need only to be correctly fitted in a pair of surgical shoes. You may think this is a simple way to end all of pain and misery, you have been suffering for a good many years, but after all don't the simplest things in life bring the greatest joy?

Resolve today that you will pronounce the death sentence on the misery, aches and pains due to foot trouble.—Adv.

COVER WEEDS WITH PAPER
When all other methods failed to check the spread of Johnson Grass, farmers in Hancock county, Kentucky, tried covering the weed with paper. Eight carloads of superphosphate came to the county in paper bags. The happy thought struck the farmers, "Why not cover the Johnson grass area with the empty bags?" Now it looks as though the paper bags would smother the weed, says County Agent Baker Atterbury.

SERVICE CHARGES

Should the banks of Boone County agree upon some uniform service charges on accounts, the customer may rest assured of a fair and equitable plan to all concerned.

A dormant account regardless of size would not be subject to a service charge for any month if no checks were drawn on the account.

The proposed plan is not to charge a customer for taking care of his money but only for the cost to the bank according to the activity of the account. No activity, no cost.

Electric Ranges
HAVE CHANGED, TOO!

Like automobiles, electric ranges have improved tremendously in appearance and performance in recent years. Today's electric ranges give you:

Thrilling New Speed—Turn a switch and cooking starts in less than 30 seconds. New and more efficient surface units cook as fast as food will cook... with an accuracy possible only with electricity's unvarying heat.

Greater Flexibility—New 5-burner units provide the correct heat... no more, no less... for every cooking operation. No waste... no guesswork... no undercooked or overcooked foods.

New Economy of Operation—Improved efficiency of surface units makes possible reduced current consumption with even greater cooking speed than from previous units of higher wattage but less efficient design. Use of five heats instead of three prevents food and fuel waste by providing the exact heat recipe calls for. No more heat is used than is needed.

EILERMAN'S

PIKE AND MADISON... COVINGTON

Where The Breeze Blows Cool

By Mrs. Cam White

I have been asked to describe our vacation:

In our party were Percy and Pauline Ryle, Harold White, Mr. White and myself.

We started July 5, and drove through Indiana on the old Michigan trail. The first night we stopped at Fowler, Ind. This was a nice drive the land is fine farming country. Next morning we drove into Illinois. We saw along this drive, acres of corn and wheat. The wheat made a lovely picture with its golden color waving in the sunshine.

We drove to Wisconsin, and this drive was beautiful. We saw many clover fields. They were white with clover blossoms and a new kind to us—a deep blue. For miles we could see red, white and blue on one side of the road and crimson, yellow and white blossoms on the other side. The air was so heavily laden with perfume from the blossoms one would think they were in a florist shop.

Wisconsin has beautiful dairy herds of Holstein and the finest of barns I have seen. One farm would have five or six large barns and also for each barn. Most of the houses were small three-room cottages.

We stopped at Lake Winnebago. This is a nice large lake forty miles long and 12 miles wide. Our cabin was just a few feet from the lake. It had three nice rooms, one facing the lake and the west. The sunset was very pretty. The shore of the lake has large boulders as far as you can see. We always are looking for fishing spots but we found Lake Winnebago rough and could not use the boats. We fished from the pier and I caught a nice black bass.

The next morning we started to the virgin forest. This was a beautiful drive. You could see for miles. On either side of the road were large pines and other evergreen trees. It was cool, like our October weather. The old spider had connected the lovely trees together with his lovely lacy web and the little dew drops on the web and trees with the sun shining on them looked like millions of diamonds. We had this pretty picture with us for many miles.

We spent the night at Metla Lake. This is a large lake with summer cottages on the shore line and mail is delivered by motor boat once each day. They have a mail box on the pier.

We then drove to Michigan, thru Den Mountain and over the American Legion Lane. This was a beautiful drive, the road being in the best of condition. We had a good view of the lake from either side with lovely birch trees set fifty feet apart. In the distance you could see an arch. It was formed by the trees overlapping at the end of the lane. Upon reaching the end we arrived at a beautiful little town with the word "Welcome" to greet us. This town was on Lake Michigan.

We drove to Lake Superior, then stopped to get our supplies, for we were headed for the great woods. We stopped to say hello to our old friend Ed, the trapper, and his family. Then we headed for Mr. and Mrs. Chaffee's log cabin. We found a full camp, but they had a nice log cabin waiting for us.

We unloaded our car and then for the lake where the bass, bluegill and perch like to play hide and seek with us Kentuckians. We had a nice number of bass for supper.

Our cabin set on a small peninsula, facing the east. It had two bedrooms with good beds and a large kitchen. It also had a nice screened-in porch with comfortable chairs. It is so cool that one must have fire, so we had a wood range on which to cook and to heat the cabin. There were fourteen cabins in all and the lodge is a nice place where we gather and tell about the catches.

We fished every day, caught so many we gave three large strings away. We caught large mouth bass, bluegill, walleyes, Northern pike, sun crappies, and perch. We did not trout fish this time. We took many pictures of the beautiful country, deer and lakes. Our last afternoon we hired the guide and his wife to take two boats to another lake to fish. The guide and his wife took me in the boat with them. They seemed to know just where the fish were. They said, "over here are the pike," out comes the plug and Polly pulls in Mr. Pike. Then over here is the perch then one of us casts and in comes the perch. This is true of the bass, blue gill, and the clam beds. They apparently know them all. The guide, his wife, and myself crossed through the beautiful woods to another lake. It was more beautiful than the one we first fished. The lake was large and the shore was white sand and reminded us of the sand found at the Gulf of Mexico.

I enjoyed talking to these people of the woods for they tell so many interesting things. How they trap the bear and kill the deer in winter and how they use the ski and snow shoes. This afternoon we caught 20 pounds of pike, bass, bluegill and perch to bring home with us. We had the misfortune to lose 15 pounds which broke loose from our boat. Pete packed the fish in ice, fern leaves and sawdust for us to bring home.

Our stay was all too short, as I do enjoy the cool weather and lakes for I like to go in the lakes although the water remains forty degrees all summer.

Now is it time for us to start for Kentucky. We told the folks goodbye, for we made new friends, and the next morning we were on our way. We drove many miles thru pine and birch woods and the scenery was beautiful, with the spring flowers in bloom. We drove along the shore of Lake Michigan for many miles. It was so pretty, the water was a shade of blue. The lake was either angry or joyous for it was very rough and the waves were high and the wind was on the shore line. I sometimes fancied it was gay, dancing in the sun. Then again it would make you think it was angry roaring at you as you passed by.

We crossed the Straits of Mackinac. I always enjoy the big bridge and the noise of the traffic at you and each other. We drove along the shores of Lake Huron for many miles. It too is a beautiful lake. It was in a quiet mood and as blue as the sky. It appeared as though the sky and lake met. There were tiny specks on the blue, and it was difficult to discern where it was on the water or in the heavens, but looking through our spy glasses we could see that it was a lake steamer. We stopped at a tourist camp that night, and obtained a cabin on the lake shore. We drove through Ohio, Indiana and back to old Kentucky. I must say Michigan is the best prepared state of any I have traveled for tourists. We have an invitation to spend a few weeks in the woods in winter and I know I would enjoy this outing.

I have been asked by many what I really think of the National Forest. It is beautiful to me, but I would say again if you do not love the great outdoors just as it was made by our Creator, with no luxuries, a log cabin for your home, no rugs, just like our forefathers, then you must love all these and see the beauty in them to enjoy Hawiatha National Forest.

Commanding General Of Fifth Corps Area Outlines Defense Plans

By Capt. R. H. Dunlap

"The gravest crisis ever known in the history of the United States may develop in the next few months. Ominous rumblings which may or may not influence our national security are heard. There must be no further delay in inaugurating measures for an adequate National Defense. This country must immediately proceed to build-up, equip, and train its army. We will meet the challenge of this hour," declared Brigadier General Campbell B. Hodges, Commandant of the Army's Fifth Corps Area.

"It is gratifying to observe that Americans are awake to the necessity of a larger Army. There seems to be a growing popular sentiment throughout this country. With preparations developed for a broad coordination of civilian, military and naval efforts, it is to be expected that, in time, sufficient strength will be created to safeguard this country from attack."

The Army is now authorized to increase its strength to 280,000 and Congress may approve further increases.

"That's a real job," the General said. "In these days of uncertainty and emotional stress, we all must approach our individual responsibilities with a determination to give efficiency and cooperation. It requires cool heads and national unity."

"The young men of this area are responding splendidly to the call to the colors. We are enlisting them as rapidly as provisions can be made for proper equipment and training. Thousands are being detailed to Army schools, where they are taught trades and professions free of charge in addition to their Army pay."

"Too, the general public in the states of this area is giving us remarkably fine cooperation. With the increasing momentum of our expansion drive, it is truly gratifying to note the moral support given the Army. Calm, energetic action is the order of the day," according to the top officer in our "local sector" of National Defense.

The General's experience affords him ample background for his responsibilities. He served through the World War. He saw the hysteria that developed at that time, and heard the talk of "a million men will spring to arms overnight," they sprang, but they had to wait for arms!

Now, the Army intends to make no such mistakes. Equipment, in this period of mechanized warfare, is even more complicated and essential than in the World War. And the machinery has been put in motion to obtain it with the least possible delay. Government and industry are working closely together to supply every need.

General Hodges has had a wide range of experience since he entered West Point in 1899 from his home state of Louisiana. After his graduation in 1903, he was assigned as a second lieutenant with the 30th Infantry in the Philippine Islands.

In 1905 he was transferred to San Francisco, where he served at the Presidio, and at Alcatraz Island (which later was taken over to serve as the Federal Government's prison for "tough guys" such as Al Capone).

From the West Coast he was shifted to Fort Clatsop, N. Y., for a short tour of duty going from there to maneuvers at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, his first service in the Fifth Corps Area, which he now commands. He then was stationed at Fort Thomas, Ky., until 1908, part of this service was taken up in working on military maps of Kentucky.

In 1908 the General returned to the Philippines and while there was promoted to first lieutenant. Then back to the United States and the Presidio of San Francisco again, in 1909 and 1910, when he was moved to Fort Logan H. Roots, Arkansas.

His alma mater, West Point, then recalled him as instructor in tactics until 1911, then he became Professor of Military Science and Tactics at Louisiana University until 1912. While there, he took post-graduate courses, and remained on leave at the university until March, 1913, when he received his M. A. Degree.

General Hodges saw service at Galveston and in the operations at Vera Cruz, Mexico, 1913 to 1915. Then to Louisiana for two years as Inspector Instructor of the National Guard, going to the Mexican Border as Lt. Colonel, Sst. Lt. Infantry, in 1916.

In March, 1917, then Captain Hodges went to the Military Bureau in Washington and was shifted to the War Department General Staff in June, during which time he received temporary rank as major.

Then he became Acting Chief of Staff with the 31st Division at Camp Wheeler, Ga.

In September, 1918, the General, then holding temporary rank as Colonel, 122nd Infantry, sailed for France with the 31st Division and took part in the Meuse-Argonne Offensive, served at Lemans with the 83d Division and at the General Headquarters of the A. E. F. under General John J. Pershing.

The war ended, the General returned to the United States in March, 1919. He served in Washington until early in 1921, when he was transferred to Camp Meade, Md. Meanwhile, he had reverted to the rank of a major.

In June, 1921, he was ordered to Coblenz, Germany, where he served as Assistant Chief of Staff in the Army of Occupation, returning to America in 1922. More General Staff service followed in Washington until 1923, he was assigned as Military Attache to Spain and Portugal, where he remained for three years.

He was commandant, and for a time, Acting Superintendent at West Point, being promoted to Lieutenant Colonel. From 1927 to 1933, he was Military Aide to the President. He also studied at the Chemical Warfare School and was graduated from the Army War College. Late in 1933 he was transferred to Panama as Commander of the 14th Infantry. While there, he was promoted to Colonel.

In 1935, he accompanied the Secretary of War on his trip to the Orient, returning to Panama in 1936.

Back to the United States in August, 1936, he served as Chief of Staff, Fourth Corps Area, until December, where as a brigadier general, he became Commander of the 14th Brigade at Fort Snelling, Minn.

In 1938, he assumed command of 5th Division and at the close of the maneuvers in the South, this summer, he came to the Fifth Corps Area as its commandant, and in November was confirmed as Major General, effective September 1st.

For his valuable contributions as Acting Chief of Staff of the 31st Division, and on the General Staff, General Hodges was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal. He also holds the Spanish Cross of Military Merit, the Spanish Morocco Peace Medal and the Rumanian Order of the Star. He is 59 and unmarried.

Gayety Theater News

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY

Blonde and lovely Alice Faye portrays the first and greatest of America's glamor girls in Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "Lillian Russell," the 20th Century-Fox film which will be shown at the Gayety and features Don Ameche and Henry Fonda with her.

The colorful life and loves of the striking American beauty are revived in all their splendor and magnificence in "Lillian Russell," with the sparkling, dashing days of America's most fabulous era as a background.

Lillian Russell was famous for her marvelous voice as well as her splendid acting and great beauty, and Alice Faye sings many of the songs Lillian popularized.

Don Ameche has the role of Lillian's composer-husband, who struggled to author her greatest stage success. It is Ameche's third composer role, and advance reports indicate his acting again is outstanding as it was in "Alexander's Ragtime Band" and "Swanee River."

Henry Fonda is cast as Alexander Moore, the newspaperman who fell in love with the gorgeous Lillian when they were both young, but failed to tell her about it. Fresh from his triumph in "The Grapes of Wrath," Fonda is said to give another stirring portrayal in a highly dramatic role.

The great Lillian Russell numbered among her admirers such famed persons as Diamond Jim Brady, the financier, and Jesse Lasky, the copper king, played respectively by Edward Arnold and Warren William.

SATURDAY

Good, clean, wholesome fun for the entire family will be brought to the screen Saturday when Lila Belle and Scotty, that famous radio pair, join with Richard Cromwell and Doris Day in "Village Barn Dance," a musical comedy centered around real country folk.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY
Vivian Leigh and Robert Taylor form the outstanding romantic team of 1946 in "Waterloo Bridge," their new starring film which will be shown at the Gayety.

In her first American screen appearance since she won the Academy Award for her performance as Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone with the Wind," Miss Leigh has a no less romantic, but more tender and sympathetic role in the new film as a ballet dancer who falls in love with a dashing young officer she meets on Waterloo Bridge during an air raid.

As the officer, Taylor has one of the finest roles of his career, a characterization which requires him to act from twenty-five to forty-eight. Their breathless love story and the effects of war on their romance and lives is graphically told in the film.

Featured in the notable supporting cast are such screen favorites as Lucile Watson, Virginia Field, Maria Ouspenskaya and C. Aubrey Smith.

TUESDAY

FOR BUTTONS
When making buttonholes on sheer fabrics use a piece of material under the place where you cut the hole. Cut through both thicknesses and make buttonhole. When finished the underneath material can be cut away and the hole edge will be firm. When buying buttons for sheer dresses, be sure they aren't glued on the shanks for these sort will come off easily in the laundry.

JACK JOHNSON FACES MURDER CHARGE

VOTERS ARE GIVEN NOTICE

THAT REGISTRATION BOOKS WILL BE OPENED AUGUST 14 AND CLOSED SEPT. 6TH—ACCORDING TO C. D. BENSON

Special attention is called to the fact that the registration books will be open from August 14th to September 6th (dates inclusive) in the office of the County Court Clerk for the benefit of all persons desiring to change their voting place or their party affiliation before the general election in November.

Many voters in the county do not realize that their registration in the November election will determine their eligibility to vote in the coming County primary in 1941. In other words, if you are registered under any other party than the Democrat in this November election in Boone County, you cannot change your registration before the County primary election in 1941, and therefore will not be permitted to vote in the county election. To register a Democrat this fall does not mean that you have to vote the Democratic ticket this fall, as you can vote your choice of any party in November.

Almost everyone in Boone County will want to participate in the coming County primary in August 1941, at which time all of the county officials will be elected for the four years with the exception of the Circuit Court Clerk, who is elected every six years. The registration books will not be opened for the changing of party affiliation at any time after September 6, 1940 and only persons registered under the Democratic Party will be entitled to vote in the Democratic primary in 1941.

Further details regarding your registration will be gladly furnished at the office of C. D. Benson, County Court Clerk either by phone or mail.

Be sure you understand the new registration laws before September 6, 1940.

He was a native of Boone County, having been born and reared a mile south of Burlington. He leaves his widow, five nephews, one niece, all of California and some cousins in Kentucky.

It was Mr. Sandford's request before his death, that he be returned to his native county for burial. Services were conducted Wednesday, August 14th at 10 a. m. in the Bellevue cemetery by Rev. William Smith.

Chambers and Grubbs were in charge of funeral arrangements.

FARMERS RUSH SOIL PRACTICES

IN ORDER TO SHARE IN $75,000 BENEFITS ALLOTTED BOONE COUNTY—LIMESTONE BEING USED HEAVILY.

Farmers are rushing late minute work in carrying out soil building practices, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Field supervisors' reports the past week show that the allowance earned to-date has increased from 27 percent to 48 1/2 percent of the approximate $75,000 allotted the County.

There will be a large scale use of limestone and phosphate during the next two weeks. Three carloads of phosphate totaling 125-500 pounds were ordered through the County Office on Monday of this week. This will be the last phosphate ordered under the 1940 program.

Despite the big step-up in soil building practices during the past few weeks, the present percentage figures indicate there is still $27,000 unearned and will be lost unless farmers carry out additional practices before August 31st. Most farmers are hoping to earn 100 percent of their allowance. An honor roll will be made of all 100 percent farmers.

These men are forerunners of the homecoming and we have the promise of hearing messages that will be well worth the time. Rev. J. F. Moore, Burlington will lead the singing.

100TH YEAR TO BE CELEBRATED

BY PETERSBURG CHRISTIAN CHURCH SUNDAY, AUGUST 18 —DR. EDGAR DEWITT JONES WILL BE SPEAKER.

One hundred years of continuous service. That is the enviable record of the "Christian meeting house" erected by the grandparents of this quiet little river town. This simple, white, brick structure with its steeply playing hide and seek among the overhanging branches of lordly elms, has been the "meeting house" not only of the Christian Church, organized August 29, 1836, but for every gathering of community interest in its hundred years of service.

The descendants of its builders have kept it in excellent condition through the years, and have endeavored to keep the spirit of their ancestors who placed over its wide doors a stone with unique inscription, "Christian Meetinghouse, Lord's Prayer: I pray that the world may be one; that the world may believe that thou hast sent me. Jno. 17:21. Erected A. D. 1840."

Although it has never had a large membership, the church has served well in the community and has sent some fine men and women out into the world. The present membership is 106.

Dr. Edgar DeWitt Jones, pastor of Central Woodward Christian Church, Detroit, will deliver the centennial sermon, Sunday morning, August 18th, at 11:00 central standard time. Dr. Jones was pastor of Petersburg Christian Church 1900-3. Other former pastors and visiting ministers will assist the pastor Rev. Noble Lucas in the celebration. Former members and friends are invited to share in this all day service.

Thieves Enter Telephone Office Sunday Night

Thieves entered the office of the Consolidated Telephone Company sometime Sunday night and escaped with only a small loot. Entrance was gained by cutting through the wall in a small stockroom adjoining the main office, the wall being only one thickness of wallboard.

The loot consisted of a Royal typewriter, valued at $40.00. The small safe containing all money was tampered with, but entrance was not gained. The safe was found laying on its side and all things removed when the office was opened Monday morning. Nothing else in the office was touched according to company officials.

Deputy Sheriff J. T. Williams was summoned to make an investigation. A fingerprint expert also summoned, found several fingerprints on the safe and other objects in the office.

LOCALS REMAIN IN TOP BRACKET

PETERSBURG LEAD IN LEAGUE STANDING WITH BURLINGTON AND BELLEVUE TIED FOR SECOND PLACE.

Burlington and Bellevue continued their nip-and-tuck battle for second place in the Boone County Baseball League last Saturday. Burlington defeated Hebron by a 5 to 3 count while Bellevue trimmed Sand Run 6 to 2.

The "Burlington Hebron" game was a pitcher's battle between Akim and Jones, each giving but few bingles and they were well scattered. Burlington broke a three-three tie in the ninth on a two base error, a triple and a single. The victory gave Burlington a 4-0 mark on Hebron in league games this season.

John Kittle curve-balled another victory for Bellevue when he let the coal-hole dwellers down with seven hits. Goodridge was the Sand Run moundman. Petersburg won a slugfest from Big Bone. The final county was 16 to 12.

Games next Saturday place the three top teams against the second division clubs. Big Bone will be gunning for their fourth victory of the year over Burlington. They have been trying to break a two-game losing streak. Burlington will be trying for their fourth consecutive win.

The league leading Petersburg team will play Sand Run at Sand Run and Bellevue will entertain Hebron at the Grant Park.

How They Stand

Team	Won	Lost
Petersburg	13	2
Burlington	9	6
Bellevue	9	6
Big Bone	7	9
Hebron	6	9
Sand Run	1	14

Games Saturday

Big Bone at Burlington. Hebron at Bellevue. Petersburg at Sand Run.

Constance Wins

The Constance Hilltoppers defeated Bromley 9 to 8 at Constance Sunday. The game was a slug-ging match for the first five innings, but a chance of pitchers for both sides developed into a pitching duel until Constance was able to pull away the winning tally in the tenth frame. The game was tied eight all at the end of the fifth.

Constance travels to Hebron Sunday for a game which should be a good one if previous games between the teams should be duplicated.

The grand jury was in session approximately six hours Monday before returning the indictment against Johnson. The witnesses summoned for the case were William Black, Hansel Williamson, Cliff Stephens, Dr. Yelton, C. Scott Chambers, Marie McNeely, Chester Hill, Jim Shannon, Hugh Stephens, Ryle Isaacs, Ray Smith, Mrs. Ray Smith, Orville Hensley, C. L. Cropper, F. M. Walton and J. T. Williams.

Johnson was held in Burlington jail following the shooting of Lucien Black on Sunday July 21. At an examining trial in Judge Riddell's court Johnson was charged with manslaughter and held for action of grand jury. His bond was set at $5,000 by Judge Riddell.

Although it was not officially announced, it was stated by the Commonwealth Attorney that the state will not ask for the death penalty, even though this indictment carries the penalty of death.

The grand jury after being in session two days returned five indictments, namely. One against Jack Johnson; three against Russell Miller, of Big Bone, charged with selling beer on Sunday; one against Paul Moore (alias Kenneth Duke) for a $400 mark on a charge of forgery. His bail was set at $1,000. The grand jury is still in session.

The following is a list of the jurors:

Petit Jury No. 1—Alva Wood, Elmer Sutton, Thos. Ryan, Guy Butler, Cam Wase, G. H. Wason, Jr., Howard Goodridge, Raymond Hightower, Tom Hensley, Louvette Rogers, Vernon Scott and Milton Ayler.

Grand Jury—Orville Kelly, J. B. Pettit, Lewis Ryle, J. C. Hollis, Wm. Doyle, Russell Garrison, E. F. Gordon, Ira Smith, W. T. McElasson, H. J. Kelly, Roscoe Akim, M. M. Garnett.

DOG OWNERS GIVEN WARNING

MUST OBTAIN LICENSE IMMEDIATELY—CIRCUIT JUDGE REQUESTS GRAND JURY TO MAKE INVESTIGATION.

Dog owners throughout the county who have not purchased their licenses were requested to do so immediately by F. M. Walton, Sheriff.

Sheriff Walton stated that there were approximately 100 dog owners in the county who had been cited to appear before Judge Riddell, and had failed to observe the citation. Mr. Walton stated Tuesday that Circuit Judge, Ward Yager instructed the grand jury to make an investigation of the delinquent dog owners.

A letter from the State Department, Frankfort, to Sheriff F. M. Walton recently, requested that a special effort be made to collect dog licenses throughout the county. After extensive work the sheriff and his deputies have reduced the number of delinquents, but there are still over one hundred. Sheriff Walton urges all dog owners to purchase their tags before court costs are levied.

Mrs. Albert Pettit returned from the hospital last week.

THIS IS A RELIEF

We have been doing a bit of worrying about what would happen to us as a nation, if our rubber supply from the Far East would be cut off, due to foreign developments. It was a picture of alarming proportions for the importance of rubber is great in a country that has so much motor transportation. Ninety percent of the rubber used in tire manufacture came from the Far East. So we asked what would result if we lost this raw material so essential to our industry and our defense.

It was with relief that we learned of synthetic rubber which will help us out of an emergency. There is a way of making this rubber out of petroleum or natural gas by combining it with elements that produce a synthetic rubber. The cost of products will be slightly higher until goods can be turned out on a large production basis. But it is the relief of knowing that, were we completely cut off from our Far Eastern source, American manufacturers may turn home-wards. For those who knew it not, our rubber industry was controlled by a board in London who regulated the world's rubber supply. Sometimes in the past we have suffered through an unreasonable boost in price. Perhaps this synthetic rubber will give us protection from this, as well. We are convinced again that it didn't pay us to worry about the matter.

"GOD BLESS AMERICA"

Many a Boone County resident goes about whistling a song that pleases his fancy. It isn't a love-sick ditty or a jitter jig but a patriotic air that is catchy and stirring. It recently caught the nation's fancy when it played an important part in both of the political campaigns. The song was written in 1917 when Irving Berlin composed it for a patriotic musical show. However, it went to sleep and nothing was heard from it until Kate Smith gave it life and feeling on a radio broadcast, an Armistice evening in 1938. "God Bless America" is now sung with fire and fervor and seems to be a national anthem. Due to the radio this air is popularized to such an extent that it really does ring, "From the mountains, to the prairies, To the oceans white with foam." It is easy for any voice to handle and this helps make it a hit.

With the many stores selling lapel pins of colored American flags, of ladies bracelets of small flags fastened by chains, or emblems for coats bearing the words, "God Bless America," we are having a wave of patriotism that isn't all hysterical. This song is sung in public assemblies, open air meetings, baseball games, band concerts. Perhaps you did not know that Irving Berlin gets no money as profit from the thousands of sheets of this music that are sold. Every penny goes to the Girl and Boy Scouts. "God Bless America, my home, sweet home."

A GOOD YEAR

The part of the west that has been under storms of dust, is yearly showing a gain in crop production that is the result of nature and man cooperating. The "dust bowl" is reclaimed and this year they produce a good wheat crop that speaks well for the cover crops and contour plowing. The trees that have been planted to form a protective belt is of benefit to the plains swept by dusty winds. This year the rainfall has been helpful, but whether or not these new trees could stand a severe drought and would perish with the wheat, is a matter of conjecture by farmers most concerned. Folks of Boone County are mighty glad that the "dust bowl" makes this encouraging report for this year's crops.

OF VITAL IMPORTANCE

Last year on August 15th was celebrated the silver anniversary of the Panama Canal. This anniversary did not pass by unheralded for its important role in the life of our country is too great to disregard. The linking of the two oceans was not a dream but became a reality with the completion of the Panama Canal. They celebrated the success of the canal as a commercial lane of traffic which showed a monthly increase in traffic and tonnage. The Panama Canal is a vital link in our present scheme of national defense and this month of August, on its 26th anniversary, when the government makes plans to protect it from any invasion, we salute the canal with special concern. The farmers of the west who use this canal for shipping to the east are anxious for it to be preserved. Transportation of produce is important. But most important is the fact that this canal may have many more birthdays to unite the east coast and the west coast as one.

WORKING TOGETHER

Many of the companies of the country who will be faced with the problem of men who have been working for them, taking part in training activities due to conscription. This is a problem to cause worry to the employer. The offering of time and person for the protection of one's country is noble, but it should not mean that men subjected to training, lose their civilian standing in their community. We in Boone County are anxious for protection, to fail to appreciate it by refusing to cooperate in the cases of hiring and sharing. We must share and share alike in this new burden and it is very obvious that there is no fair way of continuing as volunteers and employer if we do not work together.

GOD'S CARE OF HIS PEOPLE
LESSON TEXT—Psalm 23.
GOLDEN TEXT—"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want."—Psalm 23:1.

Confidence, contentment, assurance, safety, security—all words expressing the deep desire of the human heart—fittingly characterize the blessed and beautiful Shepherd Psalm which is our lesson next Sunday.

Where the soul meets God in personal, intimate fellowship—in the promise of provision for every need, deliverance from every danger, the assurance of both present and ultimate blessing. It has become the best known of all psalms and perhaps the favorite scripture of most Christians.

Religious duty may cause us to miss the blessing of such a scripture passage. To help us to make a fresh approach to this Twenty-third Psalm, let us follow the suggestion of Dr. W. E. B. DuBois, who thinks of it as describing the journey of life. We find that we may go forth

I. In the Care of a Sure Guide (vv. 1, 2).

Nothing is more important in traversing an unfamiliar land than to have a competent guide. The journey of life is a pilgrimage through a land unknown to us, with its many perils, dangers, and also its untold wildernesses, its pitfalls and its enemies in ambush.

"The Lord is my shepherd." If I am in His flock He will guide me, care for me and give me the joy of green pastures and still waters.

The expression "maketh me to lie down" (v. 2) is worthy of special comment—all too often we become so busy or too important to take the rest we should have, and the Good Shepherd has to "bend the knee" of the sheep and make him lie down, sometimes even by the force of sickness, or of a cruel circumstance. Why do we make it necessary for our Shepherd to thus deal with us?

II. With Every Need Provided (v. 3).

We are a needy people, constantly dependent on the loving provision of our God. Dr. J. H. Jowett says that man has three enemies: (1) The lack of money, (2) the temptation of death which awaits him tomorrow. Good Shepherd, wilt Thou meet these mine enemies for me? "Yes," comes His answer through the psalmist.

For the sin of yesterday there is the restoring of the soul. Everywhere the power of God is evident, restoring that which has been destroyed or broken down, mending the wound; but nowhere is it more evident or blessed than in His restorative ministries to the soul. He cleanses from sin, gives peace through His Word, restores a hymn or a bit of poetry, comfort in the fellowship of a friend.

For today—"He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake." The world offers many by-paths, and makes them seem to be the right way, but my heavenly Guide will lead me in the way of righteousness. This He does, not because of any merit in me, but for His own dear name's sake—for "the praise of the glory of his grace" (Eph. 1:6). That cares for the need of today.

But tomorrow, or on some tomorrow, I must go the way of all flesh and (unless Jesus comes) I must "walk through the valley of the shadow of death." Even there I need "fear no evil." The Good Shepherd is as much with me in the dark and swelling waters of that valley as He was with me "beside the still waters." Little wonder that this psalm has been the comfort of tens of thousands of believers in Christ as they have passed through that valley. Why will anyone do without this Christ, who is the Good Shepherd (John 10:11)?

Every need finds its full satisfaction: enemies are discomfited, the oil of gladness anoints our heads, and our cups run over as we go on.

III. To a Destination Certain and Blessed (v. 6).

Not all who set out upon a journey reach their goal, but the Lord has never lost one of those entrusted to His care (John 17:12). Goodness and mercy through all the days of our lives would lead only to ultimate disappointment if they did not bring us to the Father's house.

In that house there are "many mansions" or abiding places (John 14:2) prepared for us by our Lord. We know we shall come to that blessed journey and with safety, because He will bring us there, to go in and out no more forever.

To study such a lesson is to create the desire in one's heart that all men should know about this Good Shepherd, to be brought into His flock. Reader, do you know Christ as your Saviour and the Shepherd of your soul? If not, will you not come to Him now by faith?

It's only during a war that some fellows have a chance of really fighting back.

Conscience may speak to the man, but it's lucky for us it doesn't speak to the neighbors.

Former Boone Countian Celebrates 80th Birthday

After one reaches 45 years of age, years begin to go so fast that memories seem to be formed from events that took place only yesterday, Louis C. Yager, credit manager of the property management division of the Indianapolis Real Estate Board, commented yesterday. He observed his 80th birthday last week.

An informal open house in honor of Mr. Yager took place from 3 to 5 o'clock last week at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Elsie Forman, and son-in-law, Walter L. Forman, at 9450 Broadway.

Besides a number of relatives, many real estate and property manager friends of Mr. Yager were in attendance.

Hostesses, with Mrs. Forman, was his other daughter, Mrs. Elsie Riggs of Covington, Ky.; Mrs. Virginia Cain of Norwood, O., and Miss Grace J. Yager, with whom he resides at 654 East 13th street, Apartment No. 3.

On Job Despite Heat.
Despite the current heat wave, Mr. Yager is at his office at the Indianapolis Real Estate Board in the inland building around 8 o'clock each morning. From then until 5 o'clock the evening he is constantly in touch with rental offices, business firms and other agencies endeavoring to "get a line" on prospective tenants. Even during his noon hour he often visits rental offices.

Mr. Yager possesses a vivid memory with none of its keenness dulled. He remembers, when a child of 5, he was awakened at night at his grandfather's home on the outskirts of Florence, Ky., by a Union army officer pounding on the door with the butt of a rifle.

"I was just 5 years old, yet that incident has always stuck with me," Mr. Yager commented. "We lived in Florence, yet most of the civilians were evacuated when the Union forces camped in town. Everybody expected the Confederates and Yankees to clash at any time without warning so father moved us to grandfather's farm. 'It's the Union Army!'"

"It was in the middle of the night when I was awakened by a pounding on the door. I was asleep on the floor. I heard my father call out from the upstairs window, 'Who's there?' A voice replied, 'It's the Union army and we want some food.'"

Mr. Yager said his father came downstairs and opened the office door to the smoke house where he gave away hams and bacon. Another time, Mr. Yager said, some soldiers surprised his grandmother baking bread in the kitchen.

When his grandmother told the man the bread was not baked, the soldiers took the dough, saying they would bake it themselves. Many times Mr. Yager said he watched the Union forces march through Florence.

Mr. Yager was born in Florence, Ky., on Aug. 4, 1860. He resided there until his marriage in Covington, Ky., on Oct. 29, 1885, to Miss Margaret Herndon. Mrs. Yager died on July 5, 1937.

Came to Indiana.
When the United States entered the World War Mr. Yager came to Greensburg, where he served as plant manufacturing materials for the United States Army.

For 28 years he lived in Cincinnati, O., where he was credit manager for three department stores. Later he came to Indianapolis, where he managed the Indiana Finance Association, now dissolved, which assisted in the purchase of automobiles.

When Mr. Yager assumed management of the rental credit bureau of the Indianapolis Real Estate Board, the individual rental offices had no system whereby they could check on prospective tenants and avoid renting properties to "dead beats." Under Mr. Yager's supervision this bureau has compiled a detailed list of more than 35,000 names of good, bad and indifferent tenants.

Most Tenants Pay.
"In my many years of experience in the credit business, I am happy to say that most persons today want to pay their rent," Mr. Yager commented. "I suppose we will always have some families who will do their best to beat the landlord who must be sued to vacate. Many tenants, through no fault of their own, have been unable to meet their obligations but later on paid up their back rent."

Mr. Yager pointed out that there is an urgent demand today for modern homes to rent in the $30 to $40 a month class. He said there are scores of shacks that are not rented but desirable homes are a scarcity.

"I can't understand why some enterprising builders or real estate operators do not invest in the building of modern homes for rent in the $30 to $40 class," Mr. Yager said. "Many new families are sent to Indianapolis by business firms and we just cannot find suitable houses for them."

Mr. Yager said that he believed more and more families will move from single and double houses into apartments.

More Services Wanted.
"The present-day family is demanding more and more service for its rent dollar," Mr. Yager asserted. "The renter is getting tired of firing the furnace, mowing the lawn and caring for a large house. The compactness of an apartment suite with its minimum of worries and added service is winning more and more tenants."

A sister of Mr. Yager's, Mrs. Gertrude Aylor, is 82 years old and lives in Walton, Ky. A younger sister, Mrs. Thomas B. Castelman, is 64 years old and lives in Florence, Ky. He has two granddaughters, Mrs. Edward Brasier of Norwood and Mrs. Wesley Terrill of Fort Thomas, Ky., and a grandson who lives in Los Angeles, Cal.

Mr. Yager's hobby is fishing, a sport that has brought him recognition as an authority on the subject. He has written a number of articles on fishing for nationally known sports magazines and newspapers.

Rice Dale Station Farm To Be Sold At Auction Saturday

Mrs. Minnie Schader's beautiful 64-acre farm at Rice Dale Station, near Devon, will be sold at auction Saturday, August 17, 2:30 p. m.

The farm includes a five-room house with hallway, pantry and porch, stock and tobacco barn, outbuildings, etc. A creek, which surrounds the farm for a mile, provides plenty of water the year round and good fishing. The land is level to rolling, and there are abundant shade trees.

Bessie Haley, real estate agent, is cooperating with the R. G. Kinman Realty Auction Co., 408 Coppel Bldg., Covington, in conducting the sale. Cash presents will be given.

Louis A. Bartha To Leave Consolidated Telephone Company

Louis A. Bartha, bookkeeper for the Consolidated Telephone Company for the past year, has announced his intentions of leaving the company on August 23 to take a position with the University of Illinois.

Mr. Bartha has accepted the position of accountant for the University and also plans to take the necessary training to qualify for a certified Public Accountant. Miss Naomi McHargue, of Irvine, Ky., will assume the duties of bookkeeper and cashier at the telephone company after August 23rd.

Kentucky Utilities Places National Defense Guard On Electric Power Stations

Robert M. Watt, president of Kentucky Utilities System, announced Monday at Lexington that Dix Dam hydro-electric plant and the company's six steam-electric generating stations, as well as all large substations, will be immediately barred to visitors and put under guard. The power houses are at Pineville, Lexington, Earlinton, Graham, Paducah, Ky., and Pocket, Va.

This action, Mr. Watt said, has been taken after a conference with J. J. Greenleaf, chairman of the Kentucky defense commission, acting for the federal government.

Kentucky Utilities System comprises Kentucky Utilities Company, Kentucky Power and Light Company and Old Dominion Power Company. The system supplies electricity to more than 400 communities, some 250 coal mines, and a large portion of other industrial operations in Kentucky and southwestern Virginia.

Many of the mines, including those owned by leading steel companies and automobile manufacturers, are important to national defense.

Closing Dix Dam to visitors, Mr. Watt said, will not in any way affect recreational activities on Herrington lake, which is a part of the hydro-electric plant. Fishing and other sports will be forbidden only in the immediate vicinity of the dam.

SERVICE CHARGES

Should the banks of Boone County agree upon some uniform service charges on accounts, the customer may rest assured of a fair and equitable plan to all concerned.

A dormant account regardless of size would not be subject to a service charge for any month if no checks were drawn on the account.

The proposed plan is not to charge a customer for taking care of his money but only for the cost to the bank according to the activity of the account. No activity, no cost.

The Children

Cooperation Needed In Defense Program

The President, as Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy, has requested approximately $10,000,000,000 to build up our Army and Navy. The Congress was asked to permit increasing the strength of our Army to 1,200,000 and to provide means for obtaining equipment sufficient to outfit an additional 800,000 men who might be called to the colors.

At the present moment we have a force of 500,000 men in the regular Army, the National Guard, and the Organized Reserves. Under the terms of the new defense program, we will have to provide men and materials to increase our armed forces fourfold.

Now that's no simple problem. It's more than just opening the door and announcing "We would like to hire a million and a half men" and have them step right up and become soldiers. The men have to be trained. They have to become familiar with the complex instruments of modern warfare. In order to do that they have to be equipped with those instruments, and plenty of them.

A modern army needs everything from safety pins to locomotives. It needs guns and ammunition to be sure, and those guns and ammunition must be of the most modern type, to be effective. To put a modern army in the field calls for clothes, food, and medical supplies. It also calls for a means of getting to the battle, and means of supply when it gets there.

Modern war is total war. We must be fully prepared.

THE JOB AHEAD

Accomplishing this task in the face of an emergency requires coordination of our resources of men and materials, and above all coordination of our huge industrial plant that is the backbone of the nation in peace as well as in war. Many of the supplies we are going to need are turned out every day by the nation's industries. These can be procured by the Government through normal channels of industry. But many others are special equipment needed only for defense. These must be especially built for some new plans. In making these special instruments, we must minimize interference with normal requirements of the nation. But we have them just the same.

To see that this operation goes ahead fast and efficiently, the President appointed the National Defense Advisory Commission on May 28, 1940. This Commission is composed of men who are particularly qualified by special knowledge of an industry, public utility, of some natural resource, or are otherwise specially qualified. The Commission's task is to translate the defense program from laws on the statute books, from a blueprint into actual supplies needed by the men under arms. Their problem rests upon three vital questions.

What do we need?
How do we get it?
It perhaps is the greatest unified effort ever undertaken by the American people. It has already started.

WHAT WE NEED

The outlines of the job under way are already clear. On May 16, the President asked Congress to provide $1,182,000,000 for defense. On May 31, he again sent a message declaring that the incredible events abroad, during the latter part of May, necessitated another $1,277,741,170 to speed up preparation for our military and naval needs. On July 10, due to further drastic changes in the world situation, and because of the united will of the American people to defend themselves against all enemies foreign and domestic, the President asked for further appropriation of $4,846,171,957 for national defense.

This would provide for:
Equipping a navy to meet any possible combination of hostile forces.

Total equipment for a land force of 1,200,000.

Reserve stocks of tanks, guns, and artillery ammunition for an additional 800,000 men.

15,000 additional planes for the Army and 4,000 for the Navy.

Manufacturing facilities public and private to produce essential equipment required for our forces.

In order to provide that equipment, we determine what the Army and Navy need, in terms of uniforms, guns, tanks, planes, and ships. This is broken down into raw materials. Provision is made for processing these raw materials.

Plans are provided to convert these materials into the weapons to put into the hands of the troops. The nation is like a gigantic production line. A breakdown at any point along the hundreds of raw materials lines might stall the whole machine. That must not happen. As fast as the men are ready, the materials must be ready. This series will explain how this is being accomplished.

Gayety Theater News

TONIGHT

The first motion picture set ever made perfect in every detail and then peraltly dismantled so that it would be built toward that perfection during a motion picture is seen in "Edison, the Man," dramatic biography of Thomas Edison starring Spencer Tracy.

The set represents Edison's Menlo Park laboratory and in it takes place much of the action of the story. The laboratory, as it existed in 1887 when Edison left it to go to West Orange, has been reconstructed in every detail by Henry Ford at his Greenfield Village of Americana at Dearborn, Michigan.

Director Clarence Brown secured plans and photographs of every inch of the laboratory. From these craftsmen duplicated the structure. It was pronounced perfect. Then deliberately, items began coming out. Off the wall came Edison's "chalk telephone" with the transmitter he invented. From tables came all of the electric light bulbs and equipment, the hand vacuum pump, the mercury pump, the talking machine and other inventions.

Then the laboratory existed as Edison moved into it in 1876. Day by day, as Edison progressed through his experiments, properties and furnishings began coming back until it was finally perfect again.

In this way Edison's laboratory can be seen to grow for the first time.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

Ray Milland is 100 per cent American now. He recently received his final citizenship papers, and in addition has almost wholly shed his British accent.

How he had to get rid of the latter twice, not once, is an amusing story. Ray told it for the first time to Loretta Young, Reginald Gardiner, and Gail Patrick, his fellow players in Columbia's "The Doctor Takes a Wife" coming the Gayety. "The first thing M-G-M told me when they brought me over was to go out and lose my accent. I met a very nice, cultured Pasadena girl who had gone to Vassar and when I told the studio, was advised not to let her out of my sight until I spoke American English as well as she."

"I tried to follow instructions, and three months later returned to the studio highly elated. They nearly dropped when said 'hello.' The girl, you see, had been born in Virginia. Suh, Ah spoke lak Ah had too!"

Operation Of Bank Requires Large Sum

From previous articles on banking appearing in our columns we became interested and decided to make further investigation on the subject.

We find that before a bank can begin operation, the capital stock must be subscribed and paid in, in cash by the subscribers. The names of the subscribers, officers and directors must be submitted to the Secretary of State and approved by the State Banking Department. If approved then a charter is issued. A building must be erected and in these days a burglar proof vault provided with large steel vault door. The building and equipment of some of our county banks cost more than $40,000.00. Postage machines cost over $1,000 each, adding machines cost from $125.00 to $250.00, typewriters $1.00 each, besides safe deposit boxes, filing cases, various forms of all kinds, stationery, etc., all of which become exhausted or obsolete and have to be replaced after a few years' use. To maintain a bank building and equipment costs considerable money annually as it is necessary to keep the time locks on a vault under contract with experts who call twice each year to clean, inspect and guarantee the proper working of the door. It is also necessary to keep posting and adding machines under expert contract to insure the proper working of these machines daily, all of which cost a nice sum each year. Other items such as postage, electric current, fuel, burglar and hold-up insurance, bank examinations, F. D. I. C. Insurance, taxes, bonds on employees, salaries of employees, directors, officers and attorneys, all have to be paid.

All of this expense is necessary in order that a customer may be able to cash a check, make a deposit or negotiate a loan at a bank. These expenses are the first call on a bank's income. If any income is left after paying these expenses a reasonable sum must first be set aside to take care of any unforeseen losses on loans or emergencies before any dividends can be paid to stockholders. As we have previously stated in our former articles, this income can only be provided from interest received on loans made from balances of depositors and if there is no balance there is no income. Every check cashed, every deposit made and ever letter written costs the bank something. So it is reasonable to suppose that some small part of the expense of operation of a bank should, in fairness to all, be allotted to each transaction in proportion to the actual cost of said transaction, not compensated by a customer's balance in bank.

A bank is the only business we know of that is required by supervising authorities to show a profit from operations. When this profit ceases for any great length of time, the bank ceases to be of proper service to a community and would finally have to go out of business for lack of income. If stockholders would be content never to receive any return on their investment and banks render limited service to their patrons when it might be possible to operate without service charges but it can not be said that a bank is a charitable institution and we do not believe any fair-minded customer of a bank expects his transaction to be handled at a loss to the bank.

The following letter was received by one of our bank officials from a customer which covers the subject briefly:

Boone County, Kentucky
August 6th, 1940
Dear Mr. Banker:
I read an article in last week's Recorder about the Service Charges that were suggested might have to be made by all banks on checking accounts, and I must confess, my first reaction was to give you a "Yes" but on second thought, business hasn't been any too good all of us in the last few years, and my first impression was that it was just something else for us to pay.

Well, to get around to the point, I write into the electric company's office the other day to pay my bill, and noticing that the cashier was very busy dashing here and there to put bills in various files, I said, "Keep you pretty busy don't they?" "Yes" she replied, "keeping this company's accounts, there are hundreds of them, is no small matter." As I prepared to write my check to her for the amount of the bill it suddenly came to me that the bank on which I was drawing this check had had hundreds of accounts. And keeping their accounts must be no small matter.

As I thought it over to myself, I said, "here now, you want to give your banker a going over because he wants you to pay him a bill in some way for keeping a twelve-month set of books for you." If I have less than fifty or sixty dollars in the bank it means that the bank's money can get from the use of that money in one year at the legal rate of 6 percent is $3.00 to $4.00. In other words I am hiring a full-time competent bookkeeper or handler of my cash, for $3.00 per year. He is paying my bills as I present orders to him, he is keeping an exact record of the balance I have left, and he is keeping a receipted account of all the bills I pay by stamping paid on the face of each check as it comes in. And all for $3.00 per year.

I asked some question around. I had thought that as many customers as the bank has, if it gets three or four dollars per year interest from every small fifty dollar account it is doing pretty good. "But no," they told me, the state and federal banking laws require that the bank keep the greater part of each small account on reserve against any possible withdrawal. In other words, the bank can cash in on only a small part of my balance in the account, and the chances that the amount of interest that the bank will get off a fifty dollar account is more like forty or fifty cents a year.

I give up. I know there must be such things as social security taxes, income taxes, real estate taxes, deposit insurance, burglary insurance and what, that the bank must pay. I don't see how the bank can keep a fifty dollar account with a service charge, let alone keeping one smaller. As for my part, I'm ready to pay a reasonable based charge for the privilege of having someone to handle my cash, and incidentally if as you say, you are going to allow persons so many checks free, if I keep a balance of fifty dollars or over, it will probably cause me to do something I haven't done in the past—keep a good reserve against emergency.

Yours sincerely,
A Depositor.

ABOUT HONEY

Serve hot toast and honey with hot coffee to make a pleasing lunch. Always keep honey in a dark place so it won't granulate. Instead of straining honey, cut it from frame, put in bowl and set in warm oven. The comb will melt and rise to top where it will harden when dish cools. This gives a clear honey and also a cake of beeswax.

RIVER PILOT DIES AT POST

BOAT IS GROUND ON BELLEVUE PETERSBURG AND BELLEVUE WHEN PILOT SUFFERS HEART ATTACK.

Pushing downstream under a full head of steam with the pilot dead of a heart attack, the tow boat Congo and four barges—loaded with gasoline—grounded on the Ohio River bank between Petersburg and Bellevue Monday.

The pilot, Michael Pryor, 72 years old, Louisville, a veteran of 50 years on the inland waters, was alone at the helm when he fell.

The tow was in a bend of the river and swerved out of the channel. The head barge, carrying gasoline, nosed into the soft mud and the thrashing sternwheel of the boat kept pushing it deeper.

Awakened by the jar, the crew turned out for orders, but none came. Roy Reynolds, a night watchman, summoned Captain Frank G. Voligh, who found the dead pilot lying on the floor of the pilot house.

The Captain ordered the engines reversed and the tow slowly pulled clear of the bank with no apparent damage. It then was moored on the Indiana side and Dearborn County Coroner Harry T. Moore was called. He pronounced Pryor dead of a heart ailment.

The Congo and its barges had just cleared one of the most hazardous stretches of the Ohio River when Pryor died. The channel between Lawrenceburg and Aurora is irregular and extremely narrow and rivermen said that had Pryor been stricken a few minutes earlier a disastrous crash might have occurred.

The Congo is owned by the Kosmos Towing Company, Wilmington, Del., and Louisville. The other three barges were loaded with coal.

The body was taken to the Moon and Shropshire funeral home, Lawrenceburg. Services were held Wednesday at Carrollton.

HAGEMAN FINED ON LIQUOR COUNT

IN CIRCUIT COURT MONDAY—DEFENDANT IS BROTHER OF TATE HAGEMAN, COVINGTON—JAIL SENTENCE IMPOSED.

Albert Hageman, Covington, brother of Tate Hageman, Covington, was found guilty on a charge of illegally transporting liquor in Kentucky and given a fine of $500 and 30 days in jail in the Boone Circuit Court Monday, beginning the second week of this August term.

Hageman was arrested November 29, 1939 on a charge of transporting liquor without a state license. His arrest followed an investigation by Federal authorities at Florence, Ky., which revealed that Hageman did not have a license to operate in the State of Kentucky.

The sentence also called for the confiscation of the liquor which was valued at $5,000.00. It was said that the truck carried 185 cases of liquor at the time of the arrest. It was reported that the case would be carried to a higher court.

Harvey H. Smith, Latonia attorney, represented Hageman and opposed R. L. Vincent, Commonwealth Attorney, assisted by D. L. France, assistant Attorney General, Frankfort.

LOCALS MEET PETERSBURG

SATURDAY AUG. 23 AT LEADER'S PARK—BIG BONE VICTORIOUS OVER BURLINGTON NINE FOR FOURTH TIME.

Highlighting this Saturday's county baseball will be the Burlington-Petersburg game at the league-leader's park. Petersburg holds a two to one edge over the locals in games this season and at present are comfortably lodged in first place, but the County Seat nine is fighting desperately to maintain their deadlocked position with Bellevue.

Pitching selections for the Petersburg-Burlington affair according to managers Bill Bradburn and Chas. Benson will be Shinkley, who holds a victory over the locals in their last meet, and "Hoot" Ryle, Burlington fireballer. Both teams are expected to present their strongest supporting cast and a real game is in the offering to county fans.

In the other league game, Sand Run will tangle with Hebron. Results of last week's games had no effect on the league standing. Big Bone made it four straight over Burlington by trimming the locals by an 8 to 3 count at the loser's park. Johnny Woods, Big Bone moundsman, let the locals down with five hits. Guiley and Ryle served them up for Burlington. Carroll was the offensive star of the game, getting three hits including a home run and a triple.

Hazel Walton, veteran of many seasons, held the league-leading Petersburg nine to three bingles, and some of these on the scratchy side—but lost to one, D. Deck, his opponent, allowed but two hits.

CELEBRATION OF 100TH BIRTHDAY

OF PETERSBURG CHRISTIAN CHURCH IS ENJOYED BY HUGE CROWD—REV. EDGAR DEWITT JONES ON PROGRAM.

"I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord." Psalm 122:1.

For one hundred years the Petersburg Christian Church has served the inhabitants of that little river village and the surrounding community and the climax of that century of service was reached Sunday, August 18, when a centennial celebration was held by members of the congregation, friends of other local churches, former pastors and other notable visitors.

"Skyline of Disciples" was the subject of Dr. Edgar DeWitt Jones, pastor of the First Christian Church, Detroit, Michigan, and former pastor of the Petersburg Church, who was the principal speaker at the morning services. Dr. Jones gave an interesting history of the development of the church.

Beautiful music by the congregation and special singing by Mrs. J. R. Williams, Petersburg, and Mrs. Rowlett, Latonia, also featured the morning services.

Rev. Edgar C. Riley, former pastor or in this county for many years, and at present Supt. of K. F. O. S., Midway, Ky., spoke on "The Influence of the Church in this County" during the afternoon session. Rev. Riley traced the development of the churches and religious personalities from the first county settlement to the present. Other speakers on the afternoon program were Rev. Mathewy, Ludlow; Rev. Bowman, Madison Avenue Christian Church, Covington; Rev. Harsell, Covington, and Rev. Young of Brainerd.

Messages of congratulation written by former pastors and friends of the church were sent by the following: Rev. Oscar Riley, Rev. Chester Williamson, Rev. Robert H. Carter, Rev. E. Tipton Carroll, Rev. E. A. Walker, Rev. Milo Atkins, Rev. James Murdock, and Rev. H. W. Woodruff. Rev. J. W. Campbell, former pastor of the Bellevue Baptist Church was also among the distinguished visitors present.

Special music for the afternoon session was furnished by Miss Evelyn Ryle and Miss Ruth Shinkley who sang a duet, and Miss Joyce Lampkin, who played several accordion solo numbers.

At the noon hour basket lunch was spread and served to the vast throng that gathered for the celebration.

The present membership of the Petersburg church is 190. Though the church has never been a large one, it has been one of influential benefit to Boone countians.

Rev. Noble Lucas, pastor of the Petersburg Church, was in charge of the centennial celebration.

DR. A. F. HENSEY GUEST SPEAKER

AT BOONE COUNTY CONVENTION OF CHRISTIANS AT BULLITTVILLE CHRISTIAN CHURCH THURSDAY, AUG. 23.

Dr. A. F. Hensley, noted lecturer, teacher, and writer will be the guest speaker at the Boone County Convention of Christian Churches which will be held at the Bullittsville Christian Church Thursday, August 23rd, according to Rev. Noble Lucas, pastor.

Dr. Hensley was one of the first men to go into the Belgian Congo of Africa, for he reached there in 1906 not long after that part of the continent had been opened to trade and other activities of the white man. Because of his long and efficient service there, King Albert of Belgium bestowed upon him the honor of "Chevalier de l'Ordre Royal du Lion"—Knight of the Royal Order of the Lion of Belgium.

Dr. Hensley went to Bolenge, the first of six mission stations which the Disciples of Christ have established in the Belgian Congo. He was one of the four who first translated the New Testament into the Lunkunda language to be published by the British Bible Society. Two of his books are "Master Builder of the Congo" and "My Children of the Forest." In these and others he vividly portrays the adventures, the hardships, the joys and sorrows of those early missionaries who went out into that part of the continent which cuts the Equator. African customs and life are made real to the reader.

Dr. Hensley speaks several languages and is exceptionally proficient in Lunkunda. In addition to his other duties as a missionary he was once captain of the mission steamer "Oregon" which makes trips up and down the Congo river into the heart of the jungle.

Dr. Hensley was educated at Hiram College, the College of the Bible and the University of Chicago. He served the churches of Disciples of Christ under the auspices of The United Christian Missionary Society.

The public is cordially invited to attend this meeting.

Mayor Forgets Shoes

Approximately 600 persons were present Tuesday morning for the opening of the Johnson-Black trial and good seats were not available after 8:00 a. m.

Many persons appeared to have rushed somewhat in order to get a choice seat, but I think C. A. Fowler, Mayor of Hebron was the most excited. When Mr. Fowler arrived at the courtroom some of his friends called his attention to the fact that he had failed to change his shoes. He was still wearing his house shoes and it was said that he did not finish dressing until he reached the top flight of the stairs in the courthouse.

We are inclined to believe that the latter part of the story may be erroneous, however the writer can testify as an eye witness, in regard to the shoes.

45 REPORT FOR JURY DUTY WED.

NINE JURORS QUALIFIED WEDNESDAY MORNING—TRIAL IS EXPECTED TO GET UNDER WAY AT ONCE.

After the regular venire of 24 persons was exhausted Tuesday in an attempt to obtain a jury to try Edward "Jack" Johnson, 28 years old, Rabbit Hash, charged with willful murder in the fatal shooting of Lucien Black, of Big Bone, July 21, Judge Yager ordered a special venire of 45 jurors.

Nine jurors were accepted tentatively Tuesday, but some of these may be excused it was stated. Those accepted were Elmer Sutton, Verona; Guy Butler, Union; John Berkshire, Petersburg; Artless Fleek, Union; Howard Goodridge, Hebron; J. B. Lamm, Verona; Thos. Ryan, Verona; Cam White, Waterloo; and Jerry Fowler, Hebron.

R. L. Vincent, Williamstown, Commonwealth Attorney, is prosecuting the case. The commonwealth has used three of its five challenges of jurors.

O. M. Rogers and James C. Rogers, Covington attorneys who are representing Johnson, used none of their 15 challenges Tuesday.

The courtroom was filled to capacity and many were sitting in the aisles and standing, where there was standing room, expecting the trial to be begun.

As we go to press, Wednesday morning at 10:00 a. m., the jury has not been completed, but it is thought that the jury will be completed today and the trial will get under way immediately.

WALTON MAN IS CONFINED TO JAIL

ON CHARGE OF CARRYING CONCEALED WEAPONS—ARRESTED FOLLOWING THREAT TO KILL SHERIFF WALTON.

M. P. "Doc" Mullens, Walton, was confined in Burlington jail Tuesday afternoon on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, following his arrest near Walton, by Bob Brugh, Walton city official.

Mullens stated that F. M. Walton, Sheriff of Boone County, had forced him to pay double taxes and he was going to Burlington to kill him. Brugh was notified of the threat made by Mullens and offered to bring him to Burlington. Enroute to Burlington Brugh seized a package from Mullens containing a .32 caliber pistol loaded with five shells.

Mullens was brought before acting Judge C. L. Cropper and was placed in jail for trial Friday morning at 9:00 a. m.

It was stated that Mullens was mentally unbalanced and that he was unable to understand his taxes being listed under two separate tax bills. THE AMERICAN PRESS

"For Over Fifty Years"

LARGER FAMILIES

With many American homes wondering what this coming winter will bring to us in the way of prices in food, rents and clothing costs, a sociologist asks us to bear in mind the diminishing young and that if America desires to continue as a first rate power she must forget the ideal "two-child" family and raise a brood of four. It seems that as our population grows less and our force weaker the only solution of regaining the position of one of the "boss" nations is by increasing the birth rate. Many a reader will voice an objection to the sociologists' opinion! There are many large families around here and they are an asset to our community. Not so easy for parents to hold them together, not so easy to make the great number of sacrifices necessary to raise this family, but up they spring to become a credit to their training and their parentage. Those who have reared one or two children had their own worries but not so many of them as the ones facing the four-child household. Perhaps this scares our modern young married couples for seldom do they marry and anticipate a family of four children. It seems generally that the fewer the better. This may not come from purely selfish reasons but due to an economical situation. They tell us that through wars, epidemics, expansion and untimely deaths the problem of our diminishing young is a real problem.

FAIR TIME

The circus may be the greatest show on earth to the youngsters in Boone County but to their parents the state and county fairs are tops. These annual events occur in various localities at different dates, but from July through September the country is buying making their "Fair Week or Day" a real occasion. Sometimes they begin their preparations months in advance for it takes a bit of warming up to prepare the groundwork for housing the exhibits, building midway preparing race tracks, etc. Workmen have been repairing and replacing for days and the show promises, from the amount of activity and publicity to be the best one ever! There are many premiums, prizes and purses to interest the exhibitor. The livestock shows will cause envy and admiration from local farmers and the display of farm machinery will bring forth much comment on the ideals and character traits that served our forefathers and might serve us again," he says. "There is a healthy resurgence of pride in yesterday's accomplishments. And certainly there is a growing appreciation of the richness, color, humor, and humanity of New World folk expressions. There is, after all, something to remember: A civilization is more than the flat two-dimensional present."

A PHILANTHROPIST? YOU CAN BE ONE, TOO, AND YOU DON'T NEED MONEY!

"Most of us are exceedingly generous with the millions we do not possess, and we smugly offer our lack of money as excuse for our lack of generosity," suggests Corinne Updegraff Wells, who writes about "Philanthropy without Money" in the current Rotarian Magazine. "Yet generosity has surprisingly little to do with money."

Ingenuity and imagination often provide gifts which make presents purchased with money seem cheap and tawdry by comparison. But how? There's that spare time on your hands that you can donate to an overburdened neighborhood mother, to a charitable organization, or at the nearest play park where youngsters long for someone to teach the mysteries of kites and model airplanes. And your car with its empty back seat when you take a Sunday afternoon drive into the country? Why not fill it with convalescent-war patients from the nearest hospital, or oldsters from the community home for the aged? And hobbies? Here's a gold mine for sharing joys, for philanthropy without money, suggests Author Wells.

It won't be long now before folks can begin arguing about when is Indian summer.

IMPROVED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D.D.
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for August 25

LESSON TEXT—II Samuel 12:13, 14; Psalm 51:1-3.
GOLDEN TEXT—Confess your faults one to another, that ye may be healed.—James 5:16.

CONFESSION AND FORGIVENESS

If the Bible told us only of perfect people, we would recognize it as being not true to life and assuredly of no help to us who know our own natures. The Bible, however, tells us in all truthfulness of the bad as well as the good, the weak as well as the strong, the humble as well as the mighty.

It honestly portrays the sins of its greatest characters, revealing the heart of man as "deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked" (Jer. 17:9). It tells us of a grateful God (when man repents and forsakes his sin) who invites the sinner to come and be delivered from his sin.

The lesson centers around David, the humble shepherd boy who became king, and the king who was of his glory, being tempted of his own evil desires, fell into the lowest of sin, which he then sought to cover by a well-planned scheme to gain no peace until he repents and returns to God. Three words summarize the lesson.

I. Sin (II Sam. 12:13, 14). That little, three lettered word seems to have the life of the sinner in it—sin—the cause of all man's woes and the heartache of a loving God.

David had tried to hide his sin and the king, and the king who was of his glory, being tempted of his own evil desires, fell into the lowest of sin, which he then sought to cover by a well-planned scheme to gain no peace until he repents and returns to God. Three words summarize the lesson.

The nature of sin is described in Psalm 51, and if we may anticipate a bit, we note that it is described by three words: "transgression," meaning a rebellious "stepping over" God's boundaries; "iniquity," from the same root as our word "unequal," meaning crookedness of heart and life; and "sin," which means missing the mark, a life going the wrong way.

Note that sin, while it may bring sorrow and trouble to us and those around us, is just as true today (Num. 32:23) as it was in David's time.

Nathan's straightforward dealing with David brought him to his knees. II. Repentance (Ps. 51:1-3, 9-13). "What David expressed to Nathan—"I have sinned against the Lord"—is more fully expressed in the great psalm of penitence which we know as Psalm 51. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith well says that "probably these verses have brought more comfort, and assurance of forgiveness, and hope for a renewed life after some terrible transgression, to a greater number of God's children down through the ages than any other single passage in the pages of the Old Testament."

To acknowledge one's transgression before God is to open the floodgates of His mercy, to receive His grace for forgiveness, cleansing, restoration, new joy, and (note it well) renewed usefulness (v. 13). God does not cast His people off because of their sin, nor cut off their usefulness when they repent.

Observe, however, that God did not permit David's sin to go unpunished. God is forgiving, but even repentance cannot wipe out the results of sin (II Sam. 12:14). God chastised David to declare before the people all of His divine hatred of sin. To sin against God is no light and casual thing. It cuts deeply into life, and only the grace of God is sufficient to bring a man up out of that pit. But there is

III. Forgiveness (Ps. 32:35). How tender and sweet is the word "forgiveness." It speaks of the removal of guilt, the breaking down of the barrier which sin has created, and the restoration of fellowship. Where all had been wrong and troubled, all has become right and at peace.

These things are true even in the forgiveness of one man toward another who has offended, but infinitely greater when the heart of God meets the repentant sinner. He is so ready to meet such a man that even while he is thinking of confessing, God sees the attitude of his heart and forgives. "At this moment, without sight or sound that mortal ear can detect, or attitude that the eye of man can observe, even before the thing is said, when I make up my mind to confess, 'thou forgavest the iniquity of my sin'! Do you wonder that when this man was going to write a psalm about this matter, he had to begin, 'O the blessings of transgression forgiven, and sin covered?' (G. Campbell Morgan).

Fidelity It is only by fidelity in little things that a true and constant love to God can be distinguished from a passing fervor of spirit.

What a life! We eat to live, live and overeat, and die from over-eating.

She might have everything they said she had, but even that wasn't quite enough.

STRESS IMPORTANCE OF MILK IN DIET

An adult should drink a pint of milk daily and a child two pints, according to health standards of home economists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Thus a family of two adults and three children need eight pints or a gallon of milk daily. A good milk cow should produce two to four gallons daily, or enough to supply milk and some cream and butter for a family of five. However, since a cow must be dry a part of the year, a farm family should have at least two milk cows.

A recent survey showed that families able to afford good milk, fruits, meat and eggs have less illness.

HOW ARE YOUR CHILD'S EYES?

As school time nears, parents should know whether their child's eyes are in condition to meet the extra strain of school work. Often a "backward" child is merely one subjected to eye-strain. Know the truth—bring your child in for a competent eye examination.

Chas. Fowler, Mayor of Hebron stated Thursday, while visiting at our office that one of Hebron's prominent anglers was very choicy in selecting a boat at Herrington Lake recently. The story goes, according to the Mayor: This fisherman rented a boat one day at Herrington Lake, and returned with a nice catch of bass, new lights and beam. The next day he returned to the same camp and requested the same boat he had used the day before. The caretaker informed him that the boat had been rented for the day, but pointed out another one, identically the same with the exception of color. The Hebron angler stated that this boat would not do as he had cut a notch in the boat he was using the day before in order to find the place where the fish were biting. This is one of the Mayor's stories, and if you doubt it, question him.

SERVICE CHARGES

Should the banks of Boone County agree upon some uniform service charges on accounts, the customer may rest assured of a fair and equitable plan to all concerned.

A dormant account regardless of size would not be subject to a service charge for any month if no checks were drawn on the account.

The proposed plan is not to charge a customer for taking care of his money but only for the cost to the bank according to the activity of the account. No activity, no cost.

24 BEEF CATTLE ON 54-ACRE FARM

A 54-acre farm that supports 24 head of beef cattle, was one of the sights in the annual tour of beef producers in Whitley county, Kentucky. Applications of limestone and phosphate and the growing of clovers and grasses built the fertility to where the farm would support this number of livestock.

County Agent Wilcox Carter says that nine years ago, when P. B. Davis took the farm over, it would produce only 10 to 15 bushels of corn to the acre. Mr. Davis began by treating each field with two tons of limestone to the acre. Then 300 pounds of 20 percent phosphate were applied as the land was turned for corn. Corn was followed by winter turn oats, in which a mixture of red clover, timothy and lespedeza was seeded.

At the end of a five-year rotation each field again was put in corn, with a liberal application of stable manure. A ton of limestone and 300 pounds of phosphate also were used in the second five-year rotation. Corn now yields 35 to 45 bushels to the acre.

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY

Joan Crawford, queen of fashion innovations, goes to the "King of the Road" for help. That is, the hobo and his bundle on a stick, is the inspiration for her newest handbag.

In "Susan and God" which will be shown at the Gayety Miss Crawford co-stars with Fredric March, she wears some eighteen Adrian designed gowns, and her newest pocketbook is carried on an over-the-shoulder stick.

Attired in white flannel tailored suit, the star has her handbag made of blue and white checked taffeta. It is tied to simulate a small bundle, is hooked onto the end of an ebony stick, and nonchalantly carried over the shoulder.

If the fad catches on as much as the other Crawford styles, Adrian declares the women of America will resemble "men of the open road" on parade.

SATURDAY

Newest and most terrifying of all the Karloff films, Columbia's "The Man With Nine Lives" will be at the Gayety Saturday. The king of horror contributes one of his greatest characterizations as a scientist who is brought back to life after spending ten years in a state of "frozen sleep." Roger Pryor and Jo Ann Sayers are featured as the young doctor and nurse who revive the seemingly dead scientist and narrowly escape his terrible experiments which ruthlessly snuff out four lives. Nick Grinde directed the thrill-film and important roles are played by Stanley Brown, Byron Foulger and Tal Taliferro.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

It's not for nothing that they call Hollywood a city of miracles. Even an odorous skunk has been produced in the film capital.

The skunk was needed by Director Stuart Heisler for an important part in the new Paramount romance "The Biscuit Eater," which will be shown at the Gayety Sunday and Monday. He was needed for a comedy sequence in which a bird dog quattering a field for quail, suddenly "freezes" into a point—but instead of a bird flushes a skunk.

Property man Art Camp was notified that a skunk was needed—an unnamed skunk if possible. It took him exactly eight hours to find one—a pet which had its musk glands removed. So to Albany, Georgia, where "The Biscuit Eater" was being made, went the skunk, to film fame and riches.

4-H CLUBS HOLD TOUR
The annual tour and picnic of the Burlington 4-H Clubs was held Thursday, August 8th. After all club members had been visited the club went down on Gunpowder for a very enjoyable picnic lunch and swim.

Following the picnic the Sixth Community club meeting was held. The meeting was opened by Leroy McNelly, president of the boys' club. The roll was called and secretary's report was read. Florence Cook gave an excellent report on the activities of Junior Week.

The business of the coming fair was next discussed. The meeting was adjourned by all repeating the club pledge. We are looking forward to a big meeting at the 4-H fair which is to be held Aug. 24, at Harvest Home grounds. Let's all be there.

Elizabeth Ann James, Secy.

VERONA

This community is still bawling in need of rain. We received several showers Sunday afternoon.

The members of St. Patrick's Church are making plans for their Labor Day picnic.

The G. A. members together with their leader, Mrs. Grace Brewster met with Miss Mary Hope Chipman for their August meeting last Thursday. There were seven members present. After the program refreshments of coolade and cakes were served.

The R. A.'s met with their leader, Mrs. Gertrude Brewster at the church on Thursday afternoon for their August meeting.

Several from this community are making plans to attend the 4-H Club Fair Saturday, Aug. 24.

W. M. Whitson, Jr., and wife of Detroit, are visiting his mother and other relatives and friends in Kentucky.

Walter Vest and wife and W. E. Waller, wife and son were in Erlanger Thursday last week visiting Eldon Wolfe, who has been ill for the past two years.

Clyde Chapman, who is employed at the Eastern State Hospital, Lexington was home visiting his wife and parents last week.

The reason many writers and painters are unsuccessful is because they wouldn't start their efforts in the attic.

It takes months to get a vacation, two weeks of peeling during it, and a rest cure after it.

If Willkie Loves A Free Press Why
Did He Kill The Chattanooga News?

An open letter to Wendell L. Willkie, Republican candidate for President, addressed to him by the Philadelphia Record at his home on Fifth Avenue, New York, reads: "Who killed the Chattanooga News?"

"Published by George Fort Milton, the Chattanooga News was one of the foremost liberal newspapers in the country, and one of a very few papers in the South which opposed you and your Commonwealth & Southern Corporation in your fight against the TVA. Mr. Willkie, we ask you 'who killed the Chattanooga News' for two reasons."

"First, because at Cheyenne, Wyo., on July 23, you declared that a free and untrammeled press is one of the guarantees of democracy."

"Second, because the Tennessee Utilities Commission found your power company, Tennessee Electric guilty on 917 counts of 'using unlawful devices' to destroy the Chattanooga News by illegally helping its competitor, which was 'hostile to your interests.'"

"What is the truth, Mr. Willkie? 'Do you believe in freedom of the press for all of the press?'"

"Or only for those newspapers which do not stand in your way of the records of the Tennessee Utilities Commission, which show:—"

"The public is entitled to a clear answer. 'You naturally know all the facts in this case—because the killing of the Chattanooga News took place while you were president of Commonwealth & Southern.'"

"Milton's paper first supported TVA, then favored a publicly owned power plant for Chattanooga. What followed? We refer you to the records of the Tennessee Utilities Commission, which show:—"

"(a) That your company withdrew its advertising from the Chattanooga News after a competitor, the Free Press, had been set up in business by a group of men whose chief stockholder was Silas Williams, an attorney for your Tennessee Electric Power Company."

"(b) That your company was found guilty of turning over to this Silas Williams the sum of $10,000 under the guise of counsel fees."

"(c) That your power company bought $124,000 worth of advertising in the paper set up to fight the Chattanooga News, and paid an advertising rate 'far in excess of the regular rates, (about 25 per cent higher)—the only conclusion being that your company paid more than it had to as a subsidy."

"(d) That your company granted a 5 per cent discount on the power bills of the Free Press, even after they had become delinquent, and when, according to your company's advertisements, they were not subject to discount."

"(e) That your company further gave indirect financial help to the publisher who was fighting the Chattanooga News by giving him 5 per cent discount on the bills of some 40 small grocery stores in which he was interested."

"(f) That when the Congressional committee investigating TVA came across this whole episode, its counsel, Francis Biddle, declared: 'Tennessee Electric has been subsidizing the Chattanooga Free Press.'"

"What were 909 other counts on which your company was found guilty—of trying to destroy a newspaper whose policies it didn't like."

"As directing head of the corporation in control of this situation, we'd like to hear your explanation, Mr. Willkie."

"What finally happened to the Chattanooga News? Surely you recall, Mr. Willkie, that it was sold by the sheriff to the Free Press, the same paper the Tennessee Utilities Commission had been subsidized by your power companies."

"The News was sold—and a lot of people are still wondering where its competitor got the money to buy it."

"What could other American newspapers expect, Mr. Willkie, if you were to become President—and they were to oppose your policies?"

5,000 ATTEND EIGHTH ANNUAL 4-H AND UTOPIA CLUB FAIR SATURDAY

Was Largest Crowd Ever To Attend A 4-H Fair in Boone County—Fair Is Successful In Every Detail, According to County Agent Forkner

The attendance exceeded 5,000 people at the Eighth Annual 4-H and Utopia Club Free Fair and County Picnic held at the Harvest Home Grounds on last Saturday, August 24th. The attendance exceeded expectations and far exceeded previous records.

The fair was successful in every detail, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The spirit of the people was in proportion to the attendance and all enjoyed an old-fashioned county picnic and get-together.

The committee in charge of the general plans for the fair express their hearty appreciation for the splendid cooperation of all 4-H leaders, 4-H members, Utopia members, Homemakers' clubs, Red Cross Nurse, Future Farmers of America, Harvest Home Fair Board, County and City newspapers, WLW, WKCY and WOPR Broadcasting Stations, Mr. O. T. Edwards, Livestock Breeders, Commercial Exhibitors, advertisers and sponsors, Dr. S. B. Nunnally, stores and all others who gave so generously to make the fair a success.

A county fair and picnic serves a great purpose of bringing our people together once each year for a good time and to see exhibits of better farm and home work. Let's all work toward a bigger and better fair and picnic in 1941.

The following is a list of the winners at the 4-H and Utopia Club Free Fair and County Picnic:

Fair Barred Rocks—1st, Janet Feldhaus, Hamilton; 2nd, Albert Knox, New Haven.

LAST WEEK FOR SOIL PRACTICES

TO BE CARRIED OUT—MANY FARMERS WILL EARN 100 PER CENT OF SOIL-BUILDING ALLOWANCE.

The last week in August promises to be a record breaking one in carrying out soil-building practices for the 1940 A. C. Program. This is the last week of the 1940 program year and many farmers who have carried out the program in the last few days have indicated that they will earn 100 per cent of their soil-building allowance, according to John E. Origer, Secretary of the Association.

The last three cars of phosphate ordered were delivered the first part of the week and 15 days will be allowed from the time it was received for spreading. The dry weather has prevented many farmers from seeding as large an acreage of alfalfa, grass and clover that are recommended for this particular time of year as would have otherwise been seeded. Several kinds of grass and clover are still recommended to be seeded even though it stays dry for several weeks.

Limestone promises to be, by far, the greatest benefit of carrying out the remainder of the soil-building allowance that there is at this date. Limestone pulverizer operators are running several days behind schedule and many of the dealers have either run out of ground limestone or are running short. It is advisable to order immediately if you wish limestone to apply on the 1940 A. C. Program. The State office has officially granted an extension of time for the use of limestone under certain conditions.

All practices carried out after the supervisor has visited the farm are to be reported to the County Office direct and should be reported as soon as possible after the first of September so that there will be no delay in making up the application for payment in order that checks can soon be received.

SMALLEST HEN EGG ON DISPLAY AT RECORDER

What is thought to be the smallest hen egg every to be shown in the county is now on display at The Recorder office. The egg weighs one-fourth ounce. Another egg taken from the same nest weighs three-fourths of an ounce.

These eggs were brought to our office by Herbert Snyder, Burlington. He stated that he was not certain which one of his hens was responsible for the small eggs, but that he was sure they were hen eggs.

Mr. Snyder's flock is made up of Leghorns and White Rocks.

Maybe the drouth had a part in the development of such a small egg—the hen thinking she would produce in accordance with other crops in this section.

Adequacy Of Electric Service Being Checked

Two engineering students, under the supervision of H. C. Kahl, Louisville, engineer for the Kentucky Public Service Commission, Frankfort, were in Burlington Monday of this week on electric service.

The purpose of the work, which this summer is being carried on in 150 towns over the state, is to test the adequacy of electric service as it applies to meter accuracy and line voltage conditions. Under the plan of work, the two students test at random 10 to 15 per cent of the meters within the city limits.

Work started in this county at Burlington and will go to Florence from here. They also plan to visit the following towns: Walton, Independence, Dry Ridge, Verona, Warsaw, and Glenview.

Ernest Bailey, of Lexington and Vernon Albert of Harlan, were the inspectors here.

JOHNSON SENTENCED TO TEN YEARS IN STATE REFORMATORY

Verdict Reached by Jury After Deliberating Nine Hours—Verdict of Voluntary Manslaughter Is Returned

Edward (Jack) Johnson, sentenced to ten years in the State reformatory last Friday in the Boone Circuit Court on a charge of voluntary manslaughter, was removed to LaGrange Tuesday by Sheriff F. M. Walton, to serve his sentence.

The verdict was reached Friday morning, after nine hours of deliberation. The case was handed to the jury at 3:37 p. m. Thursday and at 9:55 they reported that they were standing 11-1 and were ordered to remain for a short session Friday morning. At 10:30 Friday morning they returned a verdict of voluntary manslaughter and under the instructions this charge carried punishment from 2 to 21 years in the reformatory.

The testimony regarding the killing was practically the same as stated in the examining trial until Johnson took the stand in his own behalf. Johnson said that Bill Black, uncle of the victim, gave him the pistol voluntarily at Big Bone to avoid having any trouble at Russell Miller's place, where they went to buy some beer. According to Mr. Black, Jack took the pistol from him saying, "I am expecting trouble and may need this gun."

Johnson's testimony corresponded with other witnesses up until the fatal shots were fired. Johnson stated that when Black and Cliff Stephens were walking back up the Hill lane, that he was following close behind, and when Cliff Stephens was thrown loose from the shot, Black raised the gun a second time and at the same time, he (Johnson) received a hard blow on the head which dazed him for the time. Johnson said he thought Black had shot him the second time, and in his dazed condition, he fired the two fatal shots.

A homemade blackjack was found near the spot where Black fell. However, Cliff Stephens, who was never more than 10 feet from Black at any time, had said on several occasions that no blows were struck between the two men and that they were never close enough to each other for Black to have struck Johnson with the weapon.

After the verdict was reached, an appeal was granted by the court and it is in the hands of the defendant as to whether the case will be carried to a higher court.

The jury consisted of Emmett Kilgour, Filmore Burns, Cam White, Howard Goodridge, J. B. Searns, Thos. Ryan, Arless Pleak, Byron Kinnman, Chas. Pepper, Burnam Roberts, Edward Ott and Fred Slekmann.

One of the largest crowds ever to attend a trial in Burlington was on hand from Tuesday until Thursday. Those who were able to crowd into the courtroom were estimate at 650 persons, and approximately the same number remained outside.

Miller Under Bond
Russell Miller, operator of a saloon at Big Bone, was released on $1500.00 bond to appear for trial in the December term of Boone Circuit Court. He was charged in three indictments with selling beer on Sunday.

J. L. Orr Indicted

FARM TRUCK OWNERS WARNED

AGAINST USING TRUCKS FOR PURPOSES OTHER THAN ARE SPECIFIED ACCORDING TO LAW.

The Commissioner of Revenue has notified all County Judges, Sheriffs and Constables that the Farm Truck License law is being violated by a large number who have farm licenses on their truck.

Owners of these trucks made an affidavit at the time the farm licenses were obtained that the truck would be used only by the owner in transporting persons, food provisions, feed, and machinery used in operating his farm, and no other purpose.

Use of a truck carrying farm license for any other purpose carries heavy penalties, not only for using the farm license, but also for using the truck in making an affidavit to get the license. Warrants of arrest will be issued for known violators of the farm truck law, according to County officials.

362,000 Pounds
In Your Shoes

N. TULCH

Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT
9th and Madison Covington

You actually pound 181 tons of weight into your shoes every mile you walk. (Figures based on 150 pound person.)

Do you realize why feet let down, hurt, develop corns, bunions, callouses and more serious ills?

Science has made an amazing advance in orthopedics of the feet—as great an advance as in other modes of transportation.

Science has discovered many new things about feet, and how vitally your hurting feet affect your entire system. It's hard to believe that 50% of malades traceable to feet are above the hips, but it's true.

Do you wonder that when your feet hurt you are utterly fatigued, depressed, nervous, discouraged? Poor feet cause much misery, BACKACHE, HEADACHE, and many body ills may be traced to feet.

Even symptoms like those of rheumatism and arthritis now are being banished with proper surgical and prescription shoes.

Stop crippling your feet today and let's get everything back to normal. Normally there should pass through the feet 15 gallons of blood every 4 hours, then the feet are properly nourished—waste matters properly carried away.

And bone repair, as should be when all this comes to pass, (normally) our feet are healthy and we'll walk briskly (not timid) in walking briskly we breathe 85,000 gallons of air, that will help to purify the blood that make us feel better all over.

If your feet hurt, is it not wise to check up now and WALK IN HEALTH WITH HAPPY FEET?

—Adv.

These warehouses, having a total storage capacity of 1,700,000 bushels, are located in Elkton, Bowling Green, Franklin, Hopkinsville, Lexington, Henderson, Louisville, Pembroke, Sturgis, Owensboro and Russellville. SERVICE CHARGES

Should the banks of Boone County agree upon some uniform service charges on accounts, the customer may rest assured of a fair and equitable plan to all concerned.

A dormant account regardless of size would not be subject to a service charge for any month if no checks were drawn on the account.

The proposed plan is not to charge a customer for taking care of his money but only for the cost to the bank according to the activity of the account. No activity, no cost.

Equipment Of Army Must Be Complete

The task of the National Defense Advisory Commission is to see that the Army and Navy get what they need, where they need it, with no ifs, ands, or buts.

Why the Army and Navy need these supplies is no concern of the Commission. How, or where, or when the Army and Navy will use its equipment is no concern of the Commission. That is the job of Congress and the President, as Commander-in-Chief of our armed forces.

The responsibility of the National Defense Advisory Commission is to find out what the Army and Navy need, know where to get it, and see that it is delivered. The Commission draws no specifications, gives no contracts. It merely advises, aids in negotiations, and facilitates production.

In ordinary times the Army and Navy have no difficulty in obtaining supplies. Times of emergency call for extraordinary expansion. That's when we need experts, men who know the complicated machinery of buying, moving, and manufacturing on a huge scale. In normal times they head the great corporations that supply the nation. In an emergency they serve the nation directly.

The raw materials must come from farms, forests, and mines. Chemicals in vast quantities must be produced. Important critical materials must be stored in advance. Tin and rubber are already being accumulated in stock piles. Synthetic rubber shows great promise for the future. All our own raw materials are being catalogued.

Availability of manufacturing facilities must be checked against transportation limitations and availability of manpower.

If we call on our military forces for protection, we cannot and must not expect them to go out without equipment. To see that this job is done is the responsibility of all of us.

To help guide this work, the President called on the nation's leaders in seven fields, whose special knowledge in vast quantities must be produced. They are serving now without pay. Most of their expert assistants also serve without pay. Others have been borrowed, with clerical staff from Government agencies.

Raw Materials
The primary task is to insure a continuous supply of raw materials for our factories. This responsibility is assigned to the Industrial Materials Division under Edward R. Stettinius, Jr. He has resigned as Chairman of the Board of the United States Steel Corporation, to serve for nothing a year. He is in for the duration. Backed by an imposing array of experts, Mr. Stettinius will get everything from steel for armor plate, to cotton cloth of handkerchiefs. He has helped secure strategic and critical raw materials. He has helped obtain supplies of 100 octane gasoline. He has asked for the expansion of the Tennessee Valley Authority's power producing facilities to insure adequate electric energy for aluminum production vital to the aircraft program.

When it comes to making things for the Army and Navy—airplanes, tanks, machine guns, uniforms, miles of shoe laces—in fact all the supplies needed, a Production Division is function under William S. Knudsen, on leave from his regular job as President of General Motors.

Production Division
The division of responsibility between Mr. Stettinius and Mr. Knudsen was described by Mr. Knudsen like this: "Ed," he said, "will bring in the stuff. Everything is raw material until I start to cut it up." "Cutting it up" involves the fullest possible use of all our available manufacturing facilities—bigger plants where bigger plants are needed, conversion of plants to war work that are now engaged in peace work, and finally, construction of new plants. Mr. Knudsen's Production Division clears contracts for billions of dollars. Production lines are already rolling.

Transportation Division
Watching the transportation lines to see that there are no snarls that will cut off vital supplies of raw materials is the task of Mr. Ralph Budd, President of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad. In addition to seeing that Mr. Stettinius' raw materials move to Mr. Knudsen's plants, the Division of Transportation is working on acquiring special rolling stock for handling troops and their equipment. This rolling stock will be purchased by the Government. Wagons, pipe lines, airplanes, and truck lines are also being surveyed, so that their capacities will be known and ready for any emergency.

Labor Division
To see that the Raw Materials Division's forests, mines, and fields and the Production Division's factories have a supply of manpower, Sidney Hillman, President of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union, heads the Division of Labor.

A training program in the vocational schools has already enrolled thousands, particularly those who feel the need for new training to retrieve their earlier skills. This division has also organized a Labor Advisory Board consisting of representatives of the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O., together with the Railroad Brotherhoods. The Division has already been helpful in averting several serious production stoppages.

Agricultural Division
The Agricultural Division, under Mr. Chester Davis, of the Federal Reserve Board, is at work on the problem of plant location for defense purposes. Surplus labor, particularly in agricultural areas, will be utilized. The Division will also aid in collecting supplies of important agricultural products, and is vitally interested in maintaining the parity between agricultural and industrial prices. One of the main functions is to prevent shortages and utilize farm surpluses.

Division of Price Stabilization
This problem of price stabilization is a mighty complex subject. To handle this, Leon Henderson of the Securities and Exchange Commission, has organized a division to determine the effects of the defense program on the nation's price structure. If prices of materials appear to be getting out of hand, voluntary agreements with producers are sought. If this fails, recommendations for appropriate action will be made.

Division of Consumer Protection
Aside from protecting the public against unjustified increases in the articles we need for daily existence, the Division of Consumer Protection, under Miss Harriet Elliott, Dean of Women in the University of North Carolina, has laid the groundwork to prepare us physically for our defense responsibilities. The Division will emphasize the importance of health and public welfare in the defense program.

This involves action with civic organizations to mobilize channels; meetings with retailers, organized consumer groups, manufacturers of consumers' goods and wholesalers. A major effort is directed toward preventing unjustifiable increases in the prices of goods and services. The Division would handicap our efforts to prepare ourselves physically for instance, for such responsibilities as we might face in an emergency. William H. McReynolds, Administrative Assistant to the President, has been designated as Secretary to the Commission.

Along with these Commission members, many other leaders are serving in special capacity, helping with particular problems.

This whole stupendous effort must go ahead rapidly and smoothly. It requires teamwork of the highest order. At every turn the actions of this Commission will affect the lives of all the people of the United States. This Commission can only help the President and the Military Services. The ultimate success of the program is up to the people.

IS G-MAN HOOPER WRONG?

By James A. McCaleb, Director of Celebration 136th Sunday School Anniversary

All red blooded Americans are proud of the fine record of our famous G-Men. They have stripped gangsters of their false heroism and branded them as Public Enemies Nos. 1, 2, 3, and so forth, meeting out to them the justice demanded by an enraged public. At the head of this famed body of men is J. Edgar Hoover. He is noted throughout the world.

To some it may seem a far jump indeed from the above statements to Sunday School. This writer contends, however, that there is a definite connection. The best way to prove it is to let Mr. Hoover speak for himself. Observing the Sunday School influence upon American citizens, he states "It is my belief that the Sunday School is of utmost importance in the training for citizenship. This early religious training is necessary for our young people are to contribute their full measure to the happiness and stability of the community when they are called upon to accept its responsibilities."

Is there anyone among us who will say that Mr. Hoover is wrong? As Christians, we contend that he is 100 per cent right. This being true, how Kentuckians should revere the memory of Margaretta Brown and treasure the influence of her efforts in the early days of this commonwealth. As the wife of the Hon. John Brown, who was the first U. S. Senator from Kentucky, she occupied a prominent social position in Frankfort, being of a deeply religious nature, she determined to provide religious instruction for the children and young people of her town. This resulted in her beginning the first Sunday School in Kentucky on the present site of Frankfort's Liberty Hall, 130 years ago!

Hon. Henry M. Johnson, President, Kentucky Sunday School Association, is earnestly working to prepare for a worthy observance of the 136th Anniversary of this notable event. A call is being made for every County to sponsor a county-wide celebration September 22, 1940, preferably in the afternoon at the County Seat. The plan is to also hold a gigantic memorial service that afternoon in Frankfort on as near the original site as possible. Ministers there have already expressed great interest and willingness to cooperate.

The Lord willing, September 22, 1940 is going to be a high day in Kentucky! Marvelous Testimony of Noted Jurist

Here is a marvelous testimony that fits in with what Mr. Hoover has to say. It is especially fitting in connection with our chief G-Man's statement, coming, as it does, from an outstanding Judge. In all the annals of court proceedings, we do not know of a more striking testimony than that of the Hon. Lewis L. Fawcett, Jurist of the Supreme Court, State of New York. Some things have temporary significance. Others stand by virtue of their worth that has been tested and tried through a long period of experience. We earnestly urge all Kentuckians and right thinking people everywhere to give heed to the words of this highly placed man.

"The growing increase of juvenile criminality is proof of a deterioration of character and an indictment against the home, the parents and the schools. It is a breakdown in the moral and religious education of the young. The ideals of youth have been lowered. We must bear in mind that public schools used to start the day with some words of Christian guidance. That beneficial uplift has been discontinued. If religion is good one day in the week, it is good every day."

"More than 4,000 of the 8,000 prisoners sentenced by me in thirty years on the bench were under the age of twenty-one years, and only three were members of Sunday Schools at the time of committing their crimes."

"That satisfies me of the value of the Sunday School to the community in helping safeguard it from the growth of criminals. It also satisfies me of the value to the individual."

In 1892 cases of suspended sentences in each of which a minister, rabbi or priest became interested at my request, with the hope of saving the boy to a future life of usefulness and good citizenship, only sixty-two of the boys were brought back for violation of the conditions of the parole. I believe that reform in the remaining cases over 1,000 was prompt and permanent.

"I regard our Sunday Schools and Churches as the only effective means to stem the rising tide of vice and crime among the youth."

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY

Chief Thunder Cloud, the full-blooded Cherokee actor known to every boy and girl fan as Tonto of the "Lone Ranger" series, has the role of the East Indian native "heavy" in Paramount's "Typhoon" with Dorothy Lamour and Robert Preston, to be shown at the Gayety tonight and Friday.

While the picture was being made he came through with a particularly strong performance in a scene aboard a schooner and Director Louis King complimented him on it.

"It keeps that up," commented Lynne Overman, "We'll have to retitlle the picture: 'Thunder Cloud Afloat.'"

SATURDAY

"Action was the one factor that made motion pictures popular in the early days and I believe films should continue to move with plenty of action. The more action and the faster it is the better I like it.

This is the personal belief and preference of Jacques Tourneur, one of Hollywood's youngest directors, whose work first brought the famous action detective, Nick Carter, to the screen and who is continuing with that character, starring Walter Pidgeon, in "The Phantom Raiders" which will be shown at the Gayety Saturday.

TUESDAY

One of the greatest action stories of the year will be at the Gayety Tuesday for a return engagement, "Tarzan Finds a Son." This picture was highly entertaining and has been requested for a return engagement. Don't miss this big thriller.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

An intricate make-up, which required two and one-half hours to apply and consisted of more than one hundred separate pieces, is worn by Frank Morgan for one sequence in the filmation of Phyllis Buttom's dramatic novel of today, "The Mortal Storm," which will be shown at the Gayety Sunday and Monday.

The make-up, created by Jack Dawn, transforms Morgan from a well-groomed professor to an aged, bearded old man whose face is turned snow white through his experiences as a prisoner in a concentration camp.

The make-up is said to be on a par with the ingenious transformations which aged Spencer Tracy in "Edison, the Man," and Robert Taylor in "Waterloo Bridge."

About the time your back gets used to gardening the season is over.

THE BOONE COUNTY RECORDER

ESTABLISHED 1875

BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1940

VOLUME 65

NUMBER 14

COMPLETION OF 4 ROAD PROJECTS

NEAR IN BOONE COUNTY—MINNEOLA ROAD WILL BENEFIT MANY RESIDENTS IN THAT SECTION.

The County, Rural Highway and State Highway Departments are working toward the completion of several highway projects this summer that will give Boone County several more miles of good roads.

The road from Big Bone Church to Normansville is nearing completion and has been built entirely by the county. It is thought that this road will become a Rural Highway project as soon as it is black-topped.

The Petersburg-Belleview road, which is a link of road being built toward U. S. 42, via the Ohio River, is nearing completion and all gravel work is expected to be completed next week.

The State Department has resurfaced Main street through Walton, making it much wider. This will eliminate a road hazard that has existed for many years, and also allow safer parking in the town. The new street will permit two lanes of traffic to move freely through the town with cars parked on both sides of the street.

The County Road Department has started the construction of a new road from Route 20 up the Minneola hill to the Kenton county line and when completed will be of great benefit to many persons in that section of the county.

Boone County has gradually been building better roads, and has adopted the policy to build fewer miles, but better roads. We may not have as many miles of good roads as some other counties in the State, but what Boone County has are paid for and in a few years we will have good roads throughout the county and the taxpayers will not have a large debt to increase their taxes.

One Hundred Fifteen Attend Kitchen Tour

Modern old and new kitchens were visited by 115 homemakers and friends last Friday on a county-wide kitchen tour. This climaxed the study of the "Modern Kitchen" project during the past winter and spring, according to Mary Hood Gillespie, Home Demonstration Agent.

Homemakers representing twelve clubs met at the home of Mrs. Hubert White, Burlington, at 10 a. m. to inspect her remodeled kitchen. The second stop was the remodeled kitchen of Mrs. Bertha Conrad of the Hebron community. The one-room efficiency home of Mrs. Ed Peat was the third stop. A picnic lunch was served at noon at Harvest Home Grounds. The last visit was the kitchen in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Cleek.

The four kitchens illustrated the use of wise planning. Compact storage space was emphasized in each kitchen.

Clinic Held At Hebron

Tuesday afternoon, August 27, a clinic was held at Hebron School for children who are to enter school this year for the first time. Twenty-four white and six colored children were examined by Dr. Nunnally, who was assisted by Miss Lowry.

The mothers cooperated splendidly and seemed greatly interested in the health work. Miss Lowry said she felt this was one of the best pre-school clinics she had ever attended. Much credit is due Mrs. Reimer, who did publicity work for the clinic. In this she was assisted by a committee of interested P. T. A. members.

J. B. Beall

Funeral services for J. B. Beall will be held at the Sand Run Baptist Church, Friday afternoon at 2:30 (E. S. T.) with Rev. R. F. Demsey, officiating.

Prizes and gifts will be awarded those attending and an afternoon and evening of entertainment is planned for all. Everyone invited to attend and bring a friend.

The above picture is a portion of the crowd attending the 4-H and Utopia Club Free Fair at Harvest Home Grounds, Saturday, August 24th. The crowd was estimated at five thousand, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent.

A message was sent to the Boone County club from Judge Crowder, of Mayfield, State president of the Young Men's Democratic Clubs, relating the importance of registration. Every woman who has not voted before, must register. Schoolmate's Day To Be Observed By Lloyd Memorial Club

Plans are being made for an elaborate celebration of the annual schoolmate's day to be held at the Lloyd Home Saturday, Sept. 7th, on Shelby St., Florence. This is an open meeting of the society and all members and old scholars of the late John Uri Lloyd are urged to come out and bring their friends. Please bring a covered dish.

Elected President

George Hankins Riley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. Riley, of Hebron has been elected president of the Transylvania Chapter of Phi Kappa Tau, succeeding Charles Patrick, of Burgin, Ky., and also president of the men's Panhellenic Council for the year 1940-41.

All kinds of sports including tennis, swimming, boating, archery, volley ball, badminton and casting were enjoyed by all. Miss Akin won the girl's casting tournament by scoring 85 out of 100 points, for which she received a very valuable prize.

BURLINGTON WINS OVER BELLEVIEW

BY 5 TO 2 COUNT SATURDAY—HEBRON TROUNCES PETERSBURG BY SCORE OF 3 TO 2—BIG BONE DEFEATS SAND-RUN

Burlington defeated the Belleview baseball team three times over the week. Behind the three-hit pitching and timely hitting of "Hooks" Ryle the locals defeated Belleview Saturday, 5 to 2. The Burlington boys gathered ten hits off the pitching of Ryle and Kittle, while Belleview obtained but three singles off the offerings of "Hooks" Ryle, two of these on the scratchy side.

In the Labor Day twin-bill Burlington defeated Belleview in both ends of the bargain, 12-11 and 6-3. Guley and Akins were on the mound for the locals with "Nooner" Rogers and Ryle for the visitors.

FURTHERING EDUCATION

The rearing of an American citizen, the education of a child, democracy through learning, the return to the schoolhouse, the month of September and campus greeting, back to blackboards and notebooks, back to school in the name of progress and democracy. There comes this chance, in the educational system of our country, to gain knowledge, to prepare to meet life half-way with free schools, free text-books, free instruction and free transportation. There should be a great degree of loyalty in the hearts of American to such an institution that tries to make, our children into intelligent men.

With the approach of the school session comes a decision to be made in some Boone County families whether or not to send the older ones on to college to seek higher educations. One looks about at the great hosts of unemployed college graduates and wonders what is the wise step. Would it be better to try at the business door or hope for a better opportunity through advanced education? It is a question debatable on both sides and a real problem for many parents to solve. Whatever the decision the happy parent and the successful one is that man who has won through his own efforts the right of owning a business, of possessing property, of trading, of further competition, entering courts of justice, engaging in the politics of government, all of which are fields for the student who starts in again this month to add to a growing fund of learning. These girls and boys who gather together pencils and papers, are digging for the principles of education that are theirs by right. The principles of fair play, success through effort, and service to the community, these are the things that go to make an American citizen.

TO LABORERS

There is a constant struggle, in some section or other, of labor when organized and powerful, to defeat or declare rights and privileges. The movement of labor to express itself through collective dealing with its employer is supposed to be another form in our democracy. But labor must also accept certain obligations that are democratic as well, of selecting responsible leaders of labor to guide them in their moves for co-operation in industry. There is real cause to celebrate when the heads of large and small industries meet in accord with their employees to consult and confer. There is the right for citizens to organize so that national labor can safeguard its rights—but does not enslave its employer. The future of labor is no more of a gamble perhaps than the present. We may ask what labor has accomplished this past year but we must remember what labor has accomplished during many years—shorter hours, higher wages, improved working conditions, the right to bargain. There will be those who speak of the many disturbances caused by fanatical labor movements, of unwarranted strikes causing economic loss far in excess of the principles involved. There are always disturbances left in the wake of movements. There has been suffering on both sides, for business still has much to keep her occupied when rights and powers are the issue. But unselfish consideration, combined with co-operation between employer and employee, makes the workman's relationship to the "boss" a point for congratulation.

SERENE SEPTEMBER

Packing the blankets and tackle, hauling in the docks, cleaning the boats, boarding up the windows, goodbyes to vacation until another summer rolls around. The sun may still be hot as it blazes down but its hours are growing shorter. The sadness of departure is overcome by the charm of nature's alteration in her seasonal plans for our enjoyment. We watched for the shoots of spring, we gloried in the quick growths of spring's flowers. We planned for vacations! Now we return home, we revel in the softness of autumn's light, the slow change of green to red, the mellowness of fruit, the shifting of lazy clouds, the haze on the horizon, the smell of smoke from neighbor's bonfires, the clumps of marigolds and asters so colorful and sturdy, the ripe tomatoes, the lawns bedecked with fall leaves. So comes September!

OUR "NEWSIES"

During this month we observe National Newsboys' Week. This is no small item in the making of an American where the task of delivering papers to the reading public forms character in our newsboys. Through all kinds of weather they faithfully serve their customers. There is many a prominent citizen today who was a member of this young army when he was a lad. The importance of the "newsies" job is recognized when you consider the field the newspaper covers. Our messenger of world tidings, our conveyor of local events goes his way promptly, diligently, politely, dealing in pennies and dimes and service. Many of today's newsmen will be tomorrow's statesmen and executives, leaders in science and politics—and the father of newsmen to come. To you, paperboy!

THE GOLDENROD

As the shadows on the sun dial give us noon, the calendar tells the day, so the countryside indicates the change of season. From August through September the glory of gold as it brightens our across field and roadside the blossom of the fall, the Goldenrod. Scarcely a state that is not aware of the approach of the season through this golden flower in at least one of its 125 varieties. The many have few sufferers are apt to put this bloom on their list of allergies, but we understand that the goldenrod but only occurs during that time when the sneezing is the most prevalent. Whatever, we welcome the glory of gold as it brightens our roads and fields and makes a patch of color symbolic of fall in Boone County.

IN MEMORY

Just as the golden sun was setting in the West, the stars of little Jennings Duane Craig drifted silently and swiftly across the brink into the Great Beyond, after three days of intense suffering. All that loving hands could do to alleviate his sufferings were of no avail. Jennings Duane was the son of William Jennings Craig and Frances Clore Craig born August 23, 1940, departed this life August 26, age three days.

He leaves behind to mourn his loss his mother and father, his brothers, Duane, Bestie, Clore and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Craig. It is not understood why this little flower of a few days was called to go, but to the will of Him who doeth all things we must bow in humble submission and say, "His will be done."

He has gone where the wicked cease troubling and the weary shall find rest, and where we have the promise of a never ending day. Somewhere the shadows are lifting. While sorrow is velling our sight for every dark cloud there is a clear golden ray. And darkness comes before light. —A friend.

IMPROVED INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for September 8

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education, used by permission.

LESSON TEXT—Psalm 96.
GOLDEN TEXT—O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exult in his name together.—Psalm 96:1.

Worship is not only fitting, but altogether natural to the soul aglow with the love of God. Yet it is a sacred privilege to others which we may call ourselves and others in the doing of which we may be helped by the intelligent understanding of its nature and preparation for its practice.

What is worship? How does it differ from prayer, or from praise (which we studied last week)? While prayer, praise and worship belong together and often merge in one blessed act of devotion, we may possibly distinguish between them by saying that in prayer we are concerned with our needs; in praise, with our blessings; and in worship, with God Himself.

I. The Call to Worship (vv. 1-3). The psalmist has to do with collective rather than individual worship. It is not enough that man should worship God in his own soul, there is an added blessing which comes when we worship with others. So we need to be called together for worship.

True worship centers in "a new song that is the song of a regenerated heart." It is a desire to be a new song in the heart, and then it becomes life's greatest joy and satisfaction.

Real worship is a "day to day" matter (v. 2), not just something we put on like our "Sunday-go-to-meeting" clothes. Every day we are to worship, and as we do, we shall "declare his glory among the heathen"; among those nearest to us, but ultimately to all the nations of the earth. Worship leads to a desire to share the blessing may be shared with all the people of the earth.

II. The Reason for Worship (vv. 4-6). Why should we worship God? He is "great" and is a God so good and gracious that He is "greatly to be praised." He made the heavens. "Honor and majesty stand before Him." His strength and beauty fill the whole place which is "his sanctuary." The very words bespeak that glorious majesty and gracious loving-kindness which inspire us to worship. They encourage us who need and seek strength and beauty of life to seek communion with Him who dwells eternally in such an atmosphere.

III. The Manner of Worship (vv. 7-10). We have suggested that fellowship with God prompts us to worship. Some would feel that nothing more is needed, but experience tells us that, while we may worship anywhere, we are helped to do so by proper surroundings and circumstances. We are told to "come into his courts" (v. 9) and to worship "in the beauty of holiness" (v. 9), or, as the Revised Version puts it, "in holy array."

John Ruskin wisely said: "It cannot be questioned at all, that, if once familiarized with a beautiful form and color, we shall desire to see this also in the house of prayer; its absence will disturb instead of assisting devotion; and we shall feel it as vain to ask whether, with our own house full of good craftsmanship, we shall worship God in a house destitute of it, as to ask whether a pilgrim whose day's journey led him through fair woods and by sweet waters, must at evening turn aside into some barren place to pray."

We are to give or ascribe unto the Lord praise and glory among our "kindred" (v. 7); that is, our own family, as well as in "his sanctuary." His sanctuary. Note that one of the outstanding ways of worshiping is to "bring an offering" (v. 8), which means more than casually slipping a small coin in the "collection." If our offerings are liberal and regular the church will be able to send the fews that "the Lord reigneth" to the whole world (v. 10).

IV. The Universality of Worship (vv. 11-13). The world which has felt the blow of man's sin (Rom. 8:22) and has suffered from his wickedness and destructive violence will so rejoice in the righteousness of God's judgment that the realm of nature will break into joyful worship. What a beautiful picture we see in these verses, how God's creation will lift itself up in praise, the sea in tumultuous joy, when "the hills shall break forth before you into singing, and all the trees shall clap their hands" (Isa. 55:12).

Can man then hold his peace? Must not "mortal tongues awake" and "all that breathe partake" in the wholehearted worship of God? Who then will want to stand among "them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ" (II Thess. 1:7, 8), and with whom God can deal only in judgment of flaming fire?

A diet may not help your waistline, but it will work wonders with your willpower.

The long road that has no turning is that one taken by the refugee.

HOW ARE YOUR CHILD'S EYES?

As school time nears, parents should know whether their child's eyes are in condition to meet the extra strain of school work. Often a "backward" child is merely one subjected to eye-strain. Know the truth—bring your child in for a competent eye examination.

THIS IS NICE

A subscriber suggests to change the appearance of your table with the change in seasons. Why not use tones of the fall in rusts and reds, golds and browns, in your bridge and luncheon sets? It is not necessary to buy linen but can make attractive sets with percales and homespuns of the coarse weaves.

NEW TOBACCO VARIETIES SEEN

ON TOUR HELD TUESDAY, AUG. 27TH—EXPERIMENT STATION NO. 33 PROVEN BEST FUSARIUM WILT RESISTANT.

New Fusarium Wilt Resistant and Mosaic Resistant varieties were seen on a county tobacco tour held on last Tuesday, August 27th, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent.

Experiment Station No. 33 so far has proven the best fusarium wilt resistant variety of tobacco. Experiment Station No. 34 looks promising but did not show to be a quick growing variety. Good demonstrations of these varieties were seen on the farm of Louette W. Rogers of near Bellevue. Fusarium wilt is proving a serious production problem in Ohio river bottom land.

Mosaic or Black French is a serious problem wherever help uses chewing or smoking tobacco weedling plant beds, pulling plants or in topping or suckering tobacco. Experiment Station No. 48, strain 7, has proven the best of this disease resistant variety type developed to date but probably not equal in quality to the commonly grown varieties. The solution to Mosaic control seems to be care in handling of the young plants. Demonstrations in the growing of No. 48 variety were seen on farms of Blackburn and Utz, Burlington; Wm. Hill, Idlewild; Sam Sleat, of Beaver and James Pennington, Walton.

Wild fire and Angular leaf spot demonstrations showed that best control can be secured only thru the spraying of the tobacco plant beds with Bordeaux Mixture on the Bluestone and lime treatment.

Mr. Russell Hunt, tobacco specialist, College of Agriculture, met with farmers on the tour Tuesday. He advised farmers to let their tobacco get ripe before cutting. If the weather is not favorable at housing time, fire should be used. Ripe tobacco always cures up with better quality than green tobacco. A circular on curing tobacco is available at the County Agent's office on request.

Why Be Old At 40?

N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT
9th and Madison—Covington

Do you have severe pains in the muscles of your legs?
Do you walk with toes pointed out?
Are you bedeviled by a thousand demons tearing at your back?
Do you have to get up in the morning?
Do you experience foot pain when walking?
Can you be on your feet all day without fatigue?
Any of all these conditions may indicate that one or more of the four arches of your feet are on the verge of collapse. There is really no end to the trouble that such a condition could cause. Around the bones and muscles of your feet are numerous nerves, all of which are directly connected with the nerve center. Severe pains in your feet are transmitted to every part of your body.

What can you do about it?
For years men and women have withstood the aches and misery due to some foot condition and have always decided "There is nothing you can do about it."

Now Comes a Sure Way to Relief for many aches and pains due to faulty foot condition. You will be eager to see each morning and meet the conditions of the new day. You will have the springy active step of a youngster of eighteen. You will not be old at forty! There is no secret to it. You don't have to take a long rest, nor a change of climate. You need only to be correctly fitted in a pair of surgical shoes. You may think this is a simple way to end all of pain and misery, you have been suffering for a good many years, but after all don't the simplest things in life bring the greatest joy?

Resolve today that you will pronounce the death sentence on the misery, aches and pains due to foot trouble.—Adv.

YOUR PROPERTY
Not so many continue the practice of covering the lawn with manure in the fall. There are too many weed seeds that result from this. If tobacco stems are to be obtained they will give good results when spread lightly over the lawn during late fall. Pulverized sheep manure can be used but it also introduces weeds. Peony plants should be planted before your ground freezes. Do not plant more than three or less than two inches below the ground.

SATURDAY

The National Congress of Hobbyists, with headquarters in Philadelphia, has made young Tommy Bond an honorary president, the boy learned during production of Columbia's "Out West with the Peppers," newest in the series based on Margaret Sidney's juvenile classics. The film features Edith Fellows, Dorothy Ann Seese, Dorothy Peterson and Victor Kilian. Tommy, one of the little Peppers, collects buttons, lapel insignia, which he wears on a battered felt "beanie." He has nearly 3,000 such buttons.

SUNDAY and MONDAY
Credited to Lynne Overman, who is featured in Paramount's picture, "Safari," which co-stars Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Madeleine Carroll at the Gayety, is this "short" story. A group of migrants were on set impersonating African Pygmies Overman avers that he met a lone migrant on Hollywood boulevard, and asked him why he wasn't working with his chums. To which the migrant mumbled replied: "Arrh! I'm the little man who wasn't there." Anytime, it's a good story.

TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY
Bob Hope knows from past experience that a professional comedian can't be too careful while making a motion picture. He is surrounded by actors who occasionally see a chance for a practical joke, just to even the score.

In Paramount's "The Ghost Breakers" the mythical mystery which will be shown at the Gayety, the script required him to be locked in a wardrobe trunk. Intuitively he sensed that something might go wrong and the end of the day would still find him locked in the trunk with no lunch, tea or dinner.

Unknown to anyone a strange man appeared on the set and stood by, addressing only Hope. The scenes were made uneventfully. Afterward Paulette Goddard who co-stars with him asked him who his friend was and why he didn't introduce him.

"That, my dear," replied Hope, "was a locksmith. The little black bag he carried contained a crowbar and an assortment of skeleton keys which I instructed him to use in the event that the keys to the trunk were 'mislaid' or possibly 'lost.'"

A FALLING-OFF

Due to certain census returns to date, we are somewhat surprised at the decline in the population of some Western states. The reason for this change in figures in the Plains States is believed caused by the moving on of folks who have suffered from crop failures and droughts. The census shows that in those places where irrigation is possible, the population has increased to a degree. There isn't a moving-out but that there is a suffering of hardship on the part of some family. And even though agricultural experts tell us that west of the Mississippi to the Rocky Mountains there is not one acre of land that is purely waste land, there is no expert to tell us that all of this land is ripe for growing corn and wheat. Perhaps we do not utilize all of the rivers of the West, perhaps we should tend to the raising of grass that will survive any drought and will give grazing to cattle. We must remember that every summer is not a drought one. We ask for hints from scientists in the way we can solve this problem of bringing back the population of the desert states. With what may be plant prosper so that the every lasting struggle of man and nature may be turned to a profit for both. May the wanderers return to their homes and count their blessings over those days in the early 1890's when there might well indeed be termed the "Great American Desert."

MORE POTATOES

We get varied reports of the changes taking place in territory occupied by the German army of invasion and our source may be questionable. Too many of the news reports are just what the nations involved wish to give out to the reading public. However, we have at hand authentic enough statements that German soldiers occupying Oslo in Norway, are digging up the flowers that have long bloomed in the city's public gardens and are putting potato plants in their place. The American farmer has always known of the abundance of Norway's potato crops and they realize the seriousness of the food shortage if new means are taken to supplant flowers with food.

In Norway, they tell us about the only meal when you will not find a steaming dish of "spuds" to grace the board is at breakfast, for the Norwegian feels this is a necessity to a regular diet. Norway has increased her root crops during these last few years, and has turned her attention to recent developments of scientifically treated soil. Although, here is no tenant farmer problems for the tenant farmer is almost unknown. The Norwegians choose to cultivate and own his own plot of ground whatever its size may be.

TO SENTIMENT

A very recent case of the heart ruling the head came to the notice of your editor. In a small Michigan town, in front of the Court House, stands an old town pump, long in disuse but a favorite lodging place for birds. A sanitary engineer knew this to be a nuisance to the public and, using his head, decided to have done with the town pump. But up arose sentiment and townsmen protested to the village council in memory of a fire that threatened the village thirty years ago when the same pump furnished water to a bucket brigade that saved the village. The only concession made to the engineer with the head by the city fathers with the hearts is that the town pump be given a fresh coat of paint as befitted such a memorial.

NO OBJECTIONS

There should be no objection to the registering and fingerprinting, under law, of the nation's aliens. The only objection might come from someone who is living in this country, enjoying its privileges and protection, illegally. These aliens in line will gladly comply with the law as they understand why it is being made. Not long ago only criminals were fingerprinted or persons suspected of crime. Now this process of identification is used in cases of accident or death. It is used in identifying employees in many industries, in insurance business and especially in government position. Boone County offers no objections.

ON THE ROAD AGAIN

With the starting of school, parents should make it a point to see that children are obedient to traffic laws and regulations. This subject of self-protection is as necessary for an education as a knowledge of writing and arithmetic. Arithmetic enables you to learn of the total of accidents resulting to school children during a school year. Reading tells you of serious mistakes that befell youngsters who would not watch. History points out the necessity of thinking out your movements before you act, or deciding your campaign in order to keep your place in society. English acquaints you with the important words as slow, danger and school zone, speed limit, curve ahead, crossing, etc. Let Boone County parents teach these at home so that the entire problem isn't left to the teacher.

IMPROVED
SUNDAY LESSON

THE EVER-PRESENT GOD

LESSON TEXT—Psalm 139:1-12, 23, 24.
GOLDEN TEXT—If a man love me, he will keep my words: and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him.—John 14:23.

"The Psalm of the Unavoidable God"—Abingdon characterizes Psalm 139, but goes on to say, "Its main theme is 'God Cares.' He cares personally and individually." The omniscience and omnipresence of God, in the trying of the hearts of men, reveals His feelings for the ungodly, but to those who love and serve Him it can bring only assurance and joy.

The sublime concept of God here presented is an evidence of the divine inspiration of the Bible, for no human philosopher could ever have attained to or expressed such an understanding of the true nature of God. Only the infinite, all-knowing God, speaking through man, could give us this magnificent Psalm. It reveals that

I. God Knows Everything (vv. 1-4).

God is entirely unlimited in His true and eternal knowledge of things. Man is always limited in his knowledge of himself, of the world in which he lives, and of God, except as He reveals Himself. Our knowledge is not only partial, but progressive, going from one fact to another; but God knows all things perfectly and entirely from the beginning, yes, from all eternity. One might well suppose that such a Being would be concerned only with the great and mighty forces of the universe, but we are told that He is interested in and intelligent in even such simple details of life as our "doings and . . . uprisings."

God is not so foolish as man. He does not put things and power above personality. He is interested in you and in me—is vitally, personally and blessedly concerned about each one of us. Knowing all about us, He builds a garrison of understanding love around us (v. 5; see Phil. 4:7 R. V.), and keeps His eternally powerful but tender hand upon us, if we permit Him so to do. Reader, how do you submit your life to His control through Jesus Christ our Lord?

II. God Is Everywhere (vv. 7-12). In our humanity we are limited, not only in knowledge, but also in our ability to be in more than one place at a time. The Bible tells us what our reason would expect; that God, the infinite One, is everywhere at all times. This does not mean (as the pantheist and some have believed) that God is lost in nature, bound up in the rocks and trees, but that He is everywhere present in majestic power and love, sustaining all things, controlling and directing the destinies of His universe. He is not afar off, letting the world care for itself (as the deist would say),

"As he is present majesty, As in His courts on high." The man who would hide from God and flee from the Holy Spirit finds no comfort in these verses. He may attempt to hide in heaven or in the abode of the dead, but God is there. If he could ride with the speed of morning light (v. 9) to the uttermost parts of the earth, God is there before him. Darkness, which men think will hide their evil deeds, is like daylight to "Him with whom we have to do" (Heb. 4:13).

But why flee from a loving God? Why not come to Him in loving obedience, and then with the psalmist rejoice that we "cannot get beyond the circle of His love"? What a blessed truth it is that wherever these lines are read—in the home, the church, in a hospital, in a jail, in an airplane, in the depths of a mine, in darkness or in light, in the great city, or by one living alone in the wilderness—God, the infinite, all-knowing, eternal, loving God, is there. He is right at your side, reader. Turn to Him, count on Him, love Him, serve Him.

III. God Searches Man's Heart (vv. 23, 24).

Verse 3 of our psalm teaches that God searches the hearts of all men, but here we find the psalmist wisely inviting God to search his own heart. It is one thing to know a universal truth; it is another matter to make it personal. It is one thing to know that God, against my will, is pointing out to me the sin and rebellion of my heart; it is quite another thing to open my heart voluntarily to His searching scrutiny.

Why did the Psalmist ask God to search him? That in trying his thoughts any wickedness might be revealed and put away. That is the important point. It is not enough to know that sin is there. We must ask God to give us grace to put it out, that He may then lead us in the "way everlasting."

The Word of God points the way of righteousness in both heart and life. Who will decide this day to walk in that way—in fellowship with the all-knowing, ever-present Lord?

Some fellows marry to escape war and other fellows enter war to escape their wife.

Sunday is a day of unrest and arrest, from the appearance of highways.

HISTORY—Mrs. G. E. M. suffered headaches and neckaches. Her neck ached so intensely at the base of the skull she could hardly see. Days at a time she could not get out of bed because of the severity of the pain. She read one of our ads, telling of the good work we were doing, and decided to see what we could do for her. After a very short time wearing surgical shoes, pain in the head and neck lessened till finally it disappeared entirely and she is well and happy. It is now possible for her to do her own work even when it is necessary for her to climb stepladders. Surgical shoes seemingly worked miracles for her.

COMMENT—Strain on ligaments and tendons naturally has a weakening effect upon muscles. Continued neglect of these conditions may be the cause of your aches and pains in the neck and back, and you have been unable to get relief, come in and let us see what we can do for you.
If your ankles are weak and you are constantly rolling them, surgical shoes are definitely the answer to your problem.—Adv.

THE GOVERNOR SPEAKS
By James A. McCabe, Director of Celebration

Gov. Keen Johnson

We are delighted that our State's chief executive has honored our Celebration of the 130th Anniversary of Kentucky's First Sunday School by designating September 22, 1940, as the day for the State-wide observance of this memorable event. The proclamation follows:

"To All To Whom These Presents Shall Come:
WHEREAS, the first Sunday School in Kentucky was established in 1810 by Margaretta Brown, wife of the first Senator from Kentucky, and

WHEREAS, we are deeply conscious of and grateful for the spiritual influences and blessings this act has brought to succeeding generations of this Commonwealth, and

WHEREAS, extensive plans have been made for a state-wide observance of the 130th anniversary of the founding of this Sunday School,
NOW, THEREFORE, as Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky I do hereby proclaim Sunday, September 22, 1940, as the day for the celebration of the 130th anniversary of Kentucky's First Sunday School.

Given under my hand and seal, this fifth day of September, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and forty, and in the year of the Commonwealth of the one hundred and forty-ninth.

KEEN JOHNSON
Governor, Commonwealth of Ky.

A High Day in Kentucky
The Lord willing, one week from next Sunday will mark one of the greatest religious celebrations ever held in this Commonwealth. We sincerely hope that the great expectancy in the hearts of men and women, boys and girls, concerning this State-wide event will measure up to their fondest dreams.

We have had numbers of articles written about fine livestock, the beauties of our landscapes and the tender sentiments about our home, all of which are fine. The Christian people now rejoice that at last someone who did something for Christ is to receive a gigantic State-wide Celebration in recognition of the wonderful worth of her effort. It is a particular source of satisfaction to Christians in this State that since the beginning of Margaretta Brown's Sunday School under an apple tree in Liberty Hall Gardens in 1810, that the teachings of Jesus have been propagated in unbroken sequence for 130 years in this Commonwealth.

Where is the man or woman, boy or girl, historian or statistician, that can estimate the value of what this noble woman did in the long ago. Streams of spiritual blessings have flowed from that effort to teach the Word of God. Boys have been saved from careers in crime, girls from lives of shame and fathers and mothers have been caused to hear the music of a better world.

Cheerful Help Given

The Kentucky Sunday School Association, 554 S. Third St., Louisville, Ky., hereby acknowledges the cheerful help that has been given by our citizens in virtually every County of Kentucky, to make this State-wide observance a success. Ministers, School teachers, business men, farmers, boys and girls, in fact, people from every walk of life have gladly and wholeheartedly joined in this undertaking.

Various organizations and agencies have also given help. We hereby extend our grateful thanks to the newspapers of Kentucky for their wholehearted and unselfish devotion to the program. Without their cheerful cooperation, our task would have been much more difficult and in some instances virtually impossible.

To the County Celebration Committees, we are also indebted. Their kindly spirit in receiving instructions and carefully carrying them out in their various communities has not only been a joy to the Director of Celebration and the Kentucky Sunday School Association, but has been largely responsible for making it possible for their communities to have any part in it at all.

We request every man and woman, boy and girl to watch their local papers next week for the final preparation story before the Celebration.

CHAMPION DOG AT FIELD TRIALS

FOR FIELD TRIAL EVENT AT LAUGHERY CLUB ON SEPTEMBER 22—FINE JUDGES SECURED.

Added interest to the coming Field Trial event was given this week when word came that Blue Sall, famous coon dog would be here for the meeting, to be held Sept. 22 at Laughery Club, sponsored by Aurora Fish & Game Club. Blue Sall, America's No. 1 Coon dog for 1940, won the Leary Oak Stake of $1,000 at Kenton, Ohio, recently. He is owned by L. B. Baker, of Norwich, Ohio.

Boss Johnston, famed radio announcer with WLW, will broadcast the event. He gave a preliminary announcement of the meeting on his Labor Day program. It is interesting to note that Mr. Mason of the WLW staff will accompany him to the local meeting. These men were on hand at the Leary Oak trials and gave a complete description of the event.

Johnston with Chas. Dierking, Secy-Treas. of the Aurora sports association, were guests of Col.

Hank Pfeiffer at the meet which was attended also by Henry and Louis Baker of Aurora. Two hundred dogs took part in the event.

Ed Mason, who has charge of the WLW Farm program, has been secured to serve as one of the judges at the trials at Aurora Sept. 22. The local club is indebted to Boss Johnston for this arrangement. Mr. Mason is a lover of dogs and is keenly interested in coon hunting.

Among the celebrated Walkers to compete in the Walkers Contest, a special entertainment feature to be held in connection with the Field Trials are: John J. Abbott, former national 10,000 meter champion; Joe Rosenhofer, 18-000 meter champion; Dan Baker, Kentucky State Champion; Dick Key, of the American Walkers Assn.; Frank Gerace, American Railway Express Champion; Krecko Grayer, Cincinnati Gym; Joe Suppanek, American Walkers Assn.; Charles Hickman, Cincinnati Gym; Charles Levine, American Walkers Association; Tony Fraloff, unattached; Del Schuler, Cincinnati Gym; Irwin J. Carroll, American Walkers Association; Nathan P. Gleuck, Cincinnati gym. Other champions expected to compete are Mike Ribon, Chicago, Illinois State Champion; Bill Mahlo, Detroit, Michigan state champion and national champion, as well as 31 mile runner champion and John Dene, St. Louis, Pennsylvania state champion, and national 25-000 meter champion walker. A silver trophy and eight medals are to be awarded by the committee. The contest will start at Newtown Park, Lawrenceburg.

On the same day of the Field Trial at Laughery Club we have signed up with the noted Walkers of the Midwest. These walkers will start from Lawrenceburg, Ind. at Newtown Park, and will walk nine miles to Laughery Club. The winner will receive a silver cup and the next eight will receive medals. Just a short time ago these walkers were in a race to St. Louis, Mo., where 35,000 people awaited to watch the finish of the contest.

Charles Dierking, Secretary, Aurora Fish & Game Assn.

600 FARM WOMEN AT HOME-MAKERS' CAMPS

Six hundred farm women from all parts of Kentucky had a week's vacation at home-makers' camps this year, according to Miss Myrtle Weldon, state leader of county home demonstration work. No routine work was allowed—it was a creative holiday for a group usually "on the job" 52 weeks a year.

Under expert direction, the women studied music, leathercraft, the latest novels and non-fiction, community recreational programs, etc. Now they can sit down and whip out a leather pocketbook or billfold in almost no time, talk familiarly of early American folk songs, and know as much about the day's best authors as any city person.

YOUNG BALL PLAYERS WILL HAVE CHANCE TO SHOW ABILITY SEPT. 23

Glasgow, Ky., Sept. 12—Young ball players of this territory with their eyes on future in professional baseball will have an opportunity to display their ability when several St. Louis Cardinal minor league clubs hold a tryout camp here at Cavalry Field starting Monday, September 23, and lasting for about a week.

The tryout camp was announced today by Hugh Poland, Director of the camp. He stated that a number of competent scouts will be assigned to the tryouts to look over the players who attend. The scouting personnel will be announced shortly, according to Poland.

The St. Louis Cardinal organization has conducted camps such as this for several years and from each camp numerous boys have been signed to contracts in professional ball. Several Cardinal stars gained starts in tryout camps.

Poland extended an invitation to boys between the ages of 17 and 23, who believe in their ability to play professional baseball, to attend the camp. Boys wishing tryouts have only to present themselves at Cavalry Field at 9 o'clock the morning of Monday, September 23, bringing their shoes, gloves and uniforms. The only other requirements are that out-of-town boys must finance their trips to Glasgow and living expenses while here.

No fee is charged for the tryouts. The duration of tryouts, Poland explained, will probably be three or four days for out-of-town boys and boys signed to contracts will be refunded expenses incident to attending the camp.

have been bought and paid for by the time the period of declining income sets in.

Here are some facts which may help you make up your mind when to build your new home:

Mr. Willie says that the selection of Edward J. Flynn—"Boss Flynn"—was the designation he employed—as Chairman of the Democratic National Committee "speaks for itself."

The mildness of the Utilities candidate's comment in comparison with his virtuous reflections on the iniquity of other conspicuous Democratic political leaders is quite understandable.

When Tammany County Committeeman Wendell Wilkie collaborated with and worked in accord with a Democratic colleague from the Bronx the latter was called "Boss Flynn" and it is not on record that Mr. Wilkie found the association in any way distasteful, and that was only a very few years ago.

The Republican candidate for President is naturally contemptuous of bosses, except such bosses as Mr. Joe Pev of Pennsylvania, whose exploit, according to published accounts, in literally locking up the Pennsylvania delegation when the O. P. convention so that it could not reach the convention floor to vote for Taft made Wilkie's nomination possible.

Beaside, he probably figures that the favor of those who boss the Republican bosses is more important than the favor of their leaders.

The minority party has referred to the Democratic convention in Chicago as a steamroller show. Well, the Democratic candidate had approximately 900 of the 1100 delegates elected in the primaries pledged to him.

The Boss of the Bosses The Republican candidate carried no primary election. He had no delegates worth mentioning, but he had what was more important at Philadelphia—he had the backing of the men who pay the bills. They were one of their own, and picked for the job the head of one of the biggest mergers ever launched in Wall Street. It was a logical choice—a leader of the big interests to challenge the leader of the plain people. Consequently, we have in the present campaign a perfectly definite division between the reactionary and the liberal groups among our people.

Naturally, every newspaper capable of being influenced by the pressure, direct or indirect, of the great corporations and the men who pull the strings in Wall Street are enthusiastically for the election of the president of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation to the headship of our government. PLENTY OF WORKERS TO FILL JOBS, SAYS BARNES

An active file of 95,800 workers seeking employment through the 15 offices of the Kentucky Unemployment Compensation Commission Service offices was presented today as "excellent reasons why workers in other States should not come to Kentucky and particularly to Louisville in search of jobs."

State Unemployment Compensation Commission officials explained that the active file of the State has increased by five percent in the last month.

Vego E. Barnes, executive director of the Unemployment Compensation Commission of which the Employment Service is a section, pointed out that "this active file contains the work histories of thousands of Kentucky workers available to fill any vacancies which might occur in Louisville or elsewhere in the State."

"Workers who leave their homes to come to Louisville and residents of other States who migrate to Kentucky in search of work will meet with disappointment. In addition to the fact that we have an abundant supply of workers already here, Kentucky employers are asking that we send them only workers who have lengthy residence records."

"Statistics indicate," Barnes added, "that Kentucky has available workers to fill any demand employers might make. It is only in extremely rare cases where employers demand a highly skilled worker in a highly technical field that the Employment Service cannot fill the demand with Kentucky workers."

When this situation occurs, it was explained, the job usually is filled through the Clearance System used by the Employment Service in which the employment agencies of other States are solicited in order to obtain the properly qualified worker.

"This Clearance System," Barnes said, "makes it absolutely unnecessary for any worker to leave his home state to search for work in other areas. If the worker will apply to the local office of his own State Employment Service he can obtain full details as to the employment opportunities elsewhere."

Barnes emphasized the fact that the Louisville area, in which are located numerous industries essential to the Nation's defense program, may attract thousands of workers who hope to obtain jobs here.

"They will be disappointed," he explained, "inasmuch as Kentucky already has an abundant supply of workers and the demand among employers is not sufficient to permit the placement of those job workers already here, let alone others who might come to Kentucky just 'in hope' of getting work."

You can't fool all of the people all of the time, but politicians sure try hard.

One sure way to cure yourself of the tobacco habit, is to live with a woman who objects to smoking.

The fellow who smokes for little here below, can always figure on getting along on much less.

Dispelling The Fog

By Charles Michelson

Mr. Wilkie says that the selection of Edward J. Flynn—"Boss Flynn"—was the designation he employed—as Chairman of the Democratic National Committee "speaks for itself."

The mildness of the Utilities candidate's comment in comparison with his virtuous reflections on the iniquity of other conspicuous Democratic political leaders is quite understandable.

When Tammany County Committeeman Wendell Wilkie collaborated with and worked in accord with a Democratic colleague from the Bronx the latter was called "Boss Flynn" and it is not on record that Mr. Wilkie found the association in any way distasteful, and that was only a very few years ago.

The Republican candidate for President is naturally contemptuous of bosses, except such bosses as Mr. Joe Pev of Pennsylvania, whose exploit, according to published accounts, in literally locking up the Pennsylvania delegation when the O. P. convention so that it could not reach the convention floor to vote for Taft made Wilkie's nomination possible.

Beaside, he probably figures that the favor of those who boss the Republican bosses is more important than the favor of their leaders.

The minority party has referred to the Democratic convention in Chicago as a steamroller show. Well, the Democratic candidate had approximately 900 of the 1100 delegates elected in the primaries pledged to him.

The Boss of the Bosses The Republican candidate carried no primary election. He had no delegates worth mentioning, but he had what was more important at Philadelphia—he had the backing of the men who pay the bills. They were one of their own, and picked for the job the head of one of the biggest mergers ever launched in Wall Street. It was a logical choice—a leader of the big interests to challenge the leader of the plain people. Consequently, we have in the present campaign a perfectly definite division between the reactionary and the liberal groups among our people.

Naturally, every newspaper capable of being influenced by the pressure, direct or indirect, of the great corporations and the men who pull the strings in Wall Street are enthusiastically for the election of the president of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation to the headship of our government. Naturally, they are parading the names of fugitive Democrats who have announced themselves on the Republican side this year. Individual defections from either party have marked every election for a century. And this year nearly all of these names are those of disappointed politicians like Senator Burke of Nebraska, who was defeated for the Democratic nomination to succeed himself because the Nebraska people felt that he had already deserted his party. Others are those whose natural affiliations are with the party crowd. In fact, nearly all of these men who turned their backs on their party long ago. They are the folks who formed the Liberty League that made so much noise and accomplished so little in 1936.

The disgruntled man in politics can deliver his own vote and no more.

It would have been news had most of these people been Democrats this year and not merely Democrats of long ago. It is not news that they are still on the outside, looking in.

It is not surprising that Mr. Wilkie half poses as a liberal. In view of the very considerable liberal element in the Republican party, he could not intelligently do otherwise.

He was a successful corporation lawyer during nearly all of his professional life, and he was a sincere corporation man in his capacity as head of the Commonwealth and Southern empire, which dominated the power world much as did the Innuell corporation, which slashed just about the time Mr. Wilkie's corporation was attaining its zenith. He was an opportunist as a corporation head, and it is reasonable to expect the same devotion to expediency as a national candidate.

Public Utility Strategy There is an interesting example of this in the court record that marked the conflict between the big power company and the Tennessee Valley Authority. At one stage it was sought to effect an agreement between the two as to their relative fields of activity, etc. They made contract and Mr. Wilkie made the declaration "to a fully cooperative spirit in thought as well as act we have pledged ourselves to carry through and I am confident that with the character of the members of the Tennessee Valley Authority that they will do likewise."

But a few months later a preferred stock holder in the Alabama Power Company, a Commonwealth and Southern subsidiary, attacked the validity of the contract in the courts. Mr. Wilkie spiritedly denied that the company itself had any connection with the litigation. It was subsequently brought out in a Senatorial investigation that the Edison Electric Institute contributed $50,000 toward the fee of the big lawyers who were representing the stockholder. At this time Mr.

Wilkie was on the Executive Committee of the Edison Electric Institute, and his companies paid a great share of the contributions that supported the Institute.

However, the coming election will not be decided on what Mr. Wilkie did as a corporation head, but on the simpler issue of whether this country is willing to take a chance and on what sort of an administration can be expected from a candidate of his training, affiliation and environment.

It really is not very hard to figure the outcome. The registration figures show that in nearly every State the Democrats have huge majorities, and the defections are negligible. The restoration of half a dozen names of the alleged converts to the G. O. P. suggests the expedient of the old theatre where they marched a few soldiers across the stage into the wings and round, and round and round again to give the impression of an army. Such a procession has no political meaning. The overturn of an administration is heralded by definite evidences—by the alienation of an important and numerous group, for example. And of such a movement there is no sign. Moreover, rarely has there been a change of administration unless it was preceded by the election of a hostile Congress—and the Democratic party holds the Senate almost three to one, and controls the House by nearly a hundred majority.

CONSTANCE

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Reeves and family and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Howard and son left Friday morning for Cumberland Falls to be gone for several days.

It is hard to tell whether it is opportunity knocking at Boone County doors or just the beating of the wolf's tail against the wood.

Trapping Regulations Released By State Dept.

The trapping regulations for 1940 under the new Anti-Steel-Trap law are hereby released for publication by the Division of Game and Fish:

For the water animals, such as the Muskrat and the Mink, the Briddell Rubber-jawed trap, size 1, shall be used along the shores of streams, lakes or ponds where drowning-sets may be made in water at least 22 inches deep, so that the animal will be quickly drowned. No trap shall be set without a drowning device. These prevent not only trap-thieving, but wring-offs and injuries to fur.

For the land animals, the new chain-loop legholds which take without injury shall be used. For the largest animals, such as fox, wild cat, and raccoon, the improved Verbal Chain-loop is to be used, and for smaller, short-legged animals, such as skunk, weasel and opossum, the Epp Chain-loop traps is to be used.

All furbearers may also be taken in home-made box or cage traps, or with the old-fashioned deadfall, or with instant-kills set far back in holes or burrows.

Every trap set shall be visited every 24 hours after setting, and any animal found therein killed instantly, or liberated unharmed.

The regulations also state that no person shall set any trap on the land of another without written permission from the owner of the land. And also that a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars is the penalty for any violation of this trapping law.

There is no open season for beaver and otter in Kentucky. As the raccoon is almost extinct in this state, trappers are requested for their own future good, not to take raccoons, but to let them live and multiply.

The trapping season for 1940 begins Nov. 24th and closes Jan. 9, 1941, except for the red fox, which season begins Dec. 1st and ends Dec. 31st.

Phosphate Available Under 1941 A. C. Program

Phosphate under the 1941 Agricultural Conservation Program is now available to farmers according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Orders are now being received at the County Office in Burlington.

Phosphate may be applied to all grasses sown this fall and may be used in connection with small grains seeded this fall with grasses or legumes provided the small grain is not harvested next summer. This will prove a big aid to a large number of farmers. The only exception to this rule is when applied on wheat on a farm with a commercial wheat allotment.

Farmers desiring phosphate for fall use should file their order at the County office immediately. Early orders will be delivered in the near future.

WHEN STORING

Before putting away garden tools for the winter, clean them and rub with grease or kerosene and store in a dry place. Any unpainted garden furniture should be rubbed with linseed oil before being stored. This improves color of wood and keeps it from cracking. Always store left-over vegetables in separate dishes in the refrigerator. The flavors are retained better this way. Do the combining later.

Army Divided Into Three Main Sections

The Constitution of the United States gives Congress the power to raise and support armies, and designates the President as Commander-in-Chief.

The Army is divided into three main sections. The Regular Army, the National Guard, and the Organized Reserves. Under the President, the Secretary of War is responsible for running the Army. Under him is the Assistant Secretary of War, responsible for getting the military supplies for the Army, and for adequate provision for mobilizing materials and industrial organizations essential to wartime needs. It is the blueprint and general outlines laid down by the Assistant Secretary of War over a period of years that form the basis of what are known as War Plans. To facilitate the carrying out of these plans, the President appointed the National Defense Advisory Commission.

THE GENERAL STAFF

The soldier head of the Army is the Chief of Staff. He is responsible for planning, developing and executing the Army's program for national defense. He has to train a million new men, to make an army of them. There are five Divisions under the Chief of Staff, each responsible for a separate function.

The Personnel Division takes care of the fighting men of the Army. It enlists, classifies, assigns, promotes, pays, transfers, retires, and discharges. It is responsible for making the best use of our manpower. The Military Intelligence Division is responsible for furnishing all kinds of military information.

The Operations and Training Division handles the training of men from the time they join till they are ready for duty, and beyond that carries out the vocational and educational work to fit the men for new duties and new techniques.

The Supply Division provides for all equipment, buildings, storage, transportation, and distribution of supplies, care of the sick, and for keeping track of army equipment. The War Plans Division is responsible for the use of our armed forces in war, the location of fortifications, and for the general strategy of defense.

Directly under the Chief of Staff comes the Regular Army, which is the full-time professional part of our land forces. It is always ready, at the drop of a bomb, to go into action as the spearhead of our initial protective force. It is designed to be augmented by the Organized Reserve and National Guard in time of need. Together these forces make up our initial protective force. This force, with the Navy, would act to defend the nation while we prepare additional units needed for subsequent action.

The success of this plan depends on equipment for the initial protective force, and having material ready at once for additional forces. That is why the President has asked for the additional material for 800,000 men over the standing Army of 1,200,000 he requested.

THE FIGHTING ARMS

The arms, the fighting units of our Army, are the Infantry, Cavalry, Field Artillery, Coast Artillery, Air Corps, Corps of Engineers, and the Signal Corps. At the present time, the mechanized forces in the Cavalry, the Infantry, and some Field Artillery have been transferred to a new armored force, just experimentally organized. If the force performs as expected, it may become a new fighting arm, including several armored divisions of the type of the now famous "Panzer" divisions of the German Army. These divisions, comprising about 10 percent of the German Army, are what made the "Blitzkrieg" possible.

The Infantry is the main fighting part of the Army. In a battle the Infantry slugs it out with the enemy. In order to understand what the nation has to do, let us take John Smith, the average recruit, and see what happens to him when he joins the Army, and see what we have to provide him with to make him a soldier.

John joins the Infantry today. He raises his right hand and takes the oath of allegiance, and by doing that, he sets in motion a long integrated chain of activities to supply him with the wherewithal to fight.

CLOTHING AN ARMY

First come clothes. Shoes, socks, pants, underclothing, shirts, hats, helmets, blankets, tent, gas mask, trenching tool, reserve rations, in fact, everything that makes him a self-supporting man of war. 2,000,000 John Smith need two million times as much material and the proper material has to be ready as each John Smith raises his right hand.

In order to be sure that it is ready, the War Department breaks down these requirements into so many yards of wool cloth for pants, so many hides for shoes, so many tons of steel for trenching tools, hob nails, etc. Then the National Defense Advisory Commission goes to work.

It finds the cloth for the uniforms, which will have to be specially woven, but there are more than enough factories ready to do the job and deliver the good better than the men are ready for them. America's shoe suppliers are already at work on the shoes that won't bite the foot that fills them. The National Defense Advisory Commission tells the Army how the orders should be distributed to get the best and fastest results without interfering seriously with other necessary production, without causing transportation delays, and without causing local labor shortages. This job is not only done for today, but for next week and next year, so that the whole process can run smoothly, while we ready two million men for arms.

This means that the Defense Commission must look behind the manufacturer who supplies, let us say the blankets, and see that he is assured of an adequate wool supply, and that the manufacturers of looms have enough replacement parts on hand so that repairs can be made at once, that there are enough dyes to produce regulation olive drab so that there will be no breakdown in the whole long chain.

That is all merely the first step necessary to see that John has the proper equipment to exist as a soldier. But a man can't fight without weapons. And that is the next step—to provide the Army with the tools of its trade.

BLANKET CARE

If your water is hard be sure that your water softener is a reliable one when adding for the laundering of blankets. Perhaps the bindings are in need of extra brushing but use a soft textured brush. If your blanket is quite soiled, use two suds waters having the soap a mild one. Have your wash water and your rinse water mildly warm. Choose a good drying day for the work and hang the blankets evenly and in the shade. Hot sunshine or too cool winds are flatted after the laundering brush it carefully with a soft brush.

KITCHEN KINKS

A lemon heated before squeezing will produce more juice than a cold lemon. If soup gets too salty, a pinch of brown sugar added will take the salty taste away. To improve flavor of coffee let it stand a few minutes after removing from fire and before serving in gas this adds to its taste. Never stir a salad but toss it lightly together and blend the dressing through. Keep celery fresh by cutting off part of the top and putting the bunch top down in water.

One of the smoothest running things about an auto is the salesman's line of chatter.

EYE-STRAIN

Some indications of eye-strain are: Squinting (frowning), straining to see, drowsiness after reading, headaches, nervousness, discomfort of eyes after reading, sensitiveness of eyes to light, wrinkles and crow's feet around eyes, imperfect vision, and have to hold reading matter very close or at arm's length.

We examine eyes and furnish glasses that will correct eye-strain.

MACHINERY for ACTION!

District committees of beer distributors throughout Kentucky have now been organized to augment the law-enforcement program of the Kentucky Brewers and Beer Distributors Committee.

These committees are composed of responsible business men—good citizens of their communities—who realize that in supporting our "clean up or close up" campaign against law-violating retail beer outlets, they are protecting their own interests.

Meanwhile, encouraged by public press and official support, we are investigating the conduct of retail outlets and issuing warnings to the scattered few violators that neither the public nor Kentucky's $20,000,000 legalized beer industry will tolerate the continuance in business of those who do not respect the privileges of their licenses.

YOU can help preserve beer's social and economic benefits to Kentucky by patronizing only respectable, law-abiding establishments.

keep his bearings, and that wasn't quite fair, because he was the judge of the race.
So Marjorie Weaver, Lionel Atwill, Sen Yung, Robert Lowery and Cora Witherspoon took off to practice the art of staying on the little buckeroos. It required only an afternoon and then Director Eugene Forde got what he wanted, a thrilling race that is one of the high spots of an exciting film.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY
Robert Young, Maureen O'Sullivan, Lewis Stone, William Garay and Lynne Carver combine their varied talents in "Sporting Blood." The picture is one of the most thrilling action pictures which has ever been seen here. It is a race track story in a new setting and with an entirely new idea. It has all the thrills of big races being run, with a spectacular fire thrown in for good measure. Yet its basis is that of prejudice against a young man and his battle to overcome it. Young plays a young racing stable owner who is hated by Lewis Stone because Young's father had once run away with Stone's wife. Young battles this prejudice even to falling in love with Lynne Carver, the older of Stone's daughters.

TUESDAY
Don't fail to see "Pigskin Parade" starring Patsy Kelly, Judy Garland, Tony Martin and Betty Grable, which will return to the Gayety for one night's engagement Tuesday. Added attractions will be a sport reel and cartoon.

Our next meeting will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 2, at the home of Mrs. Walter Sprague. Our major project will be rug making.

New members and visitors are always welcome.

PLANS CELEBRATION MUSIC
By James A. McCaleb, Director of Celebration.

Mrs. J. R. Skillman, Louisville, is the only woman member of the State Committee sponsoring the State-wide observance of the 130th Anniversary of Kentucky's First Sunday School, September 22, 1940, in virtually every County Seat of our Commonwealth.

Mrs. Skillman is indeed interested in the work begun by Margaret Brown and is herself an interesting woman. She has distinguished herself in Louisville and Jefferson County in Daily Vacation Bible School work and sponsoring remedial social legislation. She has even appeared before our State Legislature in behalf of the latter.

Aids Louisville Observance
Kindly agreeing to arrange for the music for Louisville's Celebration of this great event, Mrs. Skillman has found that her Vacation Bible School work has greatly helped in this connection. It was her good fortune to become associated with Miss Naomi Graef in the Vacation Bible School work and watched this gifted musician's success in chorus activities with the children. The little ones gladly absorbed the instruction and the finished choral renditions have awakened admiration among many people in Louisville. The religious numbers have especially attracted attention. Miss Naomi Graef has agreed to have a large chorus perform for the Louisville observance!

Music To Be Featured In All County Celebrations

Since music has played such an important part in Sunday School life, it is highly fitting that music should have a featured place in each County Seat Celebration at 2:30 p. m. September 22nd. The various choirs of the County are invited to participate or at least send representatives.

Instrumental numbers will also add attraction and charm. Dr. Redding, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, LaGrange, Oldham County, Kentucky, says they are planning to use their High School Band. Here is a hint to other County celebration committees. Use any instrumentalists such as violinists, cornetists, piano accordions, or any others that may be available.

STORK SHOWER GIVEN
Mr. and Mrs. Warren L. Miller gave a surprise stork shower for their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Warren G. Miller Sunday, Sept. 8th at their lovely country home on Big Bone Road.

Lunch was served on the lawn. There were 35 guests from Cincinnati and Newport. Many beautiful gifts were received.

Middle-class is defined as that part of the cake that holds the top and bottom layers together.

THREE YOUTHS BEING HELD

IN BURLINGTON JAIL AWAITING DECEMBER TERM OF COURT—TWO LOCAL BOYS IN GROUP.

G. W. Reeder, giving an Indiana address, was arrested last week at Rising Sun, Ind., by authorities there, on a charge of forgery, on order of Sheriff F. M. Walton, Boone County.

Reeder, representing himself as a photographer, forged the name of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Black, of Big Bone, to a check in the amount of $31.80. It was stated.

Idlewild Youth Arrested
Chas. Richardson, 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richardson, Burlington-Idlewild Road, was arrested last week on a charge of forgery and lodged in Burlington jail to await action of the December session of Boone Circuit Court. It was stated by authorities that this was only one of several complaints against Richardson in the past several months.

Faces Statutory Charge
James Wolfe, age 22, was arrested last Friday on a statutory charge, following a complaint made by his 18-year-old sister.

The older sister reported the affair to Sheriff Walton and Acting Judge C. L. Cropper, who recommended that the infant sister, age 4 years, be examined by Dr. M. A. Yelton. Upon examination, Dr. Yelton reported that there was indication of an attack.

Wolfe was arrested and brought to Burlington where he was placed in jail to await action of the December court.

No Fishing Permitted Near Government Dams in Ohio River

According to a warning issued this week, it will be a law violation for anyone to fish 1,000 feet above or below any Lockmaster Dams in the Ohio river from either shore or boat.

The warning came after some trouble was reported at several of the Dams along the Ohio. U. S. Dam 38, at McVillie has had no trouble along these lines, according to E. E. Newman.

However, the rule was made effective for all dams in the Ohio River.

GEORGE KEARNS ANSWERS CALL

AT COUNTRY HOME NEAR UNION—WAS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DIRECTOR FOR MANY YEARS.

George M. Kearns, prominently identified with the wholesale coal trade in Cincinnati since 1912 and for 15 years Secretary to the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, died early Friday afternoon at his country home near Union, Boone County, after an illness of two weeks.

Born in Mount Sterling, Ky., 56 years ago, Mr. Kearns came to Cincinnati in 1912 to become Western manager of the Imperial Coal Sales Company. Seven years later he and U. B. Buskirk organized the Kearns Coal Company, with offices in the First National Bank Building, Mr. Kearns being elected President. He continued to serve in that capacity until 1935, when he resigned to form his own company.

Later Mr. Kearns entered the brokerage business as customers' man for Granberry and Company. In 1937 he was with Westheimer and Company. Later he reentered the coal business as manager of the Weiman-Ward Coal Company, in which post he remained until his death.

In 1923 Mr. Kearns was elected a Director of the Chamber of Commerce as the representative of the wholesale coal trade. The following year he became Secretary of the Board of Directors, to which office he was reelected year after year until 1939, when he declined to stand for reelection as Director.

For 10 years he was a member of the chamber of commerce committee, where he did good work. From 1912 until 1934 Mr. Kearns was a member of the official board of the Walnut Hills Baptist Church on Kemper Lane. He was chosen as Chairman of the Rebuilding Committee of the church in 1926 when its walls crumbled as a result of fire. He resigned this work when he purchased a farm at Union, where he became associated with the Union Baptist Church. At the time of his death, Mr. Kearns was Chairman of the Building Committee at Union and had plans for handsome church in that community.

Mr. Kearns served as a member of the Board of Directors of the Cincinnati Coal Exchange for a number of years, but declined election to its Presidency, although urged several times to become a candidate.

Mr. Kearns was a member of the Masonic Lodge in Union and of the Shrine in Cincinnati.

His widow, Mrs. Kathryn Kearns; two sons, William C. Kearns and George M. Kearns, Jr.; one daughter, Miss Margaret Kearns and three grandchildren survive him.

Funeral services were conducted at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Union Baptist Church, with Rev. Beach, pastor officiating. Masonic services were conducted at the residence and followed by the Shrine ring ceremony.

Funeral services were J. W. Wiggins, E. C. McGeehan, J. A. Huey, Harry Riley, Raymond Newman and Austin Gschwind.

R. A. Boys of his Sunday School class carried the flowers.

STEGER ELECTED AS MODERATOR

OF NORTH BEND BAPTIST ASSOCIATION—AT MEETING HELD IN COVINGTON WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY.

Rev. O. J. Steger, pastor of Southside Baptist Church, Covington, was elected Moderator of the North Bend Baptist Association Wednesday of last week at the opening business session of a two-day meeting at Immanuel Baptist Church, Covington.

More than 750 persons, representing 38 churches from Boone and Kenton Counties, attended the sessions Wednesday and Thursday.

Rev. T. C. Steete, pastor of the church, was named Assistant Moderator, and W. T. Perry, Covington, Clerk. Rev. W. A. M. Wood, was elected field missionary representative.

Rev. R. D. Martin, pastor of Erlanger Baptist Church, retiring moderator, opened the morning session with the devotional—"Glorifying God in the Home." New pastors were introduced by Rev. G. B. Bush, pastor of Fort Mitchell Baptist Church. The annual sermon was given by Rev. D. B. Eastep.

"If this country is to continue," Dr. J. B. Lawrence, Secretary of the Home Mission Board, Atlanta, said as the principal speaker Wednesday night, "We must get religion into our social forces."

"The present war in Europe presents an opportunity to us as Southern Baptists. When the European conflict is over and the people are poverty stricken they will come to America for a Christian blood transfusion."

"What kind can we and will we give them?"

There is no salvation for the world in the ideologies of the old world that have been propagated in this country. The only salvation of our social, economic, and our political life."

Aurora Farmer's Fair Set For October 4-5

The thirty-second Annual Farmer's Fair will be held at Aurora on Friday and Saturday, October 4th and 5th.

The fair has grown to be one that draws exhibits, creates keen competition and for this reason has been a valuable asset to the entire surrounding community for its educational value.

In addition to this it has become a free time coming time for former residents, who return home to meet old friend and neighbors. We live so busily these days that we hardly take time to be neighborly.

Visit the Aurora Farmer's Fair and we feel sure that you will enjoy it and want to go again.

Cutting Of Tobacco Later Than Usual

Tobacco is being cut much later this year than usual. More than fifty percent of the crop has not been cut. Some farmers are getting anxious to cut, but want their tobacco to ripen more than it is at the present time. A good seedling of small grain should be made as soon as the tobacco is cut. Fifteen pounds of vetch seed per acre sown with the small grain will increase the value of the small grain pasture next spring and will add more fertility to the soil than any other companion crop that can be sown. The Vetch seed should be inoculated. The A. C. Program pays $1.50 per acre for vetch seeded in this manner.

THE AMERICAN PRESS

AN ANNIVERSARY

Folks in Philadelphia had gone through a mighty hot summer back in 1787 and when September came around many of them felt sorry for the need of calling the nation's Congressmen to a meeting at this time. The issue to be presented might be important but it seemed too bad they couldn't wait until the weather cooled off a bit!

Philadelphia was the seat of the government and it was here that met the Continental Congress on Sept. 17, 1787 to decide a question in the interest of all Americans. They called the bill the Constitution and perhaps did not know that by their act on this September day were laying the cornerstone for the world's most famous democracy. To this Congressional assembly the President, George Washington, submitted, for their consideration "that Constitution which has appeared to us the most advisable." It had been no easy matter to draw up this bill, for numerous states had disagreed to many of its clauses, due to difference in their locations, habits and individual interests. But as the letter offering the Constitution stated, "In all our deliberations on this subject we kept steadily in our view, that which appears to us the greatest interest of every true American, the consolidation of our Union, in which is involved our prosperity, felicity, safety, perhaps our national existence. . . . We hope and believe, that it may promote the lasting welfare of that country so dear to us, and secure her freedom and happiness, is our most ardent wish." And we thank our God for the acceptance by the Congress of 1787 of this Constitution of the United States of America, which does indeed provide its citizens with unalienable rights and privileges.

There will be an increased endeavor on the part of school teachers to give their students a greater appreciation of democracy this school year. There will be a national effort to instill love of country into each pupil in all classrooms over this land. It is going to be a bit of a problem for some teachers to answer the question of "what is democracy?" It goes without saying that during political campaigns you hear much orating on democracy, rights and justice, sins of party leaders and so on. The school child must heed wise words of teachers who are striving to give them a knowledge of the fundamental rights of a democracy of the honest voter and the sincere politician, of the advantages of liberty and equality and forthrightness.

IN THE CASE OF A BEAN

The national organization of soybean growers and industrialists interested in the production of the bean from a commercial standpoint held their annual convention in Michigan last month. About 200 interested people attended.

This organization was founded 20 years ago and since that time many new uses for the soybean have been discovered. There is a decline in the yield this year from the last two years but the acreage planted in this crop has greatly increased. The average yield is 17.5 bushels per acre. The acreage gain is 14 per cent over 1939. The new soybean extraction plant and laboratory in connection with the Ford factory attracts much interest for though the bean is a food the greatest value comes from

AN IMPROVEMENT

Have you noticed the lack of shady movies dealing with too much sex and suggestion? There was enough movement against these types of films that evidently the producers were convinced that John R. Public wants his entertainment clean and unquestionable. Wholesome enough for his children, at least! We can congratulate ourselves in having entertaining movies and educational ones that is fit for the entire family. It doesn't mean that all movies are of this sort or that each picture in its entirety is devoid of suggestive scenes or speeches but as a whole we are treated to better pictures. One young can better be trusted to the hands of the film producers and we are mighty glad of it.

IMPROVED INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

THE VOICE OF WISDOM

LESSON TEXT—Proverbs 4:10-27.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life."—Proverbs 4:23.

What to do and how to do it—these are the vital things which the world needs. The world needs a guide with every condition of life, good and bad, in the revealing light of God's holiness and love. Good advice may have its value, but we also need to know how to put it into practice. Therein is wisdom distinguished from knowledge. A man may have an unbelievably great store of knowledge, and yet be a foolish man because he does not have the wisdom to use it.

Knowing that these notes are used by a great many boys and girls, as well as by their teachers, the writer would suggest that each boy and girl Sunday which can be remembered by everyone who has ever crossed a railroad track. What does the warning sign say? "Stop, Look, and Listen." Then what? If it is clear go ahead. That is just what our lesson tells us. Stop, for someone has a message for you; look, at the two ways of life; listen, to the wise words of counsel. Then go straight ahead in the right way.

I. Stop (vv. 10-13).
Life moves on at a rapid pace. One of the devices of the devil to keep his hold on us is to keep things moving so fast that we never stop to think, or to heed the counsel of others. The wise man has something of importance to say to the young man whom he calls his "son." Let us stop and give heed to his warning, for we are assured that it will mean for us a long and happy life.

Nobody but a fool would hasten past such a "stop" signal, nor trust aside this opportunity for life-giving instruction (v. 13). Here is something far more important than mathematics, literature, or economics. Here is life.

II. Look (vv. 14-19).
There are really only two ways of life. One is the path of wisdom, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day (v. 18), and "the way of the wicked," which is only darkness and stumbling (v. 19). There is no middle way. We must walk in both paths; it is "either-or." Young people should get hold of that fact, for in these days there is a constant attempt to blur colors, making things neither black nor white, but gray; neither good nor bad, but just advisable or inadvisable.

The moral laws of God are not changed; right is still and will eternally be right, just as wrong is and always will be wrong. Wickedness is so wrong that it causes men to spend sleepless nights trying to entrap others (v. 16). But no one need go that way; just do not "enter" that path, "avoid it," and if by chance you have wandered into it, "turn from it" (v. 15). God will help you.

III. Listen (vv. 20-25).
Listening is important business, calling for real attention and application. Especially is that true as one listens to the truth of God. It should be received by an attentive ear (v. 20), kept before one's eyes, and pondered in the heart (v. 21). Such listening is sure to bring results, and we find them enumerated in verses 22 to 25.

Life is assured to those who heed the words of God's messenger; not just a bare existence, but a healthy life (v. 22). God's spiritual children are not (or at least should not be) invalids or weaklings.

Keeping the heart right (v. 23) keeps the whole life right, and the way to be sure that the heart is right is to fill it with God's Word (v. 21). Then see how the whole life responds; the lips speak so forward (v. 21, v. 24) or preverse words, and the eyes look straight ahead along the shining path of the just.

Now that we have stopped to give attention to the Lord's word through His messenger, and looked carefully at the two ways of life, and listened to words of wisdom and guidance, what comes next? Do we stand idly by and commend ourselves for our wisdom, or do we sit down and take our ease? No. Being assured that the way is clear, we

IV. Go ahead (vv. 26, 27).
God wants His people to move on to greater glory and usefulness. At the Red Sea, God told Moses, "Speak unto the children of Israel that they go forward."

"Move forward" valiant men and strong. Have prayed and labored long: The time has come for you to rise. For he that slumbers shall be slain. Thoughtful, vigilant, lest he be led into a bypath on the right or left, turning his feet away from every evil path, the child of God goes forward, and as he goes the road becomes brighter and brighter with the glory of the presence of the Lord, shining more and more until that perfect day when he shall find himself at the end of his journey and at home forevermore in the Father's house.

Another kind of propaganda is a fellow's protest over the short dresses the women folks wear.

What has happened to the "human fluter" and "flagpole sitters" of yesterday?

SERVICE CHARGES

Should the banks of Boone County agree upon some uniform service charges on accounts, the customer may rest assured of a fair and equitable plan to all concerned.

A dormant account regardless of size would not be subject to a service charge for any month if no checks were drawn on the account.

The proposed plan is not to charge a customer for taking care of his money but only for the cost to the bank according to the activity of the account. No activity, no cost.

Northern Kentucky Food Dealers Sponsor Pure Food Exposition

Larry Hiltz, Sylvester Wagner, Larry Baumbach and Ben Kees, the executive committee heads of the Northern Kentucky Food Show which is being put on by the Northern Kentucky Independent Grocers Ass'n., at Covington Tobacco Warehouse in Covington, October 6th to 13th, announced today that through James D. Shone, Dewey Long and Dick Ruppert, WSAI is presenting a gala hour and a half entertainment on the opening night, October 6th. The entertainment that night will range from hillbilly to grand opera and everything from sweet to swing from mountain rhythm to romantic melodies, will be included in this hour and a half program to be presented on stage of the Kenton County Tobacco Warehouse. This show will not be broadcast, and those who wish to see the radio stars in person, must be in the spacious hall where 4000 seats will be available that night.

Running from eight to ten, the show will present such names as Paul Arnold, the concert baritone; Sylvia Rhodes, popular ballad singer; Lazy Jim Day, the Girls of the Golden West, Donnie Hall and the Buccaneers, all of Boone County; Jamboree fame; Hugh Cross and his Pals, the original mountain rhythm and rollicking-humorous crowd will furnish the hillbilly music. But just to mention the fact that Burt Farber and his whole orchestra of ten men, all of them coming from WSAI, where they have presented network music, gives you an idea of the quality of the all-around show to be presented that night.

The show will go on around eight at night and be over by ten. Everyone in the area of Northern Kentucky and greater Cincinnati is cordially invited to come to this big WSAI jamboree.

Following the opening Monday night, Burt Farber and his orchestra will be presented every night, Monday through the following Sunday, October 13th, along with the star-studded galaxy of outstanding entertainment artists. Benny Kay, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee of the Northern Kentucky Independent Grocers Assn. Food Show, has not announced the complete schedule of stars who are to appear, but he is in touch with booking agents in Chicago and New York to insure that the rest of the week will be on the same level with the first opening night when the entire bill is presented by Cincinnati's own station.

Besides the stage shows mentioned, there will be a large number of radio programs broadcast from the Northern Kentucky Pure Food Show.

On Sunday, October 6th, the first day of the show, there will be held a "talent search." This talent search will present an amateur contest being conducted by WSAI to determine who in the metropolitan area of our city has the appeal necessary for a radio career. Not only are children and young men and women in their teen age invited to participate in this "talent search," but any one, regardless of age or sex, is cordially invited to attend the pre-broadcast preliminaries to be conducted Sunday morning in the Food Show Auditorium at the Kenton County Tobacco Warehouse starting at nine o'clock. From those appearing that morning, a number will be selected for the broadcast and these will be given an opportunity to broadcast their talents in the afternoon program over WSAI 2:30 to 3:00 p. m. The following Sunday on October 13th, the same procedure will be followed. While there is no assurance that these broadcasts will lead to permanent radio careers, the talent search is conducted to enable the person with talent in this area to make a step forward which is likely to lead to glorious things.

On every day of the week, Monday through Saturday, from twelve to twelve-fifteen WSAI's "Grocers Hits and Encores" program will be broadcast from the WSAI booth in the Food Show. From 1 to 1:15 Monday thru Saturday, Dick Bray will be in person at the Food Show and will interview the crowd gathered there. From 1:30 to 2:00 Marsha Wheeler is presenting her "Northern Kentucky Cooking School Program" not only for the ladies who will gather there for the school, but for all her listeners. The sponsors of the Food Show and on the radio have donated hundreds of prizes for the crowd of women who gather. Every day ladies will go home with coupons or regular sized packages of items, which, if they would have bought them would run into considerable sums of money.

From 2 to 5:15 the ladies will have an opportunity to play Free Bingo and visit the Food Show booths where an amazing variety of fine food items are being displayed.

Foot Health In Relation To Mental Health

N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLES FOOT COMFORT
5th and Madison Covington

When you suffer from flat feet, your muscular system is taxed and irritates the nerves of the foot, simultaneously affecting the entire delicate nervous system, causing it to function at less than normal capacity. The result of this whole action is a generalized irritability and unrest in the individual.

Ordinarily the body can overcome the irritations of its various sick parts, and is capable of removing the effects of the disease. The disturbances of the foot, however, are often subject to influences which the body has great difficulty in combating.

The foot according to dictates of society should be housed in a protective leather or cloth covering, which must meet the aesthetic tastes of the prevailing fashion. Thus, if the fashion dictates that, long thin shoes be worn, thousands of individuals with short wide feet will attempt to crowd them into long, thin, shoes, and visa-versa.

The vagaries of fashion may thus make you comfortable one season and uncomfortable another. However, when we consider the permanent effects of this change of style, we realize that the foot, which has a fairly permanent shape, has to respond like an elastic band. The firm wrought in one season does not disappear the next, but may rather be so deformed as to require a significant defect as for example the BUNION.

Once this defect is formed the foot is placed daily in what may be considered a vice or mold and the normal metabolism or growth activity of the foot is interfered with. The attempt of the body to overcome the irritation are frustrated and the physical ailment grows and becomes more pernicious. The mental effects of this constant irritant are such as to set up a continual hypersensitiveness in all behavior.—Adv.

EWBANKS SHEEP TAKES HONORS

AT STATE FAIR BY WINNING GRAND CHAMPIONSHIP—OTHER PRIZES WON IN 4-H SHOW.

Mary K. Ewbanks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ryle Ewbanks, of Warsaw brought home another grand champion and a big share of the rest of the prizes offered in the 4-H Club sheep show at the Kentucky State Fair. At the same time she gave fair warning of future headaches for older exhibitors by scoring a major victory in the Southdown class open to all Kentucky breeders. Mary K. has been very successful in recent years, displaying her thoroughbred sheep at the various fairs, and the ribbons won by her Southdowns are numerous. Guarding against the not far distant time when she will have to give up plugging 4-H boys, Mary is taking the lead in tutoring two younger sisters, Jean 13, and Eloise 12, in the art of sheep showmanship. Jean and Eloise weren't as successful as Mary, who finished with a half-dozen firsts, seven seconds and two third prizes including her victories in the senior show. Eloise won two firsts and Jean captured four seconds in the 4-H show. Mary started raising sheep ten years ago when her grandfather gave her a lamb. She came away from her first show that year with a blue ribbon. Today she has thirty breeding ewes in her flock. The other sisters have about a dozen each. "They're successful because they work hard," said their father. "They will start immediately preparing for next year's show, instead of waiting like a lot of boys until a month before the fair. They do all the work of caring for their flocks and they like it. Mary just lives for sheep," he added.

Experience in good family living with mutual responsibility at minimum cost is being gained by two former Boone County 4-H club girls. Katherine Sebree of Florence and Virginia Reimer of Hebron have returned to Shelby House at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, for the fall school term. This 4-H Club cooperative house makes it possible every year for approximately 20 young women to plan how to run their own home, maintaining high standards but cutting expenses to a low figure. They do their own meal planning, cooking, laundry and housework. Sometimes they bring food from home, which is credited to their bill at current market rates. And they maintain a small home library, take a few magazines and occasionally entertain visitors for luncheon or dinner—with every member of the household responsible for herself and for the whole program.

In this way, these former top-notch 4-H Club members get valuable practical experience in homemaking and in community living, at the same time that they maintain a full scholastic schedule.

They elect a house president, who assumes leadership in planning the year's program, assigns the members of the house to their various duties, looks after any who are ill (seeing that they get proper medical attention), arranges for guests, etc. Duties are rotated so that everyone gets experience in several types of household work. A faculty committee has general charge of the house.

You can make your own "prepared" dust cloths in your own home. Your tablespoon of furniture polish into a fruit jar. Shake jar so sides are coated with the polish. Put a yard of clean cheesecloth in the jar and let it stay there for a day. Your cloth will be as good as any of those you might buy in a store. When soiled, wash and put through the same process again.

Twenty-three T. V. A. phosphate demonstrators ordered 83,000 lbs. of T. V. A. phosphate the past week to be used on demonstrations this fall and next spring, according to H. B. Drake, Assistant County Agent.

There are twenty-nine such demonstrations in Boone County. These men have been receiving phosphate since 1936 for the purpose of demonstrating what results may be obtained from the use of phosphate in their section of the county. Most of the fields are limed at the same time they are phosphate thus giving a check on each of these important fertilizing elements.

Three of the demonstrators will complete the coverage of their farms with this application, Drake said. These operators report remarkable increase in yields of hay and pasture crops due to the application of these materials.

The following men are receiving phosphate this year:

AT MEETING OF BOONE COUNTY
FISH AND GAME PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION HELD AT OHIO VALLEY BEAGLE CLUB.

Approximately 100 persons attended the open meeting of the Boone County Fish and Game Protective Association held at the Ohio Valley Beagle Club House Thursday night of last week.

"Boss" Johnson, radio commentator and sportsman of Aurora, Ind., was the principal speaker at this meeting and delivered an address that was interesting throughout. Mr. Johnson recalled many hours of pleasure hunting in Boone County, and spoke of many outdoorsmen with whom he had enjoyed the sport of fox hunting.

Johnson praised the local club for the splendid work being carried out and stated that this club should boast a membership of at least five hundred. "Conservation," said Johnson, "means preserving the game we have, and helping toward replenishing our fields and streams with game and fish."

Twenty-five dollars in merchandise was awarded lucky ticket holders at the meeting. The prizes offered were donated the club by various businessmen throughout northern Kentucky.

Fifteen new members were added to the list of members, and much interest was shown in the program of the sportsmen.

At this meeting a letter was read which was received by the club from the secretary of the Y. M. C. A., stating that the club would be allowed to use Camp Ernst as a meeting place.

The Boone County Fish and Game Protective Association plan to restock Gunpowder with small mouth bass and to develop the grounds at Camp Ernst into a game farm which will be protected throughout the year.

Development of this project does not mean that fishermen will not be allowed to use the waters of Gunpowder in this area, but that the creek will be protected against illegal fishing.

WIDER HIGHWAY URGED BY GROUP

FROM KENTUCKY AT MEETING OF RETAIL MERCHANTS ASSO-CIATION, CHAMBER OF COM-MERCE AND AUTO CLUB.

Widening of the Dixie Highway (U. S. 25) to four lanes from Cincinnati to the Tennessee border was urged Wednesday of last week by speakers at the Hotel Sinton, when a motorecade from South-eastern and Central Kentucky arrived in Cincinnati to celebrate the resurfacing of the link from near Georgetown to Corinth.

The Kentuckians who began their trek at Lexington, were guests of the Retail Merchants Association, the Chamber of Commerce, and the Cincinnati Automobile Association at a luncheon and cocktail party.

In the party were representatives of Lexington, Richmond, Corbin, London, Williamsport, Williamsburg, Berea, Mount Vernon, Pineville, Barbourville, Walton, Frankfort, Newport, and Covington, the largest delegation being from London. It was headed by Dr. O. D. Brock, Mayor, and Russell Dyche, newspaper editor who is also owner of the town waterworks. This group embraced most of the members of the London Kiwanis Club, which has taken an active part in highway development plans.

Harvey H. Miller, First Vice President of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce and Chairman of the Reception Committee, gave the address of welcome, introducing Warner Sayers, Lexington, Vice President of the Kentucky U. S. Highway 25 Improvement Association and Chairman of the motorecade, who then took charge of the meeting.

Robert B. Mills, First Vice President of the Cincinnati Automobile Club and President of the Dixie Highway Association, pinch-hit for Joseph B. Gardner, President of the Automobile Club, giving the welcome for that organization. Mills recalled the fine work done in promoting tourist traffic to Kentucky and Tennessee by the late J. Stacey Hill, for many years President and organizer of the Dixie Highway Association, and whose son, Webb Hill, was a member of the Reception Committee.

Speaking for the Retail Merchants Association, J. D. Mullally, its President, invited the visitors to visit the department stores and other attractions of Cincinnati and expressed the hope that the resurfacing of the highway from Georgetown to Corinth, the worst stretch on the northern division, would aid numbers of Southerners to attend the World Series games at Crosley Field in October.

John Jett, of Williamstown, Representative from Boone and Grant and President of the Highway Improvement Association, credited the Courier Press Club of Cincinnati with having obtained the resurfacing when it invited Governor Keen Johnson of Kentucky and Lyter Donaldson, State Highway Commissioner, to Cincinnati several weeks ago. Both were driven over the Georgetown to Corinth stretch before it was improved.

"One trip over that stretch was sufficient to show Governor Johnson that the improvement ought to be made and it was made at once," said Jett.

"Now I am hopeful that the Improvement Association may be able to induce Governor Johnson and Commission Donaldson to get behind a four-lane highway project from Cincinnati to the Tennessee line, and get it fixed as quickly as possible, as a matter of national defense."

This sentiment was heartily endorsed by Reed Wilson, former Mayor of Lexington, who stated that it was important that the four-lane highway be constructed as speedily as possible, as a matter of national defense.

DRAFTS, ATTENTION!

On the last page of this issue of The Recorder will be found an interesting announcement, bearing the heading, "Notice to Men Subject to Conscription."

Utopians Conduct Good Project Work

Good project work was seen on the Annual Utopia Club project tour held last Wednesday, September 18th, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Due to the large number of members, only projects in Hebron, Florence, Beaver and Union communities were visited.

Utopia projects were found to be on a basis similar to those of 4-H members except on a much larger scale. Members were found with ten-acre corn projects, acre and a half and two-acre tobacco projects, acre or larger small fruit projects, milk production dairy projects, poultry projects, 65 to 80 quart canning projects, landscaping and home beautification work. The work was of high quality and worth while.

The members enjoyed a picnic supper, business meeting and recreational program at the Ohio Valley Beagle Club House following the tour.

The next meeting of the club will be held October 17th at Burlington. Officers for the 1941 year will be elected. The nominating committee is composed of Lucian Bradford, Jane Scott and Elva Akin.

HIGH YIELD IS OBTAINED

THROUGH USE OF LIMESTONE AND PHOSPHATE TESTS CON-DUCTED IN COOPERATION WITH COUNTY PROJECT.

Limestone and phosphate gave large increased yields on the farm of John Worthing this year, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The tests were conducted in cooperation with the county soils demonstration project work.

A field treated last year with limestone and phosphate and seeded to timothy, blue grass, red clover and korean lespedeza yielded two and a half tons of hay per acre. Those plots treated with limestone alone and phosphate alone yielded approximately two tons of hay per acre, while the plots not treated yielded less than one fourth ton of 500 pounds per acre.

The low yield on the untreated plot was due both to poor stands of grasses and clovers and to poor growth. Good stands were secured on the treated plots.

Farmers are overlooking their greatest opportunity when they do not use a maximum of limestone and phosphate in preparing their soils for better stands and more luxuriant growth of grass and clover crops. The residue of these fertilizers remains to give increased cultivated crop yields when the land is later plowed.

The cheapest source of phosphate is through the Agricultural Conservation Program. The cheapest source of agricultural limestone is in most instances for the farmer to pile the rock on his farm and have a portable pulverizer to crush them. Many farmers are hiring trucks to haul the rock to their farms at a reasonable cost.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 24—The Communist party, temporarily at least, had lost its right today to place its party presidential electors and senatorial candidate on Kentucky's November election ballots.

In a ruling handed down by Franklin Circuit Judge W. B. Ardery, R. Lee Murphy, Lexington, attorney, was granted a writ temporary restraining from placing the candidates on the ballots.

Arguments on a permanent injunction were set for Friday, until which time the temporary order will be in force.

The petition on which the order was granted was filed on behalf of 142 persons, who claimed their names on the Communist nomi-

BOONE COURT.

Truck owners were warned this week not to exceed the 18,000-pound load limit for all trucks passing through Kentucky, according to Charles W. Riley, County Attorney.

Mr. Riley stated that during the past two weeks approximately thirty drivers have been cited to the Boone County court charged with over weight. At the present time there are eighteen or twenty cases pending in the local court against the Whitney Trucking Co., which will be heard October 5th.

Patrolmen have been instructed to stop all trucks that appear to be overloaded and to weigh same. If the truck is found to be carrying an excess of 18,000 pounds the drivers are cited to appear before the court in the county in which the arrest is made.

Resurfacing of the Dixie Highway between Richmond, Boone County and Georgetown, has recently been completed, and officials state that if trucks are allowed to travel this road with excessive loads, the highway will again be damaged, which must be avoided, the officials said.

SAYS HYBRID CORN

WITHSTOOD DROUGHT

County Agent John R. Killinger says that Lincoln county farmers were impressed by "the extra vigor and sturdiness of hybrid corn during August. A period of drought followed by heavy rain and wind gave definite proof to hybrid growers that their corn unquestionably had a much superior root system, since it failed to yellow during the drought, and it remained upright during the rain and wind while other corn was blown down." Parents of the 56 4-H club members growing hybrid corn had perfect demonstrations of the extra hardiness of hybrid corn, Mr. Killinger adds.

10,000 Largemouth

Bass Secured From

U. S. Hatchery

Frankfort, Ky.—Approximately 10,000 fingerling largemouth black bass were secured from the U. S. Federal Fish Hatchery at Rochester, Indiana, Tuesday, September 10, and brought back to this state by a Kentucky Division of Game and Fish truck, according to an announcement today by Major James Brown, Director of the Kentucky Division of Game and Fish.

"These 10,000 fingerling (2 to 4 inches in length) bass," Major Brown stated, "will be brought back to Kentucky and placed in rearing pools where they will be fed and cared for until the latter part of October, thereby assuring additional growth of the fish. Around the first of November these fish, along with thousands of native fingerlings which we are now holding in rearing pools, will be released in the public waters of this state as part of our restocking program to improve the fishing waters of Kentucky."

Maybe the reason some men won't attend church is because they can't forget they were married in one.

Some folks will give you a welcome hand if they are sure you will give them the helping hand later on.

CLEARING OF LAND

DOUBLES ITS VALUE

Clearing land in Grant County, Kentucky, of bushes, trees and stone increased its value an average of $20.20 an acre, according to accounts kept by 10 farmers in cooperation with the county agent's office. The average value before clearing was $20.30 an acre, and after clearing, $40.50.

The cost of clearing ranged from $3.20 to $27 an acre, with the average of $13.10. In some instances, enough fenceposts, cord wood and limestone were obtained to pay this cost.

Three tracts were practically useless before clearing, the owners stating that taxes on them had become a burden, according to Richard M. Sandefur, assistant county agent.

Announcing the big

NEW FORD 1941 FORD

In some years, some cars take a big jump ahead. The Ford does that for 1941.

It has jumped ahead in size. It's the biggest Ford we've ever built, inside and out. It's wider. It has a longer wheelbase. Its seating room is wider by as much as 7 inches. It has new wide doors and semi-concealed running boards.

You'll notice also, a new beauty, achieved by a skilful blending of mass with longer flowing lines. Larger windshield and windows give better vision all around.

One of its biggest advantages is the new soft ride.

New, slower-action springs give a slow, gentle, gliding movement. A newly designed stabilizer helps absorb road shocks, and maintains balance on sharp curves and in cross winds.

More rapid acceleration to match its familiar speed and power makes this new Ford an even livelier car to drive.

These are only a few of this new car's outstanding features. It represents all the rich experience gained in building more than 28 million motor cars.

Any Ford dealer can give you many good reasons for making this your 1941 car.

Get the Facts and You'll Get a Ford!

Who Owns This Bank?

You probably know the answer, yet it's one of those simple, obvious facts that are often lost sight of. The stockholders who own this bank are your neighbors and our average citizens who take part in the home, social and business life of this community.

They invested their money in our capital stock because they had faith in the community's future and in the progressive nature of their fellow citizens. They invested their money because they were sure they would get their money back with a profit.

This confidence on the part of our stockholders who in turn enjoy the confidence and respect of many others, is a good-will-building force which we value highly.

Gaiety Theater News

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY (Double Feature)

Broadway's cleverest jewel thief meet their match when a pretty queen of diamonds crosses them up in "Girl in 313," the 20th Century-Fox film which is coming to the Gaiety, tonight Friday.

Florence Rice, attractive daughter of the famed sports authority Grantland Rice, plays the difficult role as the lovely purloiner of jewels. She has the syndicated crooks trapped when love walks in and upsets her equilibrium.

Featured as the master jewel thief, Kent Taylor gives what is said to be his best performance to date. He attempts to outwit the lovely Florence, but instead he succumbs to her charms.

Second of Double Bill
The old proverb that one good turn deserves another is put into practice with thrilling results in RKO Radio's "The Saint Takes Over," latest film in the popular series based on the exploits of Simon Templar, modern Robin Hood character created by Leslie Charteris.

George Sanders again plays the title role as the dashing but deadly killer who was on crime overlord. Wendy Barrie has the romantic lead as a girl of mystery, while Jonathan Hale plays his favorite role as Police Inspector Fernack.

When Fernack is framed by a gang of race track crooks and is suspended from duty pending trial for supposedly accepting bribe money, The Saint decides to come to his assistance and pay off an old debt.

SATURDAY

A galaxy of the screen's most able players appear in support of Maureen O'Hara, new Irish discovery, in "A Bill of Divorcement," a powerful drama of sacrifice.

Portraying the principal roles are Adolphe Menjou as a shell-shocked husband, Fay Bainter as his frustrated wife, Herbert Marshall as the latter's suitor, Dame May Whitty, Patrick Knowles, C. Aubrey Smith and Ernest Cossart.

Miss O'Hara is cast as the daughter whose sudden realization that there is a streak of talented mentality in her family brings about a crisis in her life.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Again moviegoers will see that singing cowboy, Gene Autry in one of his best pictures "Caucasian Captivity," which will be shown at the Gaiety Sunday and Monday.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

One of the finest combinations of talent ever assembled for one picture makes Darryl F. Zanuck's Technicolor production of "Maryland" an entertainment event to which all movie-goers are looking forward. This picture comes to the Gaiety Tuesday and Wednesday.

To Henry King, director of some of the screen's greatest hits, went the important task of megaphoning Maryland. Under his watchful eye went the talents of three leading members of the cast who have won "Oscars." In addition, five members of the production staff were honored and so it is not surprising that advance reports have hailed the picture as being even greater than "Kentucky."

Miss Elizabeth Dorsey

Funeral services for Miss Elizabeth Dorsey, of Florence, were held at the Talarferro funeral home, Erlanger, at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday with Requiem High Mass at St. Paul Church, Florence, at 9:00 a. m. She was 80.

SAVE MONEY BY BUILDING A BASE HOUSE

Every home-building project means a repetition of the age-old battle between the desire for a large commodious home and the budget. Many people are inclined to think of a complete small home as a definitely fixed unit. This is not necessarily true. A home, especially a lumber-built home, may be so planned in the beginning that numerous additions, added at different times, will still produce a harmonious and efficient whole. . . . a house which would never be identified as one which had been added to.

One of the most attractive features of many early Colonial homes now being used as patterns for new construction is a succession of wings which produce a long house. Few people realize that these wings were not a part of the original structure, but were accumulated over a period of years. Likewise, few people know that the most famous residence in America, Mount Vernon, is an "added-to" house. On two different occasions George Washington built wings on each end of the structure, but did the work so well that nobody today realizes that the entire house was not built in 1756.

If your building budget is small build a complete small home as the first unit of the larger, more attractive house, which is your ultimate ideal.

With good construction, windows are easily converted into doors and harmonious additions are least expensive. Be sure, however, that you can see in your original plans the physical possibilities for each step in the enlargement of the house.

Be sure that your lot provides enough space to accomplish the additions without violating building restriction lines. Be sure that your contemplated future additions do not block off needed light in some existing room.

A good house will last a lifetime. It is uneconomical to discard a location you like and lose the benefit of development work done on shrubs, yard and trees because the house is too small. Money is often lost in the exchange of a small house, and nine times out of ten the cost of disposing of an old house and the construction of a new, larger one will far exceed the cost of well planned additions to the old one. Grading, seeding, shrubbery and yard development account for a substantial proportion of the cost of a new house. Additions to an old house provide more space without duplicating this operation.

If the family becomes too numerous for the accommodations offered by the old automobile you can trade it in and get a new and large one. Houses are not so easily traded in—but they can be easily adjusted to fit the requirements of a growing family or family with an increasing income.

It is well to remember when you plan your new home that housing requirements will probably change over the years. Make provision in your plans so that your house can be altered to suit future needs.

LOCAL YOUTHS OFFERED TRAINING IN ARMY FLYING CADET SCHOOL

How young men of Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Indiana may earn a commission by serving their country at a salary of $245 monthly as an officer instead of receiving a private's $25 was disclosed today by W. H. Cureton, Lt. Col. F. A.

"This opportunity is offered those who enroll now in the Army Flying Cadet training school. Young men who apply for this training have nothing to lose and everything to gain. The opportunity might not be offered later," he added.

"While college training is desirable, it is not absolutely necessary. Neither is flying experience.

"If you are an unmarried citizen between the ages of 20 and 27 years old and can pass certain mental and physical examination, you are eligible for this training in the United States Army Air Corps. If you have had two or more years in college you are exempt from the mental examinations.

"Flying cadets receive $75 a month plus board, clothing and quarters during the 35 weeks they are in training. Upon receiving their commissions, the graduates draw a regular Second Lieutenant's pay which is $245 monthly.

"Young men interested in applying for this training may communicate with any Army recruiting office.

"After tentative acceptance, the candidates will be directed to a board of examiners. These boards now are permanently located at Fort Knox, Kentucky, at Patterson Field, Dayton, Ohio, and at Fort Hayes, Columbus, Ohio. Traveling boards will visit the principal cities in the four states of this Army Area," W. H. Cureton, Lt. Col. F. A. said.

GANIZATION.

Carroll, State chairman for women and Judge Ardery announced the appointment of Mrs. Virginia Goodridge of Florence as County chairman for the women of Boone County.

Upon being contacted Mrs. Goodridge and Mr. Yelton issued a joint statement to the effect that they have not had sufficient time to appoint the precinct worker, but that these appointments would soon be made, and that every effort would be made between now and November 5th for Boone County to give President Roosevelt and the entire Democratic ticket a greater majority than was given in the November election of 1936.

Both Mrs. Goodridge and Mr. Yelton expressed the sincere hope that they would receive the whole hearted cooperation of every Democrat in Boone County.

DAIRY ASS'N PLAN NEW YEAR

TWENTY-FIVE DAIRYMEN SERVED DURING PAST YEAR IN BOONE, KENTON CAMPBELL AND GRANT.

The Northern Kentucky Dairy Herd Improvement Association plans for a new testing year starting November 1st, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The Association of the Dairy Department, College of Agriculture, to work one day each month for each member of the Association. The Tester on this day identifies each cow in the herd, weighs her milk night and morning, takes samples for butterfat tests, calculates feed costs, total milk production, butterfat production, value of product, profit or loss per individual cow and breeding records. The tester further is able to advise the membership on better feeding, improved breeding and additional ways and means of securing a greater profit from the herd. The total cost to the members is $3.33 per month or $40.00 per year paid in four quarterly payments of $10.00 each.

The members through the Association service are able to know records by the month and for the year on each individual cow in the herd and for the herd as a whole. They are able to better understand their feeding and production problems and to improve both from a production and breeding standpoint.

The D. H. I. A. plan has proven the only practical and workable plan for securing complete records on the herd. Dairymen who are interested in securing membership in the Association should contact the County Agent's office at an early date. A limited number of new memberships will be available.

Old Burlington Building Undergoing Extensive Repairs

Library Hall, located on north Jefferson Street just north of Smith's Grocery is undergoing some much needed repairs under the supervision of A. B. Renaker, with Easton and Maurer doing the work.

The brick walls are being pointed up, cornish repaired, window glass replaced, roof and building being painted.

This building has been an eyesore for some time due to its neglected condition and the citizens condition and the citizens of Burlington are pleased to see these repairs being made from funds in an account of The Boone Library Association. This building formerly was a Presbyterian Church Building and about 30 years ago it was deeded to the Boone Library Association where many good home talent plays were given to large crowds which arrived on horseback in buggies and road wagons to witness such plays as "Timothy Delano's Courtship," "Corner Store," "Uncle Josh," "Woman's Honor," "Out in the Streets," "Dust of the Earth," "Noble Outcast" and many others.

These plays were repeated as many as three times in one week to accommodate the crowds.

The players in those days were Mrs. Nettie Hughes, Mrs. Nannie Riddell, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Renaker, Dr. F. L. Peddicord, Everett L. Caywood, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Carter, L. A. Conner, Jack Edging, Miss Ruth Kelly, Miss Bess Hall, Edgar Rudge, C. C. Roberts and daughter, Miss Mary, Mrs. Kirby Tanner, Miss Frances Riddell, and many others whom we are unable to recall at this time. The orchestra was composed of L. A. Conner, C. A. Fowler and Kirby Tanner.

The dressing rooms were so small that the players had to dress and make up at the neighbors' home and then climb in the window by way of a step ladder back of the curtain on the stage.

The footlights were kerosene lamps as well as other lights in the building, being before the day of electric current in Burlington.

Mrs. Nettie Hughes usually coached these plays and one interested spectator at practice every night for several weeks prior to presenting these plays was Dr. E. W. Duncan, and who always came the night of the play and enjoyed it as much that night as if he had never witnessed the many nights of practice.

Library Hall was the only place available in those days to have plays and took its name from the fact that a Library was promoted as the building from the proceeds of the plays given.

BURLINGTON LEADS LEAGUE

IN STANDING OF ELIMINATION SERIES—BIG BONE GOES OUT AFTER BEING DEFEATED BY HEBRON SATURDAY.

Lack of control by D. Deck cost Petersburg their first defeat in the Boone County baseball elimination series Saturday afternoon at the Burlington park. The score was 7 to 3 in favor of the locals.

Deck tolled the first six innings and allowed only two hits, but seven free passes, an error and one of these hits, a base-clearing two-bagger was the youngsters' downfall. Deck was relieved by Bill Bradburn, Petersburg manager, who gave up four hits and one run in the final three frames.

Stewart Ryle, Burlington pitcher, allowed seven hits and was air-tight in every inning except the fourth when Petersburg pushed across the three tallies.

The victory was Burlington's third consecutive and leaves them undefeated in the series.

Big Bone was eliminated from the series when Hebron handed them their second defeat.

REGISTRATION DATE SET OCT. 16

ELECTION OFFICERS WILL BE ASKED TO CONDUCT WORK IN VARIOUS PRECINCTS—COUNTY CLERKS IN CHARGE.

Governor Keen Johnson notified County Clerk last week that in accordance with President Roosevelt's request county election officers would be called upon to register all men within the draft age on October 16th.

The letter placed upon the clerks "the important responsibility of supervising" the registration of all those between 21 and 35. It asked the clerks to request officers of each election precinct to serve, and stated that registration would be carried out at the regular polling precincts.

The County Clerks were notified that in each precinct at least three persons—one "chief registrar" and two other registrars—must be available. The registrations officers will be asked to serve without pay and the County Clerks were asked to determine whether the premises customarily used for polling places could be made available without charge.

The letter added that if the Clerks could not obtain sufficient of the regular precinct officials to serve they designate additional registrars. He suggested they "contact the local civic clubs, American Legion Posts, school teachers, and any other sources to secure sufficient volunteer help to complete the registration promptly."

Clerks of the various election precincts will be asked to serve as chief registrar in their respective precinct and the clerk will select two assistants who will aid in the registration, according to C. D. Benson, Boone County Clerk.

Registration cards must be printed in legible hand. Cards of instructions will be posted in each voting precinct and a copy will be delivered to each chief registrar.

Each precinct clerk will be asked to furnish his own supplies, such as pen, ink, blotter, etc.

Mr. Benson requested each Clerk to contact him in regard to registration plans not later than October 10th.

SHEEP ASS'N. URGES SIGN-UP

FOR PROTECTION AGAINST DOG LOSSES—ONE-THIRD OF ALL SHEEP IN COUNTY SIGNED UP LAST YEAR.

The Boone County Sheep Protection Association urges all sheep growers to cooperate in the County Association for protection against losses from dogs. The Association the past year serviced 100 dog owners owning more than 500 adult sheep or over one-third of all sheep in the County.

The services of the organization are offered to all sheep raisers on the payment of ten cents per head on adult grade sheep and 20 cents per head on adult registered sheep. Lambs produced from insured ewes are insured free until December 31, provided the insurance on adult sheep remains in force. An additional membership fee of $1.00 is charged for new members signing up for the first time.

The organization is a non-profit cooperative mutual association. The new year started September 1st and closes next August 30th. The cost is the same whether one signs up for the full 12 months or waits until the last month. All losses to members during the past two years have been paid in full and there has been a reserve of over $500.00 set aside for future losses.

Officers and directors of the Association are prepared to issue membership insurance. The officers of the association are: President, H. E. White; vice president, J. G. Pennington; secretary-treasurer, J. W. Conby; directors, Burlington-Florence, L. H. Congleton; Hebron-Constance, Chas. B. Beall; Grant-Petersburg, Chas. W. White; Hamilton-Carlton, Frank Allen; Walton-Verona, Walter Johnson; and Union-Beaver, Russell Sparks.

Act now! Receive full 12 months protection for the same cost. Losses from dogs is the most discouraging problem in sheep production. Insure and feel safe.

OF INTEREST TO YOU

There is a bit more of earnest praying being done these days than for some years past. It seems to be one of our human failings that as long as life flows smoothly we are so busy enjoying it we overlook the grace of being grateful. Let a squall hit our boat and turn to prayer and religious thought as a help in time of great need. So today they stress unified prayer through the nation, not alone for our own country but for all mankind. You see a storm has made the boat rock! A heart that is really desirous of guidance, peace relief from suffering for others, does not have to be urged to pray. It has never stopped praying. Perhaps it would be well for us to bring out the old family bibles and install them in a place on the living-room table. Let's dust off the book and see if a lot of the old truths, tried and true, won't help in this crisis.

In order to stimulate a little extra interest in this bible business, we thought it might be worth while to have a local exhibition of bibles to be found in our community. There are many really old bibles owned by folks in Boone County that would be of interest in their age, weight, binding, language, type of printing, condition of paper and so on. Let's have an unearthing and find some of the old prayer books and bibles that have been handed down from generation to generation. We are giving a year's subscription of this paper to the family owning the oldest bible and we know we are in for some mighty interesting facts of books to be found here. Of course you are interested!

may be our personal feeling in Boone County, regarding divorce, we are certain that there should be a more uniform set of laws and more joint action between all states before we can elevate our marriage laws and divorce suits.

WOMEN IN DEFENSE

Women will be netting the field of production in the defense industries if all of these orders placed by the government will mean the increase in business that it indicates. Many men will be returning to the pay-roll after two long a rest, but there will be numerous places that will also be filled by our women. Certain jobs seem to be particularly fitted for women as inspection of machine parts, testing electrical equipment, light instruments and very delicate instruments to be assembled, loading shells need be. Women should have special training in jobs especially fitted for their skill. But all work should take into consideration a woman's physique. Our women, if the need arises, can have her place in our defense industry, as well as the English woman who has proven herself a glory to her country, a pillar of courage to her family.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

LUKE AND HIS GOSPEL

LESSON TEXT—Luke 1:1-4; Acts 1:1; Colossians 4:14; II Timothy 4:11.
GOLDEN TEXT—It seemed good to me also . . . to write . . . that thou mightest know the certainty of those things, wherein thou hast been instructed.—Luke 1:3, 4.

Reading a book is a privilege and should be an illuminating and stirring experience. What a pity that so few good books in our day! To study a book is a far more fruitful and interesting experience. Few are the books worthy of prolonged and repeated study. Therein do we find one of the great differences between books of men and God's Book—the Bible. Again and again we turn to its pages and find its truth inexhaustible, ever interesting, informing, and soul-stirring in its beauty and power.

In reading any book, we want to know who wrote it, what kind of a man he was, why he wrote, what he wrote about, and what kind of a book he wrote. We recognize the Holy Spirit in the real author of the Word (II Tim. 3:16; II Pet. 1:21), but he chose and used human writers. Let us begin our month's study of the Gospel according to Luke, we properly ask about both the author and his writing.

I. The Writer—Luke.

Our information regarding Luke is found in the New Testament, in the introductory words of the books he wrote (Luke and Acts) and in the writings of his friend and co-worker, Paul. There we learn of his

1. Nationality and Religion. His name, "Luke," is a contraction of the Greek name "Loukas" and, from Colossians 4:14, we learn that he was not "of the circumcision," we know he was a Gentile and evidently a Greek. When, where and by whom he was won to Christ, we do not know. We do know that this intelligent Greek, versed in all the philosophies of the perfection of personality, found in Christ the fulfillment of all his desires and dreams.

2. Profession—A Physician (Col. 4:14). See also medical terms in all his writings). Luke wrote scholarly Greek; he was familiar with the life of a sailor (Acts 27); he joined with his scientific accuracy an esthetic culture often revealed in his writings.

3. His Friends. A man's friends indicate his character. Luke had a close friend and possibly a patron, "his excellency" Theophilus (Acts 1:1; Luke 1:3), evidently a man of standing and ability. He was also a close friend and fellow laborer with Paul (Acts 16:17; 19:29; 20:4; 27:26; 28:16), perhaps the greatest man of all time, Paul the apostle.

4. His Activities. Fellow missionary with Paul (Acts 16:11; 20:5, 6, and elsewhere), physician, preacher of the gospel, and author.

II. The Book—the Gospel by Luke.

To have written a book may be a doubtful distinction, but to have been used of the Holy Spirit to write such a book as this Gospel—what an honor and privilege! Following Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, we note:

1. Its Subject. "The Word" (Luke 1:2). He wrote about the perfect personality of Jesus Christ, but he, like John (John 1:14), recognized that it was the divine and eternal Word which became flesh in the perfect humanity of Jesus Christ.

2. Its Sources. He doubtless read what many had written (Luke 1:1). He also talked with "eyewitnesses" (Luke 1:2) and "ministers of the word" who had known the Lord. His sources were excellent and unimpeachable.

3. Its Method. He "traced the course" (for so does the R. V. properly translate Luke 1:3) of the material he gathered; that is, he did original research and investigation, always under the control and guidance of the Holy Spirit. This resulted in a placing of all things "in order." After gathering, sifting, investigating, the Holy Spirit saw that Luke put all things in proper order (see I Cor. 14:33, 40).

4. Its Purpose. Luke wanted Theophilus (and others who read his Gospel) to know with "certainty" (Luke 1:4) those things in which he was already instructed by word of mouth. Important matters must always be written down, carefully and in order. To pass things on by word of mouth inevitably results in change, conscious or unconscious. So desperately vital a matter as our eternal salvation calls for writings, exact and complete. Luke, who had a knowledge of all these things, was moved by the Holy Spirit to write, and thus we have this glorious Gospel which we are to study from now until the end of March, 1941.

A closing word. A 12-page booklet, Can America Be Saved? by the writer of these notes, will be sent free on request. Use the address above. A post card will do, but if convenient, enclose postage. Your comments or suggestions regarding the lessons will also be appreciated.

Independent Food Show

Marcha Wheeler Home economist who has been secured to conduct the Cooking School at the Northern Kentucky Independent Dealers Pure Food Show, which will be held at the Covington Tobacco Warehouse the week of Oct. 6th to 13th inclusive has a career today in cooking which started out years ago as a hobby.

And it started when she was only 4. At that early age she stood on a stool to watch her mother measure out the ingredients as Little Miss Wheeler prepared to bake her first cake. And thus began a hobby that became a career.

Born in Fort Wayne, Indiana, a relatively few years ago, Miss Wheeler gathered of the practices from her mother and from her experiences with her own family which includes two young and fast growing boys. As a student at the University of Chicago, she often ate in Chicago's downtown hotels and in an unassuming practice to meet her chef. After four years at the University she was well known to every one of them.

Miss Wheeler first tried culinary instruction in 1927, when she conducted the "Mail Bag" program during which she gave frequent menus and often interviewed well-known chefs.

So widely known has she become in midwestern kitchen circles that she has a standing invitation to eat in every chef's dining room. And she would rather eat in the kitchen with the hotel chef than in the finest hotel dining room in America.

Because Miss Wheeler combines in her menus both the economy and practicality of often-tired cooking with the audiences are enthusiastic about her menus and her program. It is noised about by those who are familiar with Miss Wheeler's work that she puts "wonder into everyday cooking."

As is true with a well-trained musician who can detect at a glance a poorly balanced orchestral passage, so it is true with Miss Wheeler, who with the cleverness of an expert and the keenness of one who has spent her life in cooking, can tell from a recipe just what it will be like.

Combining her thought knowledge of almost every type of cooking with a conviction that cooking is a creative art to be indulged in as such, Miss Wheeler often makes of an ordinary recipe an interestingly novel one. Once, beginning with a common recipe for Vanilla Wafers, by dint of a little twisting of ingredients, she invented her own recipe for whole wheat cookies and called it "Lanky Legs". It was so named because it contained valuable nutrients for fast growing children.

With all her prowess around the stove and pantry, it was not through her ability as a cook but as a horsewoman that Miss Wheeler won her husband. Riding is her only recreation, but she does enough of it to balance the lack of others. On a recent tour of hotels in the west and southwest she rode horseback in every town.

The average person takes about twenty thousand steps a day. That's nearly eight miles, a good thing to you too.

To show you how important they are, let's renew a little anatomy. The human skeleton contains 208 bones. Each of your feet is made up of twenty-six bones. In both feet... fifty-two bones, or one fourth of all the bones in your body. Nature meant your foundation to be a pretty important part of you. When your feet hurt, you hurt all over because your nervous system, like a telephone system, is all inter-related.

When you cramp nerves in your feet, the pain may be felt by reflex nerve action at knees, hips, and even in your back. For instance, there's a story told about a certain famous doctor whose patient complained of a shoulder pain. The doctor could find nothing wrong with the shoulder so he asked the patient to sit down and take off her shoes. He then proceeded to manipulate the delicate bones of her feet, much to the lady's disgust. Said she, "There must be something wrong with you, doctor, my feet don't hurt, it's my shoulder."

To which the doctor replied, "Yes madam, but when you step on a dog's tail, which end barks?" — Adv.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

We the members of the Royal Ambassadors of the Union Baptist Church, feel that we have sustained a great loss in the passing of our beloved leader and friend, Mr. G. M. Kearns, September 13, 1940. Whereas by his entrance into his eternal home, we have been bereft of an ardent leader and a valued friend, be it

Resolved, that we thank our Heavenly Father for his beautiful example of sincere devotion, untiring loyalty and eminent service, be it further

Resolved, that our hearts yearn for his wise counsel and prayerful sympathy. We bow in humble submission to His will, knowing Jesus doeth all things well. He is further

Resolved, that we extend to his family our heartfelt sympathy and commend them to the grace, mercy and peace of a loving Heavenly Father

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy to the Boone County Recorder, and a copy be spread upon the pages of our minute book.

R. A.'s of Union Baptist Church.

WHOSE CANDIDATE IS WILLIE?

Republican Presidential Nominee Willie's chief claim to be elected, is that he can do better the things that President Roosevelt is doing. He commenced his campaign by endorsing much of the New Deal program, but stated that program could be much better managed by himself and his Republican cohorts.

So far, however, the people generally have been little impressed by Candidate Willie's claim. Like the fiery Mayor LaGuardia of New York, they are inclined to the opinion that Roosevelt with his known faults is better than Willie with his unknown virtues.

One of the chief drawbacks to Willie's claim upon the American people for their support is his inability to control even the affairs of his own party. He has not yet demonstrated that he speaks for the Republican Party—that he controls the state and National leaders of that party. He makes slang speeches, expresses his views on various questions and issues, and some times goes out on a limb by himself. Then he suddenly realizes that State and National leaders of his lately adopted party—the party he and his Utility companions shanghaied to Philadelphia—are crosswise with him.

Naturally all this results in grave wonderment and not a little misapprehension. Even many Republicans are asking whether Willie is really their candidate. Some strongly incline to the suspicion that he is not, and covertly whisper among themselves that Willie is for Willie and his Utility cohorts first, last and all the time. They wonder if a Willie victory would constitute a Republican victory, or whether it would mean Utility control of the National government, a result which tens of thousands of Republicans themselves would not relish.

As time passes it becomes more apparent that the man the Republicans nominated for President at their National Convention in Philadelphia, was not and is not a man of the people. On the contrary, it appears that the Utility interests at Philadelphia executed a cunningly devised coup whereby they took over the Republican Party for a very definite purpose. It yet remains to be seen whether they will be able to carry their plans to complete victory and attain complete mastery over the people at the polls in November.

Six Weeks Required For Letter From Tsingtoo, China

The letter was received by J. G. Smith, Burlington, uncle of the boy, and it was stated that the contents of the letter was centered around the hope that the United States would not be dragged into the war. Mr. Smith said, "We are just stationed here watching the fleet of Japan, and they are also keeping an eye on us. It is my hope that we will not be dragged into war, as I have seen all the war I desire in the past two years."

The letter was written on August 14th and did not arrive here until this week, a period of six weeks.

FARMERS FAVOR FIRE

FOR CURING BURLEY
In gathering information for a bulletin on curing burley tobacco by artificial heat, the Kentucky College of Agriculture found that two-thirds of the farmers considered it wise to use heat every year, rather than just in rainy weather. All of these growers indicated that loss from houseburning can be prevented by properly housing and firing the crop.

Two-thirds of the growers expressed the belief that the color of the cured tobacco was improved by the use of artificial heat in curing. As to the influence of firing upon the weight of the cured tobacco, two-thirds of the farmers said that curing with artificial heat did not change the weight. A third of the farmers, however, thought that a loss in weight resulted if the heat from the fires was too high for a considerable time.

The bulletin, which may be had from county agents or by writing to the college, is called, "Cost of Curing White Burley Tobacco with Artificial Heat."

Who Owns This Bank?

You probably know the answer, yet it's one of those simple, obvious facts that are often lost sight of. The stockholders who own this bank are your neighbors and ours—average citizens who take part in the home, social and business life of this community.

They invested their money in our capital stock because they had faith in the community's future, and in the progressive-ness of their fellow men. Often the money they invested was part of their hard-earned life savings.

This confidence on the part of our stockholders who in turn enjoy the confidence and respect of many others, is a good-will-building force which we value highly.

FOUR STAR DIXIE THEATRE, FT. MITCHELL

The Four Star Dixie Theatre, newest Northern Kentucky movie house, has been drawing visitors and patrons from a wide area. Located on the Dixie Highway, from which it derives its name, at the end of the car line in South Fort Mitchell, it is readily accessible by auto, bus or street car to residents of Kenton and Boone Counties.

The theatre equipment and appointments are the latest word in modern, deluxe construction and decoration. The fully upholstered, spring edge seats are staggered to give patrons a clear unobstructed view from every seat. Projection equipment, the Simplex E-7, is the latest word from the world's largest projection equipment. Coated lenses, a very new and astounding invention, project more light and a clearer, sharper picture on the screen. The Simplex Sound system is the latest in the field and is the only system licensed under both RCA and Western Electric patents. Air conditioning is in all-year operation, with filtered fresh air cooled in summer and heated in winter. Predominant color scheme is blue, gold and rose, with the walls in the auditorium set off by fluorescent lights.

SURFACE REUNION HELD

The Surface reunion was held at the Hopeful Lutheran Church September 22, 1940. It was a beautiful Autumn day which added much to the occasion and at noon a bountiful dinner was spread, consisting of tastily prepared food.

The dessert was vanilla ice cream individuals in the form of a block sawed from a log, with nuts for bark and garnished on top with raspberry ice cream in the form of the letter S, which was very appropriate to the occasion as it represented the Surface family tree.

Rev. H. M. Hutter spoke a few words of prayer and Mr. William Wilson gave a few well chosen remarks which were appreciated by all. It was voted to hold the reunion annually in the month of September, the date to be decided by the President, Mr. William Howe and the Secretary, Mrs. Harvey F. Utz.

A vote of thanks was extended to the church Council and the theatre was constructed by the F. & Y. Construction Co., of Columbus, specialists in theatre building, for the owners, John C. Hauer, long a resident of Boone County, and Joseph M. Luhn, of Ft. Mitchell. Operations are conducted by Mr. Luhn and Messrs. Crawford and Looftbourow, theatre operators. Dr. Looftbourow is also a physicist associated with Dr. George Spertl in the research work of the Institutum Divi Thomae.

A new feature at the Dixie is the institution of "Bargain Nights." Each week an outstanding feature will be presented at reduced prices.

WALTON, KY.

Every now and then there comes an unusual motion picture that is made for all classes and masses and if the people's special attention isn't called to this fact they never see it. Showing next Thursday, October 10th we have just one of these pictures. The title really doesn't mean much to the average individual but in it we have a real motion picture, "The Biscuit Baker." Here is a truly moving picture, the story of one kid that is the story of every kind, a story as American as Tom Sawyer or Huck Finn. Two boys and their dog, in a drama as real as boyhood itself, as true as the devotion of man's—yes, boy's best friend, the dog. The story of the ornerly no account dog, which became through the love of two youngsters the champion bird dog of all the State of Georgia.

When folks laugh at Lanny and Tex and their sorry looking hound dog, "Promise" you'll remember when you were in the same spot, and when these two kids fight back against the world for their dog, you'll cheer them on, because you'll understand.

Seldom does the screen equal the sincerity and understanding so forcefully portrayed here, that's why we are proud to present a picture you will treasure in your heart forever—the heart thrilling story of a boy and a dog who together fought the world.

We suggest all you bird dog lovers and hunters make this your hunting ground on next Thursday night, October 10th. Here you will witness one of the greatest bird dog hunts in our history, made in the heart of Georgia, the bird dog country. Don't miss seeing this one picture.

We don't think it is the fault of any radio if a song dies.

Tobacco Grading Demonstrations Planned

Four tobacco stripping and grading demonstrations will be held in Boone County October 15th and 16, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Mr. Charles E. Campbell, Federal Tobacco Grader, will present the demonstrations.

Similar demonstrations have been presented the past five years in cooperation with the Federal tobacco grading service. The meetings offer an opportunity for leading tobacco growers to meet and discuss their various practices in reference to stripping and marketing their crops. Everyone is invited to attend these meetings.

Seems that the contest between the boll-weevil and the silkworm gives a slight edge to the boll-weevil.

AN UNDUE PRIVILEGE

Abbie L. See
We know a plous man, devout—
His conduct fits him well,
Each Sabbath day he goes to church,
Such a habit we think swell.

With a subject quite exacting
We will make a little rhyme,
Will not leave out minute parts
Or employ truth in every line.

Early on one Sabbath morning
He did his chores with haste,
Then polished up his Sunday shoes
With a liquid and some paste.

He dressed himself quite nice and neat
As a gentleman should do,
And while he waited on his spouse
He read the paper through.

The morning sun was bright and warm,
The swing had a lazy squeak,
He closed his eyes—yes sir, he did,
And dropped right off to sleep.

Yes sir! He sat right in that swing
And took a little nap,
When he awoke—my sakes alive!
A snake lay on his lap.

He leaped from that swing just like a frog,
Never lost no time at all,
Eyes almost popping from his head
At that snake with so much gall.

His wife came running, yes she did
To learn just what was wrong,
She ran right up to that big snake
Which measured five feet long.

The way she hollered was a fright
With performance like a clown,
She grabbed a good old garden hoe
And mowed that reptile down.

He looked on with gaping jaws
The truth we'd like to state,
He looked just like a Senator
Who had lost a long debate.

To stay from church on Sunday
Our excuses run around,
If that thing ever happens here
We'll think an hones one is found.

If you're wanting further details
Not within here found,
We will oblige by saying,
Just inquire of Mr. Brown.

TONIGHT and FRIDAY (Return Engagement)

Romance, high comedy, pathos, excitement, color of breath-taking beauty and tuneful music! Mix them all together and you have the flavor of the Great Walt Disney Festival which will be shown at the Gaiety.

As a popular innovation this all-Disney program is being presented as a national release through RKO Radio. No program of Walt Disney classics would be complete without that never-to-be-forgotten full-length production "Snow White," which is the feature attraction in the Festival. In addition to "Snow White" the theatre is also presenting as part of the unit four classic Disney features: "Ferdinand the Bull," the "Three Little Pigs in 'The Practical Pig,'" "The Ugly Duckling" and "Donald's Lucky Day."

SATURDAY

The romantic Argentine background of the new "Hopalong Cassidy" outdoor drama, "Law of the Pampas," is enhanced by four new songs with a strong Latin flavor, which will be heard for the first time when the Paramount film is shown at the Gaiety Theatre Saturday.

The numbers which were written especially for Clarence E. Mulford range story, are "Habanero" and "Rostia," by Carlos Glanotot, and "Los Ganchos" and "La Jornada," by Leo Rolo. In addition, "Fantasia Argentina," probably the most popular of all native tangos, will be used in a special dance sequence, featuring Steffi Duna, William Boyd's new leading lady.

The story concerns the adventures of the "Bar 20" foreman when he goes to Argentina to deliver a herd of prize cattle and runs into a series of mysterious robberies and killings.

SUNDAY and MONDAY

For the first time in her life Joan Blondell who co-stars with Bing Crosby in Universal's "East Side of Heaven," which will be at the Gaiety Sunday and Monday is able to do what she wants in pictures. Since making her bow on the screen, Joan has been constantly under contract.

What she had to appear in what were films studio heads selected for her. "East Side of Heaven" is her first production as a freelancer, which means she can pick and choose as she pleases.

TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY

A gray-haired, motherly-looking woman proved to be a historical spectator during the production of Universal's new frontier action epic, "When the Dalkons Rode," which is at the Gaiety Tuesday and Wednesday with Randolph Scott and Kay Francis in the leading roles.

The onlooker was Mrs. Emmett Dalton, widow of one of the nation's most famous outlaws. She was present at the cinematic recreation of the celebrated Coffeyville, Kan., bank raid of 1892.

LAWYERS PLAN DISTRICT MEET

ELEVEN COUNTIES TO BE REPRESENTED AT MEETING IN COVINGTON ON OCTOBER 4TH.

A district meeting of the lawyers in Kenton, Campbell, Boone, Carroll, Owen, Grant, Pendleton, Bracken, Mason, Fleming and Gallatin Counties will be held in Covington, Ky., on October 4, 1940. This is one of a series of meetings to be held all over the State during the coming summer and fall, arranged by the Kentucky State Bar Association, in carrying out a plan of national scope suggested by the American Bar Association for the purpose of presenting programs on advanced legal education to meet the rapidly changing developments in the law.

A committee of the State Bar Association, including lawyers from every section of the State and with John L. Vest, of Walton, as chairman, has been appointed by President John B. Rodes, of Bowling Green. Charles S. Adams, of Covington, and J. H. Gresham, of Lexington, are the Kentucky State Bar Association, is the chairman of the meeting for this section. Walter D. Vest, of Walton, is the local chairman for Boone County.

A number of these district meetings have been held in other districts during the summer and have been enthusiastically received by the members of the Bar in those districts. The various sections of the State are grouped by contiguous counties, with the meeting held during the afternoon and evening at an easily accessible central point. Two authoritative outside speakers, on practical current legal subjects, will appear on the program at each meeting, and the addresses will be followed by an open forum for questions and discussions.

Farber owes his popularity not only to his method of playing, which brought him success early in the Netherlands, but in the Florentine Room of the Hotel Gibson, but to his instinctive ability to pick the best-loved and most enjoyable tunes in popular music. His favorites are the favorites of every band-follower and dance dancer. He enjoys most all music, the songs from the Broadway musical shows, and to him, as to all who enjoy the better dance tunes, the finest composers are Cole Porter, George Gershwin, Rogers and Hart and Vincent Youman.

Nationally Known Orchestra Leader Will Be Heard At Food Show

Burt Farber, nationally known orchestra leader and his ten-man band have been secured to play at the Northern Kentucky Independent Food Dealers Pure Food Show the week of October 6th to 13th at the Covington Tobacco Warehouse.

Though he is a young man in his early twenties, Burt Farber, orchestra leader and member of the WLW music staff, is a well-known veteran in the orchestra world. For when he was but a Junior at Washington and Lee University, he joined the late Henry Thies' band and remained with him for two years.

Leaving Thies he joined Jonny Hamp's band, touring the country for several years, coming to WLW in 1934 to be featured on many of that station's outstanding network programs.

In the Spring of 1937, when the Netherlands Plaza began to look about for some local orchestra to play in its massive Restaurant Continental, Farber formed a band of his own, got the engagement and played there for a record five and a half months.

His music is rhythmic only in that it keeps moving steadily. Even in this era of jitterbugging and jamming, Farber believes there is an appreciation for sweeter, slower, more thoughtful music among a great many people. If the popularity Farber's music has enjoyed can be any indication of that, Farber is right. Other band leaders have been quick to follow his lead.

Like Duchin and several others, Farber directs his band from the piano, fingering the keyboard almost absent-mindedly. He has been playing the piano a long time—through high school and college—and over the radio and on the stage during the years since. Farber's piano is the backbone of his band, the orchestra forming a rhythmic and tonal background to his keyboard melodies.

Farber owes his popularity not only to his method of playing, which brought him success early in the Netherlands, but in the Florentine Room of the Hotel Gibson, but to his instinctive ability to pick the best-loved and most enjoyable tunes in popular music. His favorites are the favorites of every band-follower and dance dancer. He enjoys most all music, the songs from the Broadway musical shows, and to him, as to all who enjoy the better dance tunes, the finest composers are Cole Porter, George Gershwin, Rogers and Hart and Vincent Youman.

FIVE INJURED IN ACCIDENT

NEAR WALTON FRIDAY—CLEVELAND LADY REMAINS SERIOUSLY ILL AT BOOTH HOSPITAL.

Five Cleveland, Ohio residents, en route to Lexington, were injured, one seriously, when the auto in which they were riding figured in a head-on collision with a cattle truck, three miles south of Walton on the Dixie Highway, early Friday.

James T. Hawkins, 33, of Monterey, Ky., driver of the truck, was charged with reckless driving after the crash. He suffered a fractured nose.

Most seriously injured was Mrs. Annie Hust, 45, who sustained a skull fracture, head cuts and shock. Her condition is reported as serious at Booth Hospital, Covington.

Her husband, Al Hust, 46, who suffered a broken right leg, face cuts and body bruises, and their daughter, Elsie A. Hust, 15, bruises and shock, were reported in a fair condition.

Daniel H. Pilot, 32, driver of the car, who suffered cuts on the forehead, right leg and body bruises, and his wife, Mrs. Margaret Pilot, 32, shock, also were reported fair.

According to State Highway Patrolman Charles Conrad, who investigated the crash, Hawkins, traveling north, attempted to pass a north-bound auto but failed to clear.

The auto driver by Pilot, traveling south plunged into the truck and was demolished. The truck was loaded with hogs.

The Clevelanders were on the way to attend the Kentucky-Washington and Lee football game.

Outing Held By Northern Kentucky Sportsmen Sunday

Several hundred sportsmen and their families attended the second annual outing of the Northern Kentucky Federation of Sportsmen Club grounds, Clayville.

Tray shooting, Mike-O, archery, horseshoe pitching and outdoor games featured the day. More than a score of prizes were awarded in connection with the federation's drive to raise funds for a quail restock program in northern Kentucky.

Money raised Sunday will be used for conservation of wildlife and natural resources, particularly for the operation of the federation's quail farm near Butler.

Sportsmen from Kenton, Boone, Gallatin, Campbell, Bracken, Grant and Pendleton counties attended the outing.

STATE REPAIRS LICENSE PLATES

ONLY FEW MINUTES REQUIRED TO REPAINT FADED TAGS—EMPLOYEES AT STATE GARAGE TO DO WORK.

According to a letter received recently by county clerk, C. D. Benson, a novel way of re-finishing faded automobile license plates was worked out in Frankfort through the cooperation of the Welfare Department, the Department of Revenue, and the Highway Department.

Small rubber rollers and red numerical paint have been supplied to each of the Highway Garages throughout the State. The re-finishing is done by simply applying quick drying paint to the rubber roller and rolling it over the faded numerals on the license plates.

Boone County motorists who desire to have their license plates re-finished in a very few minutes may do so by stopping by the State Highway Garage at Florence on any day except Sunday.

It was learned after contacting Mr. Benson that quite a few persons in Boone County have requested new license plates from the Department of Revenue. He indicated, however, that the demand for replacements should slow up when automobile owners learn of the facilities offered at the Highway Garage.

At Frankfort, Department of Revenue figures indicated that about 19,000 plates had been replaced throughout the State.

TWO YOUTHS ARE ARRESTED

ON CHICKEN STEALING CHARGE—ARRESTED MONDAY—EX-AMINING TRIAL TO BE HELD IN NEAR FUTURE

Hubert Elza and George Fogle, both from the North end of Boone county, were arrested Monday by Sheriff F. M. Walton and Jake Williams on a charge of stealing chickens.

The pair were held in Ludlow Monday until local authorities were notified. They had several turkeys and chickens in their car at the time of their arrest.

The turkeys belonged to George Voshell of the Woodstock neighborhood.

Local authorities have been following these two men for the past two months, but were unable to get sufficient evidence for their arrest. Following their arrest, they admitted stealing several chickens in the northern part of the county, including 14 turkeys from the Williams Brothers, near Clarksburg.

They also admitted selling the poultry to a Newport merchant.

Both men are being held in Burlington jail, awaiting a hearing which will be held in the near future.

The meetings are of a strictly educational nature. All tobacco growers and 4-H Club members are invited to attend.

CHAMPIONSHIP PLAY-OFF SET

FIRST GAME OF THREE GAME SERIES SET FOR SATURDAY AT BURLINGTON PARK—RYLE AND SHINKLE TO BE ON HILL.

Petersburg, regular season winner and Burlington will go into a three-game series for the championship of Boone County Saturday afternoon at the local ball park. These lines gained the right to enter the series after eliminating Hebron and Bellevue, the only other remaining teams last Saturday.

Petersburg defeated Hebron at the winner's park by the convincing score of 14 to 4. It was Hebron's second defeat and gave Petersburg a record of four victories and one defeat in the elimination play-off.

Burlington had much more trouble in handling Bellevue their second defeat of the play-off. The Bellevue team, though defeated 5 to 4, almost—and with a few breaks would still be in the running. The locals got off to a one to nothing count in the first inning on a hit, a stolen base and two errors. Bellevue ran the score to three to one in the fifth. The locals tied it at three all in the seventh and pushed across two more in the eighth. Bellevue came back in the eighth with a run and had the tying mark on second with none out in the ninth. At that point Stuart Ryle, Burlington moundsman, turned on the heat, fanning two men and forcing the third to hit an infield grounder. C. Williamson twirled for the losers.

Game at Two O'Clock

The opening championship contest between Burlington and Petersburg will begin at the Burlington park at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The second game of the series will be played at Petersburg Saturday, October 19.

Probable Line-up:
Burlington—1st; Maurer 3d; F. Maurer 2nd; Voshell 1st; Sebree 4th; Clure 6th; Kirk 4th; Akim or Gulley 1st; Benson 3rd; Ryle p.

AT HIS HOME NEAR HEBRON SATURDAY—CAUSE OF SUICIDE UNEXPLAINED BY PARENTS

Lloyd Gill, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gill, of near Hebron, ended his life Saturday in a barn near the Gill home by firing a .22 caliber rifle into his chest just above the heart.

The Gill family were unable to explain any possible cause for the act, and were unaware that the youth had the gun in his possession. He was in excellent health and had never shown any mental disturbances, it was stated.

After a careful check-up by local authorities, it was discovered that he had ordered the rifle from a mail order house a few days ago, and had never shown it to any member of the family. Only one cartridge, a .22 long-rifle, could be found on the boy about the house. The authorities took fingerprints of the boy to be compared with those on the gun, and no report has been made as yet.

He leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gill, two brothers and one sister. Funeral services were conducted Monday at Corinth, the former home of the Gill family.

RIGHT WITH YOU, BOY

By now the colleges and universities of the nation, have opened doors to our James and Johnnies who gather, from near and far, in classrooms for the furtherance of their educational inheritance. There, cutting campus capers, swinging a brief case under his arm, goes a Johnny from Boone County. Be joyful that he need not tote along a gas mask with those math books. He leaves a student building of rooms kept modern in lighting and ventilation. Far different from spending time in an underground bomb-proof haven, for which be grateful. The shout Johnny hears from the field is no cry of terror but a hoarse for the team that is carrying the ball for Alma Mater. It is a blessing the son is from a hum-dred throats and not the drone and drumming of enemy planes overhead. Thank heaven the letter Johnny expects from home will contain a check or news that the folks may drive down for the big game. No bald facts about blackouts or destruction of childhood haunts, Johnny! The family back home is pretty proud of you and they are happy that you are absorbed in your interests and life in school. With all of us working for you we are hopeful of keeping you there and seeing you through. Good luck to you, Johnny, and while you are tackling your job we will do our best to pull together out here and keep your campus safe and secure for you, boy.

the law-violating pedestrian has figured in many an accident. Perhaps we do not stress the need of the observance of the pedestrian as much as we write of the carelessness of the motorist. We rely on the law to punish the driver and too often the walker who figured in the story gets by! They complain of jaywalkers in the cities but in towns where traffic isn't so heavy it doesn't seem to be such a problem. One motorist said there were more pedestrians violating traffic light laws than auto drivers. Perhaps he is right. Even though the city fathers don't hand out tickets for walkers who disobey the laws we can at least try to satisfy the complaint of the motorist.

SO ALL MAY KNOW

You can't blame a man for being skeptical about politics being able to pull strings with a decision or to choosing and selecting among many individuals. It has been hinted that this would be true in the conscription listings in October. We are glad to learn from the source at Washington that the entire draft proceedings will be done in the open with every sort of publicity given the lists of draftees. Names will be posted at registering quarters and in home-town newspapers. Any person who wishes to challenge a decision or to question any selection may be free to do so. They promise no favoritism or political strings and this will be possible due to the publicity thrown on each name. Here in Boone County we welcome open tactics and the basis of equality.

COURIER-JOURNAL BACKS ROOSEVELT

The Louisville Courier-Journal, independent Democratic newspaper, last week endorsed the re-election of President Roosevelt and repudiated Wendell Willkie, Republican nominee, after having deferred its decision because of "the desire to find the truth and the intention to judge both men by what they did during the momentous summer."

The Courier-Journal doubts first if Mr. Willkie has clear policy on the war. The paper finds his record on domestic policy "dangerously unclear." It is discouraged by the lack of balance and reliability in some of his speeches; it finds that Mr. Willkie has proved himself a had organizer.

Of Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Wallace, the paper remarks, "They stand shoulder to shoulder on a foreign policy of which we approve, on an agricultural policy of which we approve, on a philosophy of democracy at home and abroad—which seems to us one of the few remaining hopes of a free world."

While admitting that the Administration has failed to deal with unemployment, failed to create such economic welfare as might lead to a diminished national debt, the Courier-Journal asserts that these problems are they cannot be major issues in the 1940 campaign. In closing, the Courier-Journal declared:

"Mr. Roosevelt and his running mate have convinced us—as Mr. Willkie has not—that they never forget we are in the midst of a world revolution. They have convinced us—as Mr. Willkie has not—that they see there is but one vital task ahead. To prevent the revolution from abolishing democracy on either shore of the Atlantic. We think they have the will and the experience to fight this battle, at home and abroad, more successfully than any other candidates. Therefore, we give them our support."

FARMING IN HOPKINS

STUDIED BY COLLEGE
The principal sources of income last year on 23 Hopkins county farms, covered in a farm business analysis report of the Kentucky College of Agriculture, included an average of $346 from milk cows, $330 from tobacco, $228 from hogs, $211 from beef cattle and $130 from poultry.

Net earnings ranged from $2,368 to a loss on two farms, with an average of $648, after all expenses were paid, wages allowed members of the family and interest on the investment figured at 5 percent.

R. E. Proctor, who made the study, noted that profits increased with the amount of livestock. The most successful farmers were efficient workers, and did their work well and at the proper time. They followed good cropping systems, grew cover in winter, used limestone and phosphate, and made plans over long periods, he reported.

IMPROVED
SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for October 13

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council Religious Education, used by permission.
THE BOYHOOD OF JESUS
LESSON TEXT—Luke 2:40-52.
GOLDEN TEXT—And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man.—Luke 2:52.

One brief but revealing glimpse into the earthly life of our Lord as all we have from His birth to the time He entered upon His public ministry at His baptism in the Jordan. How appropriate it is that He was permitted to live those years of His life behind the curtain of divine silence. Education, used by the incident in our lesson shows Jesus at the age of responsibility, and in His Father's house. This is preceded by one verse which reveals Him as the growing child, and is followed by another verse which tells of His advancement from boyhood into manhood. Luke, who is the only one who presents this story, thus gives the picture of the divine-human personality of the One whom he purposes to reveal as the perfect and universal Saviour.

I. The Child Grows (v. 40).
Like every other child in the world (apart, of course, from any sin or blemish), Jesus grew during the first 12 years of His life on earth. One rightly regards that growth as the normal, happy development of every child, a time of physical development, of carefree play, of learning obedience in the household at Nazareth. A child should not bear the burdens of life nor be required to make its weighty decisions.

Jesus came into the world to die as the Saviour of sinful men but for these childhood years we are glad that He just grew, waxed strong in body as well as in spirit, developing mentally and that in it all "the face of God" was upon him." May our children have a similar opportunity and privilege!

II. The Boy Meets Life's Responsibilities (vv. 41-51).
Soon enough came the day when as "son of the law" Jesus entered the age of accountability and went with His parents to keep the feast of the Passover. He entered the temple, and there took over the responsibility of religious life, which until then had been borne by His parents. Such a day is of vital importance in the life of every boy and girl, and in the case of Jesus was especially so.

Acting for Himself, He tarried in the temple. As a good learner, He asked and answered questions, at the same time amazing those who heard by His understanding. There His mother (who had shown her confidence that He was to be trusted to be where He ought to be) found Him after she had looked in vain for Him at evening in their company on the road.

To Him it was the natural and expected thing that He would be in His Father's house, going about the business of God. He recognized the special relationship between Himself and the Father—His very own Father—and He began to assume the responsibility of His divine mission on earth.

He was about to turn the corner from boyhood and start toward manhood, but there were yet 18 years that He was to show His perfect submission to the will of God by His obedience to His parents. There is a real lesson there for every growing boy and girl.

III. The Youth Goes On to Manhood (v. 52).
The curtain is drawn again, and the boy Jesus develops into the man; yes, the man who was to bear on Calvary's tree your sins and mine. What do we know about these years when a boy with the consciousness that He must be about His Father's business went forward to manhood under the loving and watchful eye of the mother who kept all these sayings in her heart" (v. 51)? Only what Luke tells us, but that is a great deal.

Jesus "advanced," the word being entirely different in meaning from the "grew" of verse 40. The child grows without any thought or purpose of doing so, but the boy pressing on to manhood has to beat his way forward, cutting a path through life to his goal.

The fact that Jesus did that should encourage every young man and woman who is doing the same in a difficult and hostile world, and cause them to seek the daily companionship and help of the Son of God and Son of Man who has passed that way before them.

The development here puts the mental first, then the physical. The latter is important, but must be under control of the former. Crowning them both is His growth in grace, fellowship with God and fellowship with men, the latter glorified and made useful by the former.

Here again we may learn of Him who, though the Son of God with power, was obedient to the limitations of the humanity He had taken, and yet advanced "in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man" (v. 52).

Some people find it easy to follow the crowd if the crowd happens to be going the wrong way. It often happens that a woman without a heart manages to marry a man without a head.

ABOUT PLANTING
You can plant the bearded irises until November and get sturdy stalks in the spring. Parsnips can remain in the ground during the winter. Freezing will not hurt them.

Protect your taroos bushes during the winter by piling the soil around the bushes for a height of one foot. Do this before ground freezes.

EYE EXAMINATION IS VERY IMPORTANT

It is very important to have your eyes examined periodically. Eyestrain is a handicap in many ways and often brings crows feet and other aging lines at the eyes. Let us give your eyes a careful examination.

SERVICE that SATISFIES

Weak Feet Affect Body

When feet are permitted to protrude inwardly, the bony structure of the foot goes down, shutting off the nerve and blood supply in the bottom of the foot. When you cramp or choke the blood stream and slow up circulation, there is a lack of bone repair; chemical deposits, or waste matter form at the joints. Next inflammation sets in at these joints causing pain. That inflammation is often mistaken for rheumatism, arthritis, and many other ailments. Altho when you cramp the blood supply you shut off the food supply to the nerves.

When nerves are impoverished muscle tone is impaired because sensory nerves indirectly control motor nerves which in turn control the muscles. When muscles in the feet have lost their tonicity due to impoverishment of the nerves, feet are no longer subconsciously held in normal position.

Surgical shoes give support to the vital arches in the feet releasing cramped nerves and blood vessels to promote better circulation. Gradually as circulation improves, muscles grow strong and regain their tonicity.

With foot health improved the person feels better all over. Research has shown that no less than eighty-seven diseases are indirectly caused by bad feet.

Don't take chances with your health, happiness and peace of mind. With foot comfort you'll live longer and feel better.—Adv.

Gentlemen:

Duck Season Will Open Wednesday, October 16

Frankfort, Ky.—With the duck and wild goose hunting set to open in Kentucky on October 16, all nimrods are urged by officials of the Division of Game and Fish to secure their hunting license and their federal duck stamps in time for the first day of the 60-day season on migratory waterfowl. Sportsmen are pleased with the 15-day extension of the migratory waterfowl season by federal authorities after the more severe restrictions which had been placed on these game birds in past years. The extension in hunting days during the duck and goose season over the 45-day season last year and the 30-day season which existed even earlier, clearly indicate that migratory waterfowl is staging a great comeback and that prospects for good shooting for this fall are very bright. According to the new regulations on migratory birds the 1940 season will open October 16 and extend through December 14, both dates inclusive. The shooting hours on the ducks and geese will extend from sunrise to 4 p. m. each day.

The bag limit on ducks has been placed at 10 per day and after the first day of hunting a limit of 20 ducks in possession or two days limit has been added.

The new federal regulations also restrict the bag limit on Canvasbacks, Redheads, Buffbreasts and Ruddy ducks to three a day or 6 in possession at any time. The limit on geese has been lowered to 3 per day; and coots, 25 per day; wood duck, Ross's geese and swans are protected.

A 3-shell limit on repeating shotguns must be observed now by all nimrods when in the field or forest, regardless of the kind of game that is being hunted.

A duck stamp must be obtained by all those persons hunting migratory waterfowl in addition to the regular state hunting license. Duck stamps may be obtained at the local post offices.

BURLINGTON HOMEMAKERS

The regular meeting of the Burlington Homemakers was held at the courthouse on October 3. The new and very promising president, Mrs. Forkner, presided.

The roll call was answered by twenty-three ladies who enjoyed a delicious luncheon and whose presence was repaid with an interesting and education lesson presented by Mrs. White and Mrs. Riley. On Oct. 16, an all-day meeting will be held at the courthouse for all who are interested in leather tooling and the making of hearth broom.

Any lady who is interested in either is invited. Remember the date: Oct. 16th, 1940.

CONSTANCE HOMEMAKERS

The regular monthly meeting of the Constance Homemakers was held at the home of Mrs. Walter Sprague on Wednesday, October 2nd. There were sixteen members, two visitors and our home demonstration agent, Miss Gaspard, present.

The morning was devoted to the business meeting. Mrs. Walter Sprague gave a fine report on annual meeting which was attended by twelve of our members. A fine time was enjoyed by all. Mrs. George Kottmyer gave a talk on exterior beautification.

At the noon hour a delicious luncheon was served. The afternoon session was devoted to making patterns for rugs and mats. Our program chairman, Mrs. John Hempling had a very interesting game, after which our meeting was adjourned.

Our next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Hazel Kennedy, November 6th. Roll call to be answered with "What the Club Means to the Community."

—Mrs. Ida Herbstreit, Secy.

MONE YLAKS

By Frederick W. Stam, Economist and Director of Adult Education University of Louisville

Last week I advised you to buy now and save. This week I want to re-emphasize that statement. Several important facts point the way to higher prices. Scrap iron and copper prices jumped this past week and remember these commodities are essential in most of our industry. Coal prices are due for an increase as a result of the Bituminous Coal Commission's price policy. Prices for 1941 automobiles will, in most cases, be higher. This was predicted several months ago. Price increases do not come suddenly and in large amounts. They gradually creep upward; before long you are paying from 10 to 15 percent more than you were a year ago.

Although Washington has warned that it would not tolerate runaway prices, I think a 10 to 20 percent advance could easily take place before Washington would step in. The government is committed to a policy of restoring prosperity and we have never had prosperity when prices were low. Likewise, the government policy for the past seven years has been to stimulate prices, especially farm products and raw materials. And government officials know, as do you and I, that if the price of wheat, cotton, corn, iron and steel, lumber, etc., goes up we will be paying more for our bread, suits and dresses, our automobiles and radios and other essentials.

Washington is likewise committed to a high wage policy and we all know that high wages, under present conditions, mean higher costs and prices. What does all this mean to you? To me it adds up to just one thing—HIGHER PRICES.

So again I say to the consumer, the retailer and the wholesaler—buy now and save!

SAVED BOTTOM LEAVES. County Agent John H. Ewing, Jr. estimates that 2,000 Green county farmers are ahead 30,000 pounds of tobacco by saving the bottom leaves. At 18 cents a pound, this would add $5,400 to their incomes from tobacco.

Vetch Seedlings

Greatly Increased

The seedling of vetch this fall has been the largest on record, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Vetch is a new crop to most farmers but a new crop to a few local farmers who have been interested in most efficient soil improvement practices.

Vetch is a winter legume that should be sown at the rate of 15 to 25 pounds per acre with a small grain, such as wheat, rye or barley. It produces a legume that is 33 percent richer in protein than alfalfa, produces good quality feed when cut for hay, and when turned under as a green manure crop gives the largest increase in crop yields of any of the green manure crops.

Vetch is the crop to sow with small grains to turn under next spring. It should be sown with the small grain. The seed should be inoculated when sown on the ground for the first time. The A. C. Program pays $1.50 per acre when seeded at the rate of 15 pounds or more per acre, pays for phosphate applied 90 days before turning under, and pays $1.50 for turning under as a green manure crop or grazing off next spring. Vetch may be seeded up until around October 15th. Farmers who have not already seeded their winter cover crops should consider using vetch this fall.

MARTINS ENTERTAIN

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Martin and children of Florence entertained at their home on Burlington Pike Sunday, Mr. Arch Lucas, Mr. and Mrs. William Ware and Miss Laura Lucas, of Williamstown; Dr. E. F. Baxter, wife and son Harold, J. Lucas and wife, Grant Maddox, wife and two sons Billy and Bobby, Broadus Lucas and wife, Albert Lucas, wife and daughter Alyce Sayre, and Harry Blackburn.

Quite an enjoyable day was spent by all present.

YOUTH ACTIVITIES PLAY BIG PART IN ROBINSON FESTIVAL

The activities of 4-H clubs, schools and other organizations and institutions interested in youth played a greater part in this year's Robinson Harvest Festival at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Quicksand, Breathitt county, Ky. Nearly 1,000 4-H club members from 15 counties were there. Blue ribbons were awarded to champion clubs and club members in each county, at a mass meeting of Eastern Kentucky youth.

Polk games, directed by Prof. Frank Smith of Berea College, attracted nearly 100 young men and women from Breathitt county high school, Hazel Green academy, Hindman, Homeplace, Glen Eden, Highland Institute, Alvan Drew academy, Lee's Junior College and Stuart-Robinson school.

The best singer of ballads was Virgie Robinson of Guerrant, with Thomas Little of Hindman Second. Top honors in a two-day horse-shoe pitching contest went to Bert Fugate of Lost Creek, with Ralph Smith of Lost Creek second. Exhibits included farm crops, livestock, foods, home furnishings, fruit and vegetables, and by Berea College, Hindman Settlement School, Homeplace Community Center, Owsley county, the Recreation Council of Jackson, the Breathitt County Health Department, the Farm Security and Agricultural Conservation administrations, by homemakers and 4-H clubs, and by the Robinson Experiment Substation.

YOUNG FARMER SETS RECORD FOR ADULTS

Hog raisers in Washington county, Kentucky, might well consult a young man, Tink Barber, to learn how to make liters of pigs weigh a ton or more when 5½ months old, says County Agent Tink Young. Ten cross-bred pigs owned by Young Barber gained at the rate of 1.42 pounds per pig daily and balanced the scales at 2,348 pounds when 165 days old. Total cost of pasture, grain and labor was $5.58 a hundred.

Another litter of 10 pigs was raised by Barber to the weight of 2,184 pounds when 5½ months old. They cost 6.06 a cwt. Rye and alfalfa were used for the pasture.

TOBACCO 10 YEARS ON THE SAME LAND

Odas Proffitt of Monroe county had exceptionally good tobacco following crimson clover and barley, and where eight tons of manure and 800 pounds of 20 percent phosphate were broadcast and 100 pounds of 5-10-5 fertilizer used in the row, to the acre. This was the 10th consecutive year in which tobacco was grown on this land, and County Agent Justus L. Ellis says there is no sign of disease in the leaf. Yields last year averaged 1,750 pounds to the acre, and Proffitt thinks he will get 1,800 pounds this year.

USES ANTIQUES IN ROOM IMPROVEMENT

How antiques and other furniture were used by Mary Louise Lynn in the 4-H room improvement project is told by Miss Larue Nance, home demonstration agent in Union county, Kentucky.

An old walnut bed and dresser were refinished. The dresser became a dressing table when the mirror was removed, refinished and hung on the wall. A barrel chair was made and covered with rose chintz, the same material as used in the bed spread. Under the seat is space used for storage. A footstool was made from a cheese box and furnished with shoe shining equipment. It is covered and lined with rose chintz. The closet to the room is equipped with rods, shelves, papered storage boxes and shoe bags and racks. Compartments have been put in dresser drawers. The room was papered, muslin curtains made, and Godey prints framed and hung.

Who Owns This Bank?

You probably know the answer, yet it's one of those simple, obvious facts that are often lost sight of. The owners of this community bank are your neighbors and ours—average citizens who take part in the home, social and business life of this community.

They invested their money in our capital stock because they had faith in the community's future and in the progressiveness of their fellow men. Often the money they invested was part of their hard-earned life savings.

This confidence on the part of our stockholders who in turn enjoy the confidence and respect of many others, is a good-will-building force which we value highly.

MARKETING BULLETIN

Kentucky today is faced with a severe marketing problem because of the competitive spirit that has developed among states in encouraging the use of their products.

In order to help the small Kentucky farmer market his products more effectively, the Marketing Division of the State Department of Agriculture will begin publishing during October a Marketing Bulletin which will be distributed, free of charge, to all farmers in Kentucky who write them and ask that their name be placed on the mailing list. Anyone securing this Bulletin is under no obligation.

Any farmer wishing to place an ad in the October issue is asked to send it to the Marketing Division of the State Department of Agriculture, Frankfort, Ky., immediately. This Bulletin will also include marketing information on tobacco, live stock and other crops and will keep the citizens of Kentucky informed as to the interpretation and enforcement of the agricultural laws of the State.

PHOSPHATE DELIVERED

NINETY TONS RECEIVED BY SEVENTY-SEVEN FARMERS—GOOD RESULTS OBTAINED FROM APPLICATIONS.

Seventy-seven Boone County farmers received 90 tons of 47 per cent super phosphate under the 1941 A. C. Program on last Monday and Tuesday, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Sixty tons were delivered at Erlanger and 30 tons at Walton. Requests for 120 additional tons have been made and delivery is expected inside the next two weeks.

Farmers are getting good results from fall applications of phosphate. Because of the difficulty in getting this fertilizer when needed in the spring, many farmers are securing their orders now storing it so that they will have it on hand when needed.

Phosphate is available to farmers cooperating in the Agricultural Conservation Program on the same basis as last year. They may secure 80 per cent of their soil building allowance in 47 per cent superphosphate at $38.00 per ton deduction in the 1941 payment or 20 per cent phosphate at a $16.00 deduction. The use of this phosphate is restricted to use only on grass and legume crops. However, it may be used on grain and legumes seeded with small grains, such as wheat, rye and barley that are not harvested for grain, (except wheat on 14 commercial wheat farms in which phosphate cannot be used in connection with wheat and grass at all).

Farmers expecting to use AAA phosphate this fall or next spring should file their order at the county office immediately if early delivery is desired. No cash is paid at the time of delivery.

University Urges Cover Crop Plan For Saving Soil

Through a lot of complicated research agricultural experts have deduced that it takes Mother Nature hundreds of years to produce one inch of soil from parent rock, but almost any Kentucky farmer can figure out that hard winter rains will carry off more than that in one year.

To prove this, to his satisfaction all the farmer has to do is to look around his own or a nearby farm for a field that has been torn up for a row crop—such as tobacco, corn or cotton—for a few years and left bare to the elements during winter. If the abused field is level he will notice the soil is thin and poor, and if it is a hill field he will notice yawning gullies and red clay banks.

That is bad enough, but take it from the agronomists of the University of Kentucky Extension Service, there is even a sadder story than meets the eye. Besides the loss of topsoil, what is left of the field also will show disastrous loss of plant food through leaching. Loss of nitrogen alone, one of the most expensive plant foods, will be 25 times what it would have been if the soil had been protected.

In an effort to prevent such losses to soil fertility—which, it is estimated, takes $35,000,000 annually out of the pockets of Kentucky farmers—the Agricultural Adjustment Administration aided by the Extension Service, has launched a drive to induce farmers to use protective winter cover crops.

William C. Johnstone, agronomy field agent, describes a cover crop as a crop grown during fall and winter to provide a protective covering to land which otherwise would be bare. Included in this category are wheat, rye, ryegrass, barley, vetch, winter oats and crimson clover.

To date, according to Johnstone's estimate, more than 1,000,000 acres of Kentucky land have been so badly eroded as to render them unfit for farming, and another 1,000,000 are reaching the same state rapidly. Failure of Kentuckians to use cover crops, he points out, has been the major factor in this soil destruction.

Reports compiled by Johnstone show that 3,100,000 acres of land in this State normally are used for cultivation of crops that leave the land bare in winter. Of this acreage, 2,400,000, or 78 percent, are left unprotected through the winter.

Besides conserving and building soil, cover crops benefit the farmer in other ways, the agronomist states. All such crops, he says, when properly handled, furnish a large amount of early spring pasture, and the cereals, when seeded early, furnish fall pasture which often may be used throughout the winter.

When turned under, the agronomist points out, cover crops add organic matter to the soil and thus increase the amount of water the soil can absorb. Legume cover crops, such as vetch and crimson clover, add considerable nitrogen to the soil when used for green manure, Johnstone explains. Also, cover crops turned under before 15 inches high usually increase greatly the yield of crops which follow them.

Kentucky Needs More Cover Crops

As shown by the map above, a considerable portion of Kentucky's cultivated farm land is left bare during the winter, subject to destructive erosion and leaching. It is estimated that Kentucky farmers participating in the AAA farm program seeded 750,000 acres of cover crops in the fall of 1939. The state AAA committee points out that farmers can prevent a large part of the annual loss of soil fertility by further increasing their acreage of protective winter cover crops.

winter-grain cover crops is as nurse crops for grasses and legumes in changing a field from cultivated to sod crops. In this case, the grasses, except, perhaps, orchard grass, should be sowed in the fall to ex cover crop, and the legumes in the early spring," the agronomist said.

Johnstone emphasizes that cover crops, to be most effective, require proper care. The Extension Service has found that on soil experiment fields in Kentucky, outside the Central Bluegrass region, and on hundreds of ordinary farms, the application of liming materials, and superphosphate profitably increase growth of cover crops. He also points out that cover crops alone will not do the conservation job, but should be used along with other essentials of good soil management.

To enlist cooperation of farmers in the Triple-A cover crop program, inform them of aid the government will provide, and to explain the 1941 program changes, a series of district meetings recently have been held throughout the State. Extension service agronomists gave talks on cover crops and Triple-A field men of State AAA Committeemen discussed the 1941 Agricultural Conservation Program with county and community committeemen.

Gayety Theater News

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY (Double Feature)

With Edith Fellows, Dorothy Peterson, Clarence Kolb, Ronald Sinclair and the little Peppers again portraying the lovable and familiar members of the Pepper family and their friends, Columbia's "Five Little Peppers at Home" will be shown as one of the features of the double bill at the Gayety. The comedy drama, second one based upon Margaret Sidney's beloved juvenile classics, has been as enthusiastically received as "Five Little Peppers" and "How They Grew," first of the delightful new screen series.

Frank Morgan, who plays the comical tenderfoot in "Henry Goes Arizona," second feature of the double bill, will be seen in the full sartorial splendor of a lieutenant-colonel on the Governor's staff of the state of Georgia. During filming of the western comedy-thriller, with Virginia Weidler and a large cast, Morgan was made a staff lieutenant-colonel by Governor Rivers of Georgia. Next year, when he visits Savannah for a state celebration, he'll be in uniform.

Placerita Canyon, where gold was discovered in California for the first time two years before the rush of 1849, appears on the screen as a colorful background of "Henry Goes Arizona." The picture tells the hilarious story of a vaudeville actor who inherits a tough Western ranch.

SATURDAY

Brown-haired, hazel-eyed Adele Pearce, after striving valiantly for recognition in Hollywood for nearly three years, has finally been awarded with her RKO Radio's "Pop Always Pays." Unusually gifted with dramatic talent, Adele's film career thus far has been confined to minor roles in such recent pictures as "Three Sons," "Full Confession" and "Sorcery House" in addition to her "Stage Door." Studio executives believe she is one of the most promising discoveries of recent years.

A hilarious high speed comedy, "Pop Always Pays," also features Leon Errol, Dennis O'Keefe and Walter Catlett.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Mischa Auer, who can't play a note on the violin, owes his start in life to one of the greatest violinists of all time.

The lank comedian appearing with Bob Burns in Universal's "Alias the Deacon" at the Gayety was brought to America at the age of 15 as a refugee of the Russian revolution.

The man who made it possible for Mischa to escape was his grandfather, Leopold Auer, the famous violin maestro. He took the youth under his wing, sent him to school and encouraged him in his ambition to go on the stage.

Don't miss this big picture of Bob Burns. You'll enjoy every minute of this interesting comedy.

TUES., WED., THURSDAY AND FRIDAY

Revealing the entire story of the thrilling drama of oil for the first time, with a story that is entirely one of action and with a star group that includes Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Claudette Colbert and Hedy Lamarr, "Boom Town" will be shown at the Gayety for four days.

"Boom Town" is a cavalcade of oldism as "Test Pilot" covered the dramatic story of testing thrills in the skies. It is a dramatic story of two friends who carry on thru reversals and successes even when one marries the sweetheart of the other. The friendship breaks dramatically and is renewed just as dramatically when the unmarried friend breaks up an affair between his former sweetheart's husband and an adventuress.

Through this story run scenes of roari' gushers, flaming oil fires, whiff! out with TNT, blistering fist hits, a head-first dive into a mud to escape a rain of bullets, the hero on a bucking mule, a thrilling hold-up, a scrap between two dance hall girls and thousands of other fast-action sequences.

FIRST GAME WON BY PETERSBURG

IN CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES AT BURLINGTON BASEBALL PARK SATURDAY—DECK HURLS 3-HIT GAME.

Petersburg drew first blood in the Boone County baseball championship series with Burlington at the local park Saturday afternoon when they soundly thumped the home team by a 6 to nothing score. The next game, second of a three-game series, will be played at the Petersburg lot Saturday afternoon, Oct. 19th.

Henry Deck, Petersburg's edition of Bucky Walters (a fair third baseman too) knocked at the door of the hall of fame in letting the losers down with only three scattered hits. To show Deck's complete mastery of the situation, the big right-hander faced only twenty-eight men during the game.

Albert Sebree, Burlington center fielder, got two of the three bingles but he was doubled off first once and was caught out base another time. D. Kirk's double gave Burlington their only base runner.

Deck, besides handuffing the Burlington nine, issued no passes and struck out ten men.

R. Bradburn led the winner's offensive with three base smashes. Rector and Deck also connected for two each.

The contest was witnessed by one of the largest crowds of the season.

Petersburg wins Saturday's contest they will clinch the championship. Should Burlington win, the series will go into a third and deciding game to be played at a place selected later.

IS IT PRINCIPLE OR POLITICS?

Address by Hon. James F. Byrnes, of South Carolina

Mr. Harrison. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the Appendix of the Record an address delivered by the Senator from South Carolina (Mr. Byrnes) on September 20, 1940 over the red network of the National Broadcasting Co., entitled "Is It Principle or Politics?" There being no objection, the address was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

Is It Principle or Politics?

It is somewhat surprising that the Republican candidate, who, but a few short weeks ago, was shouting that he hoped that President Roosevelt would run again because he wanted to meet the "challenge" is now crying that the "challenge" should not run for a third term.

Daily Mr. Willkie attributes to President Roosevelt the statement that he is indispensable. In 1932 Mr. Roosevelt said there was no indispensable man. In 1940 he would make the same statement.

At this critical juncture in America's history the people are not concerned with any theoretical discussion of a third term or whether any man is indispensable. The issue that concerns them is whether it is better that Franklin D. Roosevelt or Wendell L. Willkie should be the next President of the United States.

wisely refused to limit the number of terms a President might serve. In the century and a half that has elapsed the Congress has not even submitted to the people an amendment limiting the tenure of the President to one or two terms, because they knew the people would never surrender the right to elect whom they pleased for as many terms as they pleased.

The views of the people are in accord with those of George Washington, who said:

"Under an extended view of this part of the subject, I can see no propriety in precluding ourselves from the services of any man who on some great emergency shall be deemed universally most capable of serving the public."

The emergency today is great. It is evident from the appropriation of millions of dollars for armament and the drafting of men. That the President is deemed universally most capable of serving the people is evident from every point.

The view of Washington has been the view of the most conservative and thoughtful students of our constitutional history. As the late Senator Borah, who had as much regard for constitutional traditions as any man I have ever known, said:

"The people who could be trusted to determine whether or not they desire a President for the second term may also be trusted to determine whether or not they desire a President for a third term. I think they can be trusted to settle both questions in a way to best conserve the interest of the people and the Republic."

It is difficult to understand how Republicans who, in 1912, supported Theodore Roosevelt for a third term can seriously invoke the third-term argument against Franklin D. Roosevelt. And he remembered that that great Democrat, Woodrow Wilson, who defeated Theodore Roosevelt, refused to use against his opponent the third-term argument, declaring that no restriction should ever be placed upon the right of the people to elect a President.

The Republican candidate asks if a third term, why not a fourth term? I ask, if a second term, why not a third term?

The answer to both questions is that the people can be trusted to wisely select the man best qualified to serve them under existing conditions. No man need fear a third term unless he fears the people.

Just prior to the Democratic convention, the Gallup poll showed 92 percent of the Democrats of the Nation meaning the nomination of Roosevelt. More than 80 percent of the delegates were instructed by the people, either at elections or in State conventions, to vote for the nomination of the President, Mr. Willkie says the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt was a "cut and dried" affair. It was the people made it so by instructing the delegates to vote for the man they wanted.

whose 8 years' experience had demonstrated his fitness for the Presidency. The people left no opportunity, as at Philadelphia, for any group, by a blitzkrieg of publicity and deluge of telegrams, to nominate a man who had never been voted for by the people of any community for any office.

When you hear men talking about the sacred tradition against a third term, you will find upon investigation that, with very few exceptions, the defenders of tradition opposed President Roosevelt for a second term, and probably for a first term. Their attitude is based upon politics, not upon principle.

Reporting Mr. Willkie's speech in Albuquerque, the United Press said:

"The third-term argument that Mr. Roosevelt has been in office 8 years and therefore is more experienced than a man who has not been in office at all, Willkie described as 'ridiculous, fantastic, a child's-play argument, one that cannot stand up.'"

Well, let us see. Would you need the services of a lawyer to save your property, or a physician to save your life, believe it fantastic to employ a man with years of experience instead of a man with no experience?

When Mr. Willkie resigned as president of the Commonwealth and Southern Utility Corporation, he and his associates selected as their president a man who had been connected with that corporation and its predecessor for 28 years, and knew its problems.

Yet you stockholders and directors in the greatest of all enterprises, the Government of the United States, are urged to dispense with the services of a capable and experienced President, and replace him with a man who has had no experience in Government.

And you are asked to do this at a period when the nighttime prayers of men, women and children go up to thank God for His guidance—and to ask that their President be given continuing strength and wisdom in his self-sacrificing task of keeping America safe and free.

During my service in Congress, I have seen five different Presidents assume office. Some of them had long experience in State or National Government, yet every one of them would have admitted that much of his first year in office was spent studying the powers of the office and the vast machinery of Government. Can this Nation, under conditions now existing, take a chance upon inexperienced men for an indefinite period?

The Republican candidate would like to make the American people believe that we cannot have a continuity of national leadership for 12 years without sacrificing democracy. He forgets that when King has been Prime Minister of Canada for four terms; that Stanley Baldwin and Ramsay MacDonald have served as Prime Ministers of England for three terms, and that De Valera has been Prime Minister of the Irish Free State for four terms.

The Republican candidate warns of dictatorship. No modern dictator has waited for a third term to become dictator. The danger to democracy comes from an inexperienced statesman who has handled the gravest domestic emergencies without calling out troops, and without the use of labor espionage, but from an inexperienced leadership which becomes panic stricken in time of crisis. The American people know the faults and the virtues of President Roosevelt. They remember 1933. They know how he would act in the gravest emergency. They do not know how Mr. Willkie would act under grave stress and strain.

The Republican candidate says a third term will result in a dictatorship. There can be no dictatorship where we have a free press, free speech, and free elections.

No one questions the freedom of our elections. A recent poll showed two-thirds of the newspapers opposing Mr. Roosevelt. Surely no one can question the freedom of the press under the Roosevelt administration.

Mr. Willkie himself provides positive proof that this is a land of free speech. It is this free speech that is proving his undoing. Had the Republican National Committee, upon the adjournment of the Philadelphia convention, sent Mr. Willkie abroad, there might have been a possibility of his election. His speeches have removed that possibility. Through his speeches the people have come to know him. They have heard him question the veracity of Mr. Roosevelt and refer to the President as "this fellow." Perhaps I am old-fashioned. Perhaps I cling sentimentally to things I learned—in the long ago—to respect. I have respect for the President, whether he is a Republican or a Democrat. And if I know the heart of the American people, they do not approve of any man speaking contemptuously of the President of the United States.

It was as unpleasant to me as it must have been to millions of Americans to learn that Mr. Willkie as he left Chicago resorted to profanity and consigned that American city to the lower regions. That it was not pleasant to read that on the same day in speaking to workers at industrial plants, Mr. Willkie liberally sprinkled his remarks with profane words. He was not recorded as using profane language in speaking to others. If he did this deliberately, believing it would enhance his popularity among those workers, it was an insult to every wage earner in this democracy. If as I prefer to believe, he did not do it deliberately, it evidences a lack of control of deplorable in one seeking the Presidency of the United States.

The Republican candidate's charge that President Roosevelt telephoned Hitler and Mussolini urging them to "sell Czechoslovakia down the river" shocked the American people. A few hours later, a member of the brain trust accompanying him announced that Mr. Willkie did not mean what he had said. Secretary Hull states that the President did not telephone to either Hitler or Mussolini; that his only communication was through diplomatic channels and was immediately made known to the American people. You and I recall the President's statement: "The conscience and the impelling desire of the people of my country demand that the voice of this Government be raised again, and yet again to avert and to avoid war." His voice was truly the voice of America.

Whenever war threatened, President Roosevelt appealed for peace. Mr. Willkie says the appeal failed. If it did, I do not believe it would have been any more effective had it been sprinkled with profane words.

In Illinois, Mr. Willkie declared: "Of all the people with whom I have any acquaintance, I know this came as a shock to thoughtful Republicans who differ with Mr. Roosevelt as to domestic problems, but admire his wonderful grasp of foreign problems. It is for them, and it is for you to say whether these irresponsible statements demonstrate that the candidate possesses the poise and control essential to leadership of the American people."

The United Press quoted Mr. Willkie as saying, in Texas on Tuesday last:

"Just to think that only in a few isolated spots in all this world people may gather as we are gathered tonight, and men may speak as I speak to you, to determine what shall be the future of our Government."

Splendid. But he omitted to say that the freedom for which he claimed to be grateful was enjoyed under the administration of the Republican candidate. In order that this freedom may be preserved for him and for all other Americans, the people are determined to reelect President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

THE MESSAGE OF JOHN THE BAPTIST

LESSON TEXT—Luke 3: 3, 17, 21, 22. GOLDEN TEXT—Bring forth, therefore, fruits worthy of repentance—Luke 3: 8.

Four centuries of silence! God made a loving appeal to His people through Malachi, the prophet (see Luke of June 23), but they failed to respond for about 400 years. No prophet had appeared with an authoritative message from God. But now "God, who at sundry times and in diverse manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets" was ready in the "last days" to speak by "his Son" (Heb. 1:12).

Before the Lord should come, however, the prophet Isaiah (40:3-5) had declared that a voice was to come out of the wilderness to cry, "Prepare ye the way of the Lord." The great honor of that ministry rugged old fall upon striking figures or political leaders mentioned in Luke 3:1, but "the word of God came unto John . . . in the wilderness." When God calls a preacher, something great and interesting is about to happen.

I. The Preacher—His Call and Character. It is significant that the call of God for this ministry passed by the mighty of Rome, which was politically powerful, holding sway over the world of its day. It is doubly significant that it passed by Jerusalem, the religious center of the Jewish nation. God was not looking for influence, prestige, or position. He was looking for a man, and He found a man who had seen him in the wilderness. Where is God's man for our day?

The character of John is revealed to us by Scripture as unique and rugged. John was a striking figure. He came suddenly out of the wilderness, but the outstanding qualification of John was that he was humble and obedient to God's will. Upon John, the religious center of the Jewish nation, God was looking for influence, prestige, or position. He was looking for a man, and He found a man who had seen him in the wilderness. Where is God's man for our day?

II. His Message—Its Nature and the Reaction (vv. 3, 8-14). Repentance, as evidenced by baptism, was the reaction of the people to John's message. He did not grant them absolution from their sins, but in repentance they were to look forward to the cleansing from sin by the washing of water in the name of the Lord. John's message was the forerunner of Christ. His message of repentance was a preparation for the coming message of redemption.

The reaction of the people is expressed in the question, "What must we do?" Much more would be accomplished for Christ in our day if that were the response of people to the preaching of the truth. Instead of criticizing or condemning the preacher, or the sermon, let us ask, "What shall I do about it?" and then let us do it.

The answer of John was that each one should, by his works, show the reality of his repentance in the details of his daily work and life. Of course, the all-important thing is that a man should believe in Christ, and by faith receive Him as Saviour, but that faith must show itself in daily living or it is meaningless, and in fact, nonexistent. The world is full of those who need to answer our Lord's own question, "Why call ye me Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?" (Luke 6:46).

III. His Ministry to Jesus—the Baptism and Heavenly Response (vv. 15-17, 21, 22). The forthright honesty and the humility of John appeared in his immediate correction of the people's mistaken idea that he was the Christ. He made clear that his baptism with water, indicating their change of mind concerning sin, would only have real meaning as the coming One—his Lord and ours—would change their natures by the baptism of fire and of the Spirit.

Jesus, who knew no sin of which to repent, took the place of a penitent sinner and was baptized by John. Thus He, the sinless One, entered upon His public ministry and His work of redemption by taking the place of fallen humanity. What infinite grace and condescension!

As He prayed, after John had baptized Him, the heavens opened and the Holy Spirit, taking the form of the gentle dove, rested upon Him. God the Father spoke forth heaven's estimate of our Saviour: "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." This attestation of His divinity and recognition of His spotless life and character was for Him, but not for Him alone. It speaks to us, even as it has spoken to all men through the centuries, of the One who is Saviour and Lord. "He is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them." For such an high priest becometh us, who is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners, and made higher than the heavens" (Heb. 7:25, 26).

Foot Health In Relation To Mental Health

When you suffer from flat feet, your muscular system is taxed and irritates the nerves of the foot, simultaneously affecting the entire delicate nervous system, causing it to function at less than normal capacity. The result of this whole action is a generalized irritability and unrest in the individual.

Ordinarily the body can overcome the irritations of its various sick parts, and is capable of removing the effects of the disease. The disturbances of the foot, however, are often subject to influences which the body has great difficulty in combating.

The foot according to dictates of society should be housed in a protective leather or cloth covering, which must meet the aesthetic tastes of the prevailing fashion. Thus, if the fashion dictates that, long thin shoes be worn, thousands of individuals with short wide feet will attempt to crowd them into long thin, shoes, and visa-versa.

The vagaries of fashion may thus make you comfortable one season and uncomfortable another. However, when we consider the permanent effects of this change of style, we realize that the foot, which has a fairly permanent shape, has to respond like an elastic band. The harm wrought in one season does not disappear the next, but may rather be accentuated in some significant degree, as for example the BUNION.

Once this defect is formed the foot is placed daily in what may be considered a vice or mold and the normal metabolism or growth activity of the foot is interfered with. The attempts of the body to overcome the irritation are frustrated and the physical ailment grows and becomes more pernicious. The mental effects of this constant irritant are such as to set up a continual hypersensitiveness in all behavior.—Adv.

Roofing Company Opens Display Room

A modern downtown display room at 329 Scott Street, Covington, by the Kentucky Roofing and Supply Co. The company is the authorized dealer and applicator of The Philip Carey Company products. Leo Lawson, a native of Covington, is manager of the new concern. The company is fully equipped to handle a complete line of home modernization, including new roofing, modern asbestos cement and brick siding for frame homes, insulation, weatherstripping and general alterations.

An innovation just released by the Carey organization and handled exclusively throughout Kenton County by the local concern, is the new patented Reducor System, for reconditioning old and worn out roofs. This system magically transforms an old roof into a new one without disturbing the structure of the old roof. An old roof can be converted in a few hours into a brand new Reducor system, color chosen by the home owner.

Funds To Be Raised Through Novel Plan

Members of the congregation of the Richmond Presbyterian Church and others in the community, have been urged to participate in a novel plan for raising extra money for holiday charities and for liquidating the debt on the new Community House recently erected by Mrs. B. N. Cdx and Mrs. G. L. Robinson, chairmen of the Committee of the Auxiliary.

This plan is based on the widespread acceptance of a similar plan last year. It gives recognized churches of any denomination or sect an opportunity to get extra money by sending in wrappers of Proctor & Gamble products between September 16 and December 2, 1946. The company will redeem in combined total quantities of two hundred or more, Camay Soap Wrappers, Ivory Flakes box tops, and one-pound and three-pound Crisco labels. Complete details are available from the church committee. A collection box where wrappers, box tops, and labels may be deposited has been left at Lusby's Grocery Store, Walton; Dickerson's Grocery Store, Union; Newman's Grocery Store, Union; and Callahan's Grocery Store, Richmond. Help out a good cause by saving your wrappers and putting them in one of the boxes in these stores.

Who Owns This Bank?

You probably know the answer, yet it's one of those simple, obvious facts that are often lost sight of. The stockholders who own this bank are your neighbors and ours—average citizens who take part in the home, social and business life of this community.

They invested their money in our capital stock because they had faith in the community's future, and in the progressiveness of their fellow men. Often the money they invested was part of their hard-earned life savings.

This confidence on the part of our stockholders who in turn enjoy the confidence and respect of many others, is a good-will-building force which we value highly.

Change the flavor of pie crust by adding a teaspoon of grated orange peel and one fourth teaspoon of grated lemon peel to each 2 cups flour. . . . Custard and pumpkin pies should be stored in a cold place after they have cooled from the oven temperature. . . . Equal parts of flour and cornstarch gives best results in cream pies as lemon, butterscotch, chocolate and orange. . . . When making pie crust bake the left-over crust on inverted muffin tin for tarts for another meal. Too much water makes pie crust tough and also hard to roll. Story Of Killing 74 Years Ago Told By Chas. A. Fowler

I wonder how many are living today who were in Burlington the first Monday in April 1866? It was on that day that Weaver shot Merchant—but more about that later, as I will first try to tell you what led to the killing.

The characters in this story were Ephraim Weaver and Cyrus Merchant. Hereafter they will be called Weaver and Merchant.

What I am going to tell you now is what I have heard. It seems that Merchant was the Captain of a troop of soldiers who visited the farm where Weaver lived with his mother who was widow. The soldier's business there was to get horses for the army, and of course they just took them and paid nothing.

Well as the story goes, Weaver's mother went out to the barn and said "Please don't take my old riding horse." Merchant knocked her down with his old army gun.

Weaver, who was a boy at the time, tried to help his mother and Merchant gave him a beating, and left him for dead. But he did not die, and when he was revived he said he would kill Merchant the first time he met him. However he did not get him the first time, for they met at uncle Gus Weaver's Mill on Gunpowder right after the war in 1866, but did not know each other, and Gus and his son Joe Weaver managed to keep them separated until they had their meal and flour and left the mill.

Now don't get names mixed, for Eph Weaver also had a son named Joe and he is living today, and later in this story will be told the information I obtained from him, and all who are acquainted with him will not be in doubt as to its truth, for he is one of the solid citizens of old Boone County.

Now, if these are the facts, and I have no reason to doubt them, Merchant was brutal, and I think most any man would make up his mind as Weaver did that day. I can't say to the time this took place, but sometime between 61 and '66, but as I told you in the beginning the killing was on County Court day, the first Monday in April 1866.

Frank Kirkpatrick and myself were there in the street watching the fine horses, for that was the day horsemen from all over Boone and other counties brought their fine stallions to the county seat.

I would estimate that 20 to 25 of them were there on that day. The shooting took place immediately after dinner. As I remember, there were fifteen or eighteen hundred people in town when the first shot was fired. I was standing with my chum when a man came up behind us, gently pushed us aside as he passed. Now if I remember, I think he said "Stand aside please." Of course we did not know what was going to happen, or no doubt, I for one would have caved the mail right then.

I want to tell you now, that we were between 8 and 9 years old, and both barefooted, so you will know we were fixed to make time when the first shot was fired. Weaver walked on about twenty or thirty feet and he either knelled on one knee or squatted down behind his man and fired. They tell me he fired two more shots after he fell, but if he did I failed to hear them for I was long gone.

There were no houses on the square where the bank stands except the old County Clerk's office. I missed that by inches and also big Jim Calvert's house which stood where the drive to the County garage now is located, and then I had clear sailing from there home, about a quarter of a mile as the crow flies and I made it in nothing flat. At that time I lived where Courtney Kelly now lives. Frank Kirkpatrick never could tell me how he reached home but I think he flew.

As soon I could get my breath, I told my father what had happened and he came right over to town and I came with him. Merchant had been moved over from the old courthouse yard under a tree on the west side. I remember he wore a coonskin cap and that cap was under his head. I saw blood on brains all over the back of his head, and the cap was blood. They carried him up into one of the upstairs rooms in the building where Conner's restaurant is now located, and I think he lived about five hours. There was lots of excitement there for a time, but I was gone before it began.

Weaver was arrested and was denied bond and turned over to the jailer. He was tried at the April term of Circuit Court which started April 9th and continued six or more days in order to try this case. His trial began April 24th and was completed April 30th. He was charged with wilful murder, but the verdict of the jury was "not guilty."

The following men served on the jury: Leonard Lassing, Foreman, Wm. W. Rogers, Henry Preston, Milton Wilcox, Leo W. Craig, Edward Northcutt, James Fry, John Powers, James West, Henry Fry and J. W. Kennedy.

John L. Scott was prosecuting attorney but I don't know who represented Weaver. A. G. Winston was Circuit Clerk, Leo B. Loder, Dr. B. F. Stevenson, James Calvert and A. W. Winston were witnesses for the Commonwealth. Alonzo Garner was foreman of the grand jury that indicted Weaver.

I will now tell you what I think cleared Weaver. Merchant had dinner that day at the home of Archibald Thompson with several other men, and according to the evidence said at the table that he understood Weaver was to be in town that day and said "If he is one of us will have to die before night." He was right for he only lived about five hours.

Joe Weaver, son of the man who did the shooting told me that his father did not know Merchant, and he acquired three or four men before he found a man who knew him—that man was Mid McManama. He also said he told him that he squatted down to keep from shooting into the buildings and to keep from killing or injuring anyone else. Joe also told me that he has the old Colt revolver that was used on that day, and it has two shells left in the cylinder, as it was a five-shot gun. The gun was loaded with caps and balls.

He and others have told me that there are bloody finger prints on a post in that old barn on his grandmother's farm, showing where the Weaver boy pulled himself up after Merchant and his soldiers had left.

Now I want to clear myself, for if it had not been for so many people insisting that I write this article, the public would not have been bothered with this account. I hope I have told you nearly what happened, but if I have missed anything, I hope you will pardon me. I hope the printer will not fall out with me when he tries to copy this, for I can neither see, hear or write like I could 40 or 50 years ago.

My memory cuts some figure, for I almost forgot to tell you that the old jail, at that time, stood between Mr. Cy Cowen's house and the Bellevue road, and the old courthouse was built in 1817, and the brick pillars in 1823.

BOONE DRAFT BOARD NAMED

FIVE MEN ARE NAMED TO HANDLE CONSCRIPTION OF CIVILIANS FOR MILITARY TRAINING.

Boone county's draft board composed of George Baker, Beaver, Chairman, Robert Eastman, Florence, secretary, Al Stephens, Petersburg, Dr. S. B. Nunnally, Burlington, Chas. W. Riley, Appeal Agent, and Mrs. Dorothea Ryle, Clerk, met at the court house Monday evening to complete plans for their parts in the conscription of civilians for military training.

At the meeting Monday evening the 1300 cards were filled out on registration day, Wednesday of last week, were graded and those not belonging to this county were sent to Frankfort for proper filing. After grading of the cards those remaining were shuffled and stacked for numbering.

Each person's registration card will be given a number by the clerk of the board. The numbers and names will be posted on a large placard in the court house in order that each man registered may obtain his number, either through this method or by checking his number in the Recorder, when a list of all enrolled will be carried.

Registrants will be required to obtain the number of their card, which can be obtained at the local headquarters.

When the draft is conducted on October 29, in Washington, the numbers assigned the local registrants will be listed in order corresponding to the order they are drawn at Washington.

Registrants then will be notified they are to report to their local draft offices for classification. Four classes, ranging from those ready for immediate training to those physically or mentally unfit, will be made.

Any registrant who feels that he has been placed in the wrong class may take his case to Chas. W. Riley, appeal agent. Some adjustments may be made in that manner and there also are higher appeal boards for those still dissatisfied. BURLINGTON EVENS COUNT

IN BOONE COUNTY BASEBALL CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES BY DEFEATING PETERSBURG 9 TO 6.

"Get on Deck" was Burlington's war cry last Saturday as they evened the County baseball championship series with Petersburg by defeating them 9 to 6. Petersburg, after winning the opening game at Burlington with Henry Deck pitching masterful three-hit ball, put D. Deck (Henry's young brother) on the mound last week, but the locals combed him for seven hits and six runs in three innings. Manager Bill Bradburn then rescued the youngster by sending Henry to the mound. Burlington got three more runs on three hits and some loose fielding in the final six stanzas.

The game was somewhat bad, defensively, however a number of sparkling plays kept the crowd well interested. Stuart Ryle, Burlington twirler, pitched five-hit ball and fanned eight men. He was in trouble only in a few spots.

Best offensively for the winners were Sebree with a double and single, and Huey with a triple and single. Huey's triple came with the bases congested.

The third and deciding game of the series will be played at Petersburg next Saturday. Game time will be at 1:45 C. S. T. At this time it is not known who the Petersburg mound selection will be, but Manager Bradburn indicated that he might select a dark horse, Charles Benson, Burlington skipper, will rely on Ryle to bring the championship to Burlington.

FOR EDUCATIONAL REASONS

No matter the size of the town, whether it is a metropolitan center or only a country cross-roads, there exists in most areas today an organization of parents and teachers who have formed a group for the enrichment and better understanding of educational problems and advantages. The very first such association was organized in 1897 and today we find more than two million men and women engaged in this worthy endeavor. There are various needs and varied interests in each community; it serves but through a national or local Parent-Teacher Association holds to a common purpose, that of working together for the best in our schools. As they stress this point, do we also, for without this feature the cause would be less worthy. This point: that there is no line drawn for social and financial position, each creed and nationality is given a fair show and that all children meet on a common ground is the center platform in the parent and teacher association. It offers its members an equal opportunity of self-expression, a voice in any opinion, a share of the responsibility and a vote in the naming of officers for its government.

Any community that is served by this association usually finds an interesting movement under way, most of the time, to improve the community and enrich the schools for our children. Our readers in Boone County join in offering encouragement and we anticipate new fields for progress in the schools of the country.

ALTERING A DECISION

For many years past, labor has strongly objected to compulsory military training and for many years before that labor very strongly objected to war. Labor carries a heavy burden during any war-time as today's picture in London is explanatory enough. The working classes there are finding the destruction heaviest in their districts, their efforts for salvage calls for constant endeavor and relentless toil and too, the casualty lists of Great Britain are heavy with civilian names. The objection of unions to conscription is removed at this time for labor is looking about to see how necessary is preparedness. Labor realizes that Germany abolishes all unions of workmen and takes from them the right of independent action and speech; of the wage and hour scale, where the laborer works and even tells him what he can eat. Where Germany conquers there disappears the union of labor. Look at France. The unions in Great Britain are behind her for they fully are aware that this struggle is to preserve the rights of the laborers to bargain and to organize. Great Britain will not take this privilege from them. And so our American labor lifts the decision against compulsory military training and is not going to put a cog into the machinery that will give this country the opportunity to defend its labor unions if the need comes, but to uphold the right of all classes for representation which is vital in the blood of any nation.

NO CERTAINTY HERE

We are to believe that the change of a season is to be marked by a certain day, as naming a date for the opening of summer and another as the commencing of fall. Most of us have our private opinion about a certain day beginning a season, for in our lifetime we noticed that Mother Nature has a way of upsetting dates and fooling prognosticators. Fall does not begin on September 23 throughout the entire country. Ask those who travel whether autumn is at the same time in Maine as it is in Mississippi. Follow the weather through the spring and see how close summer comes to June 21. The people who live in the southern hemisphere tell us that their season after June 21 closer approaches a winter period rather than summer. Here in Boone County where our seasons do not agree two years in a row we are of the opinion to go by the change in underwear rather than a change in dates.

HERE AND THERE

As we go to press the shouts from the big league baseball parks have died their natural death and the bases are emptied until another year. The recent World Series has again proven that the best team wins. We are reminded of a story told by a man on our radio concerning a telegrapher in a London underground station. The telegrapher sat twisting dials and setting ear-phones the better to get the news. When asked what was now coming in, and naturally expecting to hear of raids over London and bombs near at hand, the telegrapher excitedly answered that Detroit and Cincinnati were to play off the World Series. A far cry indeed from a U. S. baseball diamond and sad too when you visualize the picture. We are hourly finding instances that give us examples of the strength of those in England. Boone Countians admire such courage that is displayed on every hand and the marvels at what man can endure so bravely.

WE SHALL SEE

America has relied upon Paris to give this nation's womenfolk the lead in clothes styles. Present conditions here who are equally as gifted but all eyes seemed to turn to Paris for dictation in the trend of styles in clothes. Now we must furnish our own fashions shows, decree our own styles, give acclaim to our own designers. New York held a large showing of American designed clothes but the reviews indicate that the costumes were not exciting enough to cause our startling designs that Paris put over so cleverly. According to the views of most men here in Boone County and elsewhere, maybe the style's weren't crazy enough to attract the feminine eye. But give us time, Paris!

IMPROVED
SUNDAY SCHOOL LessonBy HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D.D.

CHRISTIAN MOTIVES FOR ABSTINENCE

LESSON TEXT—Luke 1:13-16; 2:40; 4:4; GOLDEN TEXT—For the kingdom of God we must not eat and drink, but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost—Romans 14:17.

Life is our most precious possession. No intelligent person will waste its fleeting moments, nor defer to a later season the living of its life to the best advantage. We live now—today.

Nor is any thoughtful one ready to let life slip by without its finest and richest return of usefulness and blessing, not only to himself, but to others. International Temperance Sunday affords us an opportunity to show our young people, that those who indulge in intoxicants cannot live such a life.

We suggest that a satisfying life is I. Useful (Luke 1:13-16).

John was to be born into a life of such blessedness to God and man that he was to be a "joy and gladness" to his parents, "great in the sight of the Lord," and instructing in turning "many of the children of Israel to the Lord."

Such a life is worthy of emulation on the part of every young man and woman. What is the secret of it? Undoubtedly, the Christian parentage had much to do with it. We note that God began preparing this great character a generation before he was born. Other elements also entered in, such as rearing and training, but most important of all was the fact (v. 15) that he was not to be driven by the false stimulants of this world, but by the infilling of the Holy Spirit of God. No "wine nor strong drink," but being "filled with the Holy Ghost"—there, young people, is the secret of a happy and useful life.

II. Normal (Luke 2:40).

These words stress the fact that Jesus developed normally—physically, mentally, and spiritually. Let us emphasize the need of letting children develop and grow normally, for we live in a day of constant high pressure, when even the life of a child is not permitted to grow in its God-intended peace and according to the normal processes of nature. Give your boys and girls time, and encourage them to grow normally.

Obviously, the use of strong drink can only hinder, make abnormal, or destroy such normal growth. Let's rule it out altogether and let our people grow and wax strong in the Lord.

III. Well-Balanced (4:4; 6:21, 25).

Making a life more important than making a living. The bread of this world is not enough; we must have the satisfying portion of fellowship with God. This we find in His Word. Nothing material, social or mental will fully satisfy the soul of man. His heart cries out for a message from God.

Intoxicants make men to laugh when they ought to weep, give them a false satisfaction which is followed by an increased hunger. They are unbalanced individuals.

Why not be among those who, knowing God and His Word, are intelligent enough to laugh at the right time, weep at the right time, and who know how to choose that which truly satisfies for time and eternity.

IV. Fundamentally Right (6:43-45).

There is a false optimism which would have us think we can sow to the wind and avoid reaping the whirlwind. Men are encouraged to let them can waste their time and their substance, taking into their bodies the destructive elements of intoxicating liquors, and somehow come out all right. Young people are lured by clever advertising to think it is socially correct and smart to indulge, and that there will be no evil effects. Such an obvious falsehood should not fool any keen young man or woman.

The roots of an evil life bring forth corruption, for the heart of a man who follows after sin cannot bring forth that which is good. The kind of a person you are in your heart, the things you do when no one sees, the seeds you sow in indulgent and profligate living—these determine character and destiny for time and eternity.

Just so, fine, noble and upright thoughts and actions will bring forth glorious life and useful lives—a delight to God and man—well-balanced—normally developed—not only without a regret at the end of life's road, but finding there God's approval.

He Did
Then the king commanded, and they brought Daniel, and cast him into the den of lions. Now the king spake and said unto Daniel, Thy God whom thou servest continually, he will deliver thee.—Daniel 6:16.Think It Over
For what is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul; or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul.—Matt. 16:26.

You can buy silence and that is why we have such a thing as a mob.

Foot Health In Relation To Mental Health

N. TULCH

Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT
9th and Madison Covington

When you suffer from flat feet, your muscular system is taxed and irritates the nerves of the foot, simultaneously affecting the entire delicate nervous system, causing it to function at less than normal capacity. The result of this whole action is a generalized irritability and unrest in the individual.

Ordinarily the body can overcome the irritations of its various sick parts, and is capable of removing the effects of the disease. The disturbances of the foot, however, are often subject to influences which the body has great difficulty in combating.

The Foot, according to dictates of society should be housed in a protective leather or cloth covering, which must meet the aesthetic tastes of the prevailing fashion. Thus, if the fashion dictates that long thin shoes be worn this winter, thousands of individuals with short wide feet will attempt to crowd them into long, thin shoes, and vice-versa.

The Vagaries of fashion may thus make you comfortable one season and uncomfortable another. However, when we consider the permanent effects of this change of style, we realize that the foot which has a fairly permanent shape, has to respond like an elastic band. The harm wrought in one season does not disappear the next, but may rather be accentuated in some significant degree as for example the BUNION.

Once this defect is formed the foot is placed daily in what may be considered a Vice or Mold, and the normal metabolism or growth activity of the foot is interfered with. The attempts of the body to overcome the irritation are frustrated and the physical ailment grows and becomes more pernicious. The mental effects of this constant irritant are such as to set up a continual hypersensitiveness in all behavior.—Adv.

Who Owns This Bank?

You probably know the answer, yet it's one of those simple, obvious facts that are often lost sight of. The stockholders who own this bank are your neighbors and ours—average citizens who take part in the home, social and business life of this community.

They invested their money in our capital stock because they had faith in the community's future and in the progressive nature of their fellow men. Often the money they invested was part of their hard-earned life savings.

This confidence on the part of our stockholders who in turn enjoy the confidence and respect of many others, is a good-will-building force which we value highly.

All Shingles Cost Money BUT..

This Shingle Pays a Return on Your Investment

Your money comes back to you saved; in greater home comfort, winter and summer; in added roof beauty. This is the only shingle built with outside slat surface for weather protection; cork layer underneath for insulation. Tests show that it is easily possible for a roof of Carey Cork-insulated Shingles to return its slight additional cost over plain asphalt shingles through the fast saving in a single winter. Before you re-roof or build, come in or write... get all the facts about this shingle that gives you TWO values at ONE cost.

Here's Proof

Place frying pan on hot stove. Lay in small square of Carey Cork-Back Shingle and square of plain shingle. Place finger on each square, as shown. Note that plain shingle gets too hot to touch much more quickly than Cork-Back Shingle—proof that the Cork-Back retards penetration of heat.

It's the Same Old Fight Again This

ROOSEVELT

This Is a Small Measure of Roosevelt's Service to Our People:

Under Roosevelt, Farm Income has nearly doubled. Farm Mortgage interest charges are 40 per cent less than in 1928. Soil Conservation Program has saved 30,000,000 acres. Farm loans have increased the net worth of borrowers 37 per cent. One-fourth of all farms now have access to electricity.

Under Roosevelt, total non-agricultural employment is 9,000,000 greater than 7 years ago. Weekly Payrolls are $113,000,000 greater than they were 7 years ago. Wage earners have benefited by laws enacted granting unemployment compensation, old age insurance and assistance to needy blind and dependent children. Wage and Hour Act has reduced hours and increased pay of millions of workers. Collective bargaining has brought about a decrease of industrial disputes.

Under Roosevelt, National Income increased from $40,000,000,000 in 1932 to $69,500,000,000 in 1939. Employment increased from 37.5 million in 1932 to 45.3 million in 1939. Loans totaling $5,000,000,000 have been made to aid banks. Government purchases of $6,000,000,000 helped every kind of business.

Under Roosevelt, 20,000,000 depositors benefited by RFC loans to banks. Loans have been made to 1,500,000 farmers; 150,000 stockmen; 20,000 disaster sufferers and to 200,000 families for purchasing electrical appliances. Federal Housing Administration has enabled 600,000 families to build or finance homes.

Under Roosevelt in the last 7 years, public works programs have produced $18,000,000,000 worth of public properties and services. WPA has built 450,000 miles of roads; 93,000 bridges; 88,000 public buildings; 12,000 miles of water lines. WPA has served 386,000,000 lunches to undernourished children. PWA financed work since 1933 has constituted 70 per cent of all educational construction. PWA has accounted for more than $3,200,000,000 in orders for materials.

Under Roosevelt, the U. S. Navy, destroyed under Republican administration, has become the most powerful in the world. The Army, which had been reduced and neglected, is being brought up to an authorized strength of 500,000 officers and men. Air forces already increased can now expand easily to a strength of 50,000 planes. When defense program is complete the United States will have a two ocean Navy or 733 fighting ships.

Gayety Theater News

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY
 Fifty-seven dollars was all that stood between Ronald Colman and starvation when he arrived in America from London for a stage career soon after the World War. Just after he had spent the last of the money, Colman, who is starred in Frank Capra's new Columbia picture, "Lost Horizon," which will be shown at the Gayety at popular prices, was given a part in a short-lived play called "The Dauntless Three." He has never had to worry about a role since that time.

SATURDAY
 The feature attraction for the Gayety Saturday will be "3 Faces West," starring John Wayne and Charles Coburn. Added attractions will be Sport Reel, Popeye Cartoon and Chapter 8 "Deadwood Dick."

SUNDAY AND MONDAY
 Femininity will out-nerve that Baby Quintanilla, resumes her proper identity. The baby, who won fame as "Chum," the adopted son of Eddie Cantor in "Forty Little Mothers," and then went to play Clark Gable's son in "Boom Town," is her own feminine self in "Gold Rush Malsie," starring Ann Sothern.

TUESDAY

finds her career handicapped by the open hostility of a powerful, vindictive family controlling the community, is the role portrayed by Anne Shirley in "Anne of Windy Poplars."

WED. THURS. AND FRI., OCT. 30, 31 AND NOVEMBER 1ST
 The California pottery industry makes it bow to the screen in "I Love You Again," co-starring William Powell and Myrna Loy.

An entire pottery factory was rented for one sequence in the production in which Powell is called upon to act as general manager. The pottery yard, kilns and display rooms play an important part in the sequence.

"I Love You Again" is an amusing, fast-moving comedy dealing with the plight of a man who recovers suddenly from an eight-year attack of amnesia only to discover that he no longer knows himself. How he manages to squirm out of any number of tough situations makes for a laugh a minute.

At this time of the year, folks in Boone County wonder what colleges offer besides Saturday football games.

Homemakers' Review Given For Boone County Red Cross Nov. 7th

Drop those scissors and paper doll cut-outs you rug makers—all the lady next door, you know the one who is always too busy with tomato catchup, baby chickens and children, to mind. Tell her that now is the time, for all good neighbors to come to the aid of all good neighbors and make plans to attend the Homemakers' Review, up at, over at, or just at Burlington on November 7th in the evening at the school auditorium. Maybe with the frost she hasn't any more tomatoes. Indeed sorry that we are that she hasn't the Boone County Red Cross does need some money that folds and all the proceeds from this Review will go to the Red Cross.

Did try to get Mrs. Kottmyer, our president but when upon calling her every one between here and Waterloo answered the phone, I just gave up. I wanted to know from her if she was going to sing on the Constance program. Was talking to Marie Hughes, Walton Club and she is going to sing opera music. Didn't know of all of this hidden talent but you can never tell just what is hidden back in the heads of these Homemakers. Nan Ransom and Penny Pennington of New Haven have been seen hitching back and forth from each other house on the Richmond Road. Just what they could be up to is anybody's guess.

Mrs. George Casper and Mrs. Bertha Conrad from over Hebron way have decided not to nail another board until after the Review so that they can devote all of their time to their act.

An extravaganza is being rehearsed by Mrs. Vernon Pope, of Burlington. She has as her assistants all of those charming women of her club.

Mrs. Renaker of the Verona outfit is seeing to it that her actresses are getting plenty of rest so that they will be in first class condition for their fandango.

Haven't heard from Helen Rogers of Grant or Mrs. Beacom, of Taylorsport or from the Bullittville club as to their parts on the program. Will report on them as soon as the news comes to me. All for now—more next week. —Rory Berry.

COUNTY HEALTH NURSE CONDUCTS INSPECTION TOUR

The Red Cross County Health Nurse is now doing health inspection of individual pupils in county schools as rapidly as she can get to them. Constance, Taylorsport, Florence and Beaver Lick have been visited during the past week.

"Aaron Slick From Pumpkin Creek" To Be Presented Nov. 16th

At last and long last at that, the lines of Aaron Slick are breathing life and the most Reverend Beach of the Union Baptist Church is fast turning his cultured delivery into the shts and "shts of old Aaron. Just what his real honest to goodness girl is going to say about his newest love interest, the widow Berry is something to be anticipated.

Emerson Smith, that adonis of U. S. 42 who must have in his earlier life neglected to use regularly, his hair groom, is playing the part of the detective, A character that every melodrama must have is the villain but this is the first time that you will have the pleasure to meet a villain that chews tobacco. We wondered for a long time just why we were having such a hard time hearing lively Clemments. But before long, after being on the stage for quite awhile, with no place to expectorate, we realized that it wasn't just jaw.

Sue Weaver, that pretty little girl is going to be Sis Riggs and does she get into a lot of trouble. Breaks up and most spoils Aaron's chances of proposing.

Doretta Rouse finds herself as a city girl in the country, afraid of turkey gobblers and bulls, and Marie Gschwind, a most proper person can be seen most any practice night swiping from the preacher, his wallet. What goes on.

Mrs. Masters, who is trying to take out the kinks of these old girls and boys is accompanied by aspirin.

IMPROVED
SUNDAY SCHOOL LessonBy HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.

JESUS DECLARES HIS MISSION

LESSON TEXT—Luke 4:16-30.
GOLDEN TEXT—For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost. Luke 19:10.

Ready for service! It's an exciting and auspicious occasion when the one who has prepared for a life work is ready to set forth on his mission. Joy and sorrow mingle; encouragement and opposition both appear, and become a constant companions. Recognizing God and following His word is of greatest importance on such a day.

The mission upon which Jesus entered on the day of our lesson was important far beyond any service of man, for, while He set out upon an earthly mission of doing good, it led to the cross where He offered up deliverance for the captives of Satan. That day found Him back with His own people in the synagogue in His home town.

I. Prophecy Fulfilled (vv. 16-22). It is significant and appropriate that Jesus' declaration of Himself as the fulfillment of Isaiah 61:1, 2 was made in the synagogue on the Sabbath day. He met with the people in the house and at the time set apart for God's worship. He opposed spiritual deadness, the misinterpretation of the truth, the distortion of religious principles; but He was not, as some would have us believe, a religious free lance who despised the established worship of His people.

Having been prepared by the years of silence, and more particularly by the baptism and the temptation in the wilderness, He appeared at the synagogue in Nazareth to declare Himself as the fulfillment of prophecy.

Those who teach that Jesus was only a young Jewish teacher with a new philosophy of life have evidently not read the Scriptures. He knew Himself to be God's Son come into the world to bring the truth of salvation by His own blood to poor, sin-captive, blinded and bruised humanity. He is the Savior!

Look at Isaiah 61:1, 2 and note that Jesus started reading before the end of the sentence. "The day of vengeance of our God" will come. This is the day of grace. Sinners are urged to accept God's love now, and thus to escape the terrible day of judgment.

II. Faith Recognized (vv. 23-27). The Jews gloried in the fact that they were the chosen people of God and insisted it was through the exercises of their formal worship that God's blessing must be received. Now this one whom they erroneously called "Joseph's son" (v. 22) comes to disturb them in their self-satisfaction. He declares by striking words and example that the benefits and blessings of God come through faith and not because of any racial relationship.

The glory of Christianity is that its grace and power are to be received by faith and are fully and freely available to the simplest and poorest of men. Race, position, wealth, education, have nothing to do with it. All too often they are a hindrance, although they ought rather to be a help.

Every reader of these notes, regardless of age, education, wealth or any other condition or circumstance of life, stands on an equal footing before God and has a full and unlimited opportunity to take right now, by faith in Christ, all that God has for him—salvation, spiritual strength and usefulness, joy, peace, and all the other blessings of God. Will you do it?

III. Truth Rejected (vv. 28-30). Like a torch cast into gunpowder, His words set off all the explosive power of narrow bigotry, national pride, jealousy, and they were all "filled with wrath" (v. 28). They rejected not only the truth of His words, but they rejected Him who is the Truth (John 14:6). Note it carefully—in rejecting or neglecting His Word, you reject and neglect Him.

Observe that until the time had come for Him to be "delivered" (Rom. 4:25) into the hands of wicked men to be crucified they could not touch Him. There is no more majestic scene than that in verse 30 where the Son of God turned at the brow of the hill and, walking through the midst of the crowd, went His way.

What have I to fear at the hands of wicked and gossamer men as long as I follow this all-powerful Son of God? He that is for us and in us is greater than he (the devil) that is in the world (I John 4:4). We follow the victorious Christ, who quietly but majestically walks through the ranks of His helpless enemies and goes "His way." Will you join us—today?

Be Temperate
Woe to them that rise up early in the morning that they may follow strong drink; that continue until night, till wine inflame them.—Isa. 5:11.

You won't find many folks today who believe you can get something for nothing.

Sunday used to be a day of rest and today you rest the other six to be ready for Sunday.

UNION HOMEMAKERS
Mrs. Malone Ligon and Mrs. V. G. Young project leaders of the Union Homemakers met on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Walter Ferguson to give the lesson on rug making to some fifteen members present.

This club being one of the youngest in the county is steadily growing and new members are being welcomed at each meeting. Those members who were not affiliated with the Homemakers when the lessons caning and furniture finishing were given are taking this up as a minor project. Any one desiring these lessons can receive full information on the regular meeting date.

Those in attendance were: Mrs. Ralph Barlow, Mrs. Helen Stephens, Mrs. Dorothy Tanner, Mrs. Alma Riley, Mrs. John Elliott, Mrs. Marie McNeely, Mrs. Raymond Newman and the guests for the day, Mrs. John Vest of the Walton Club and Mrs. Marie Hughes, County Project leader.

GRANT HOMEMAKERS
Grant Homemakers had their regular meeting Oct. 17th at the home of Mrs. Hilda Rogers. The morning session was devoted to the regular business and reports.

After lunch the lesson was "Rug Making," and Mrs. Eva May Montgomery gave an interesting lesson on making patterns. The afternoon was taken up with this lesson.

Miss Louise Tinklenburg, program chairman had laughs for the meeting. Everyone had a good time. There were nine members and eight visitors present.

RABBIT HASH HOMEMAKERS
The regular meeting of the Rabbit Hash Homemakers' Club was held at the home of Mrs. Fay Stephens, Oct. 8 with the attendance of eight members, four visitors and our Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Mary Hood Gillaspie. Miss I. D. Isaacs was welcomed into our club as a new member.

As it will be impossible for Miss Gillaspie to meet with the club next month on the regular date, second Tuesday, our meeting was changed to the first Tuesday, Nov. 5th. The club will start work on the major project and all members are urged to be present. Visitors are always welcome. The meeting will be held at the Rabbit Hash Cream Station with Miss Brenda Craig acting as hostess. Roll call to be answered with "What are you going to make in our major project this year?" "Rug Making."

To add funds to our treasury the membership will serve lunch election day at the Cream Station at Rabbit Hash.

Our president, Mrs. Ethel Wilson appointed Mrs. Fay Stephens program chairman for 1940-41 and Mrs. Minnette Stephens, assistant. They will have charge of the program to be presented by the Rabbit Hash Homemakers' Club at Burlington school auditorium in November. This program is to be given by all the Homemaker Clubs of Boone County and the proceeds are to be contributed to the County Red Cross.

After a delicious luncheon was served, Miss Gillaspie called our attention to the "Better Lighting Pictures" that are being used in Mrs. Stephens' home.

Our Home Demonstration Agent suggested that our club have a "Kitchen Gadget Exhibit" at the Community Fair at Hamilton School. Mrs. Ethel Wilson, Mrs. Opal Kelly and Mrs. Minnette Stephens are on the committee in charge of exhibits. Our leader, Mrs. Opal Kelly gave a very interesting and instructive lesson "Rug Making" showing pictures of kinds of patterns to use and kinds to avoid.

Miss Gillaspie displayed some pretty pieces of Leathercraft. Several members ordered material for belts and bookmarkers.

After a very busy and enjoyable day the meeting adjourned.

Publicity Chairman.

AS A FILLER

One subscriber suggests fresh laundry soap as a crack filler for plastered walls and ceilings. It can be used as a filler for floors that are to be varnished, too. Another reader says she always has a small amount of putty someplace in her kitchen in order to fill in the cracks that seem to come around the sink.

Who Owns This Bank?

You probably know the answer, yet it's one of those simple, obvious facts that are often lost sight of. The stockholders who own this bank are your neighbors and ours—average citizens who take part in the home, social and business life of this community.

They invested their money in our capital stock because they had faith in the community's future, and in the progressiveness of their fellow men. Often the money they invested was part of their hard-earned life savings.

This confidence on the part of our stockholders who in turn enjoy the confidence and respect of many others, is a good-will-building force which we value highly.

HOMEMAKERS' REVUE SET FOR NOVEMBER 7TH
The Homemakers' Revue is fast taking shape as they go into the last week of rehearsal. November 7th is the night and Burlington School is the place.
Mrs. Lillian Smith of the Florence club and Mrs. Dillian are working on a number and there seems to be something about it. There will be there too. No details as to what it is as yet.

Last week I didn't have any word from Bullittsville, but all of a sudden I hear that Anna Engle, Nancy Campbell, Norma Bruce and Mrs. Jim Williams are cooking up something. And that reminds me of the good cookies and little society sandwiches that will be served that night. Do hope someone puts in a good old fashioned ham sandwich for me, and leave the rust on the bread too, because I do get hungry long 'bout ten o'clock. Someone told me that Nell Blankenbaker, the general chairman of this shindig is going to have her picture in the paper. And she so timid and retiring too.
